COL. ROOSEVELT A WITNESS

FIFTEEN OF THE CREW DROWNED

British Submarine "B2" Was Cut in Two by the Hamburg
American Amerika

THE FORMER PRESIDENT DECLARES HE NEVER SOLICITED A CONTRIBUTION FROM ANY CORPORATION

THE WATERWAYS COMMISSION

DOVER, England, Oct. 4.—Fifteen officers and men of the British navy were drowned today by the sinking of the submarine "B2" after she had been cut in two by the Hamburg-American liner Amerika off the coast of Kent.

The commander of the little vessel, Lieut. Percy O'Brien, was among the victims, but his second in command, Lieut. Richard L. Pullen, was rescued after being a long time in the water. He was the only survivor and was utterly exhausted when he was picked up.

The disaster in which the "B2" was sunk occurred while the third patrol flotilla of submarines consisting of six vessels was maneuvering off the south foreland on the coast of Kent.

The liner Amerika appears to have cut the submarine completely in halves.

Lieut. Richard L. Pullen, who was second in command, was the only man among the crew of 15 who was saved. He was found floating in the sea too exhausted to say more when he was rescued than: "The submarine is cut in two. I went down a mile."

The "B2" left Dover harbor at 5 a. m. to participate with other submarines in a series of maneuvers. The accident occurred just an hour later.

The young lieutenant collapsed after he was taken from the water and conveyed to the parent ship.

The liner Amerika stood by after the collision and threw life buoys overboard, while a number of torpedo boats after being informed of the accident by wireless searched the sea for hours.

None of the other members of the crew, however, was found and no sign of wreckage was discernible in the vicinity. The Amerika then proceeded on her voyage to Southampton and Cherbourg on her way to New York.

This is the sixth disaster to British submarines, each of them involving the loss of from 11 to 15 lives.

Lieut. Percy O'Brien was the commander of the "B2."

The "B2" was one of the older and smaller class of submarines. She was built with ten sister ships several years ago. Her length was 101 feet and her beam 12 feet, six inches. Her indicated horse power was 600 on the surface and 150 below. Her engines developed a speed of 11 knots on the surface and eight knots submerged. She was fitted with two torpedo tubes and her complement was two officers and 12 men.

MAN DRANK CREOLIN Thought He Was Taking Medicine

Thomas Lyons, aged about 40 years, and residing at 28 Marion street, was removed to the Lowell hospital shortly before 12 o'clock this noon after drinking a large quantity of creolin. His condition is considered serious, and at the time of going to press he was still unconscious.

Lyons, who is employed for the city, did not work this forenoon and shortly before 12 o'clock he took a bottle of creolin from a closet at his home and drank it, thinking it was some medicine. As soon as he discovered he had drunk creolin he called for his wife who was at a neighbor's house and summoned the ambulance and the man who by this time had lost consciousness, was removed in haste to the Lowell hospital. The physicians at the institution fear he will not recover.

MEDITERRANEAN FLEET
Proceed to Levant

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The British Mediterranean fleet was ordered today to proceed to the Levant, according to a news agency dispatch from Gibraltar. The cruiser Venerable immediately left at full speed for Suda bay, on the north coast of Crete.

Local Greeks Ready to Fight and Are Planning to Leave This City for Athens Sunday Night

THE LOCAL GREEK REGIMENT

The local Greek newspaper published an extra edition last night relative to the conflict in which Greece and the Balkan states will engage with Turkey. It wasn't very long after the papers had begun to circulate through the Greek neighborhood that evidence of the widespread interest in the Balkan situation made its appearance. In the streets and cafes and especially at the hall of the Orion Tagma of Greeks, or Holy regiment, 7815 Jefferson street, large gatherings took place and the main topic was the Balkan trouble. One would read a few lines and then all would join in an enthusiastic discussion, to be interrupted only by a further reading. Everywhere could be heard declarations that the call to the colors would not go unheeded. The call to the colors fixes the ages of those who are expected to respond by calling for certain classes. For service in the army or navy the men are those whose ages range from 24 to 53 years. The non-commissioned officers called range in age from 30 to 59 years. The Greeks here declare that the estimates made of the war strength of their country are too low and call attention to the fact that on September

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House
If on Saturday you should see a number of oddly attired horsemen ride into town, don't imagine that it is an Indian invasion, as it will only be the arrival of the Arabs and some of the horses that are used by the Aborn Opera company in "The Bohemian Girl." The Arabs are members of the Hagan Uen All troupe of whitewind acrobats that is a feature of the fair scene in the opera.

"MUTT AND JEFF"
A whirlwind of merriment is sweeping down upon Lowell and will arrive at the Opera House next Tuesday. "Mutt and Jeff" with their family of 45 singers, dancers and comedians will hold "high jinks" for two nights. Millions of people laugh at Bud Fisher's clever cartoons every day, so you can imagine seeing them in real life—fresh and blood—on a great deal funnier than pictures. Dependably because there is a chorus of 25 unusually pretty girls to give color to the entertainment, and a car load of gorgeous scenery.

ELKS BENEFIT SUNDAY
The celebrated band leader Sig. Creator and his fine band and soloists are down for two performances at the Opera House next Sunday. The engagement is for the benefit of the building fund of Lowell lodge No. 57, B. P. O. Elks and two splendid and distinct programs have been arranged for. Exchange tickets for these performances are now for sale by the members of the organization and indications point to crowded houses. Seats are also on sale at the box office.

Sure Way to Regain Robust Bloom of Youth

(From Woman's Tribune)
A smooth, velvety-soft skin, with a delicate peach-like bloom, is one of the Creator's most exquisite works. When the first blush of youth is over, this beautiful tint and satiny lustre are rapidly seen to flow to preserve them—this is the question. Famous beauty experts abroad have known that ordinary mercurized wax works wonders in this direction. It actually gives a new surface to the skin, restoring that marvellous girlish color and softness in a remarkable manner. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug store, will convert a faded, worn-out or discolored complexion into one of captivating loveliness in less than two weeks. No special skill is necessary in applying the wax, it being smeared on at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning. To remove wrinkles, or delay their formation, a face bath made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. which hasel, will be found wonderfully efficacious. This tends up relaxed skin, causing it to remain firm and unstretched.

Keith's Theatre
That musical comedy, "The Maid and the Prince," which is headlined at the Keith theatre, this week, is winning bunches of applause and audiences of large proportions. There are certain musical numbers given by 15 persons who sing splendidly, among them being Herb Webster, Jr., a Lowell boy. The comedies given by Robert Hodge and Miss Julia Nash are glinting spots on the bill. The Reid Sisters are pretty, brightly colored, and Peppino, the accordionist, pleases immensely. Other features are Gertrude Everett and Commodore Tom. Good seats remain. Phone 58.

HALF BLOODED INDIAN

Johnson, the White Sox Pitcher, Has Speed

Western leaguers profess that in George Murphy Johnson, a half blood Indian, the White Sox have purchased another "Chief." Bender, Johnson, alias "Big Chief" and "Winnebago," is the best pitching proposition in the league that produced Marty O'Toole, "Babe" Adams, "Buck" O'Brien and Casey Hagerman. To him, more than to any other influence, is due the position of St. Joe in the Western league. He won 14 out of 21 games before he was sold to Coninsky and saved seven more games when other pitchers floundered in distress signals.

With Johnson, the White Sox purchased John Gossart, the 29-year-old kid catcher, who is the best in the league and the only backstop in the organization that cares to handle the terrific speed of the Irish Indian. Johnson went to St. Joe in the spring of 1910, having been with Lincoln and Sioux City ever since. He is reckoned a half blood by virtue of his parents, being one-quarter Indian. His real name is George Murphy, his father, a veteran of the civil strife, having enlisted under the name of Johnson, which the youngest adopted. He is hailed as "Chief Johnson" by Western league fans.

Johnson is a spittin' pitcher and possesses hurricane speed, which he mixes with an assortment of curve balls and slow stuff that have made him unbeatable. He went to St. Joe from the lots of central Ohio and developed rapidly under Jack Holland, owner of the St. Joe team.

Rocky Road for O'Rourke
Tom O'Rourke, who has handled some noted fighters, admits that the road just now is decidedly rocky. O'Rourke hails from Boston, where he owned a saloon when he assumed the management of the late George Dixon under O'Rourke's tutelage. Dixon won the featherweight championship and earned nearly $200,000, yet he died penniless.

O'Rourke developed Joe Walcott, "the giant killer," who was the world's welterweight champion when he stepped Joe Chernski. Tom Sharkey, too, was made over into a star fighter by O'Rourke, who will always believe that the sailor should have received a draw in his memorable twenty-five round battle with Jeffries at Coney Island. O'Rourke lost a fortune in various ways—some of it in Wall street, more of it in saloons and hotels in New York and the balance in promoting boxing clubs.

He discovered Al Faltzer and up to the time of the recent quarrel he believed that there was another golden harvest to be reaped. O'Rourke has been severely scored for numerous shortcomings, but it is freely admitted even by his enemies, that he knows more about the handling and training of fighters than any other man in the world. O'Rourke is well along in years but he still is able to handle himself in a rough and tumble scrap.

TORPEDOBOAT DESTROYER JOHN DILLON INJURED

Damaged in a Collision With Barge He Was Thrown From a Dog Cart

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The new torpedo boat destroyer Beale while proceeding down the Delaware river last night from this port for Newport, R. I., collided with a barge and tore a large hole in her bow.
The collision occurred near Newcastle, Del., about 20 miles below this city. The hole torn in the ship measures about 20 by 10 feet. The Beale was in command of Lieut. Parker and had a crew of 30 officers and men. None was injured. As quickly as possible the watertight compartments were closed, and government tug Samoset was summoned to tow the Beale back to the navy yard.

Tells of Wear on Pitcher's Arm

Christy Mathewson says: "The greatest wear and tear on the arm comes in the effort to strike out an opposing batter. It usually required five or six and sometimes as many as ten pitched balls to strike a man out, while he could be disposed of on a long fly with one pitched ball. When I am not going easy and the team is not in danger I always try to make the batter hit the first ball. Every time he hits at that first one and is retired on a fly or a grounder it saves my arm just that much."

"Even a hit occasionally is better than to have to work the arm off trying to strike men out. On an average seven balls are required to strike out a batter. This is due to the fact that they always let one or two go by for balls and several are fouled off. At that rate a pitcher would have to pitch 139 balls if he struck out the entire twenty-seven batters."

"On the other hand, if the batter hit the first ball and none of them fell safe, the side could be disposed of by nine full innings on but twenty-seven pitched balls. Does that make it clear why some pitchers stay in the game for twenty years?"

Paquin on New Modes

It is a very difficult matter at any time of the year to stare for certain what will be the next form that the feminine toilet will assume in dress, says Paquin, the famous designer. The Greek is now inspiring Paris and incidentally the whole world since Paris sets the pace in these matters.

Dresses will be more "flop" this year than they were last year, with the exception of tailor modes, which will continue to have the tickle skirt, so becoming and so convenient for street wear. But it is a fact that evening gowns will be much fuller at the hem, with beautiful draperies and exquisite trimmings of pearls and diamonds.

Sleeves will be long for day wear, but even here individual taste counts for so much. One thing is certain—the waist line after many undulations has returned to its normal place. It will be seen that fashions will enter largely into evening dresses. Veilings will not fail to be greatly worn by these women who love soft effects.

ROOSEVELT A WITNESS

has sworn that no such contribution was received and Col. Roosevelt has said that he gave express instructions to both Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou that if such a contribution were made it was to be immediately returned. Witnesses have testified that they knew of no record of such a contribution having been returned, and Charles H. Dwight, assistant treasurer for the committee in 1904, told the committee yesterday he did not believe Mr. Bliss had kept information of any contributions from Mr. Cortelyou.

If Mr. Roosevelt's examination is concluded in a comparatively short time he wanted to visit the national museum to look over some of the trophies from his African hunt mounted there.

Col. Roosevelt breakfasted with William Loeb, Jr., formerly his private secretary and now collector of customs at New York, before going to the senate office building, where the hearings of the committee are held.

Several hundred people were waiting hoping to get into the little committee room with its capacity for about 100.

Seats had been reserved for Chairman Clapp for Sir George Reid, Australian high commissioner, and Lady Reid, who had been Col. Roosevelt's host abroad. A murmur of applause, culminating in a cheer, greeted Col. Roosevelt as he entered the building. He forced his way through the crowd to Senator Clapp's private room. There he met the members of the committee.

Col. Roosevelt learned this morning that Gov. Hadley of Missouri had declared in favor of President Taft. He would make no comment.

The spectators applauded vigorously as Col. Roosevelt entered the room followed by a secretary tugging a big valise filled with papers. The colonel took his place in the witness chair and the secretary, with the big grip on his knees, settled himself beside him.

"You were a candidate for president in 1904?" asked Senator Clapp.

"I was," answered the colonel shortly.

"George H. Cortelyou was chairman of the committee that year?"

"He was."

"And Cornelius Bliss was treasurer?"

"He was."

Senator Clapp asked Col. Roosevelt if his attention had been called to certain statements made by John R. Archibald.

"It has," he replied.

Senator Clapp asked the colonel what he knew about the Archibald contribution at the time it was said to have been made.

The colonel asked permission to include in his answer the letter he sent to Chairman Clapp already published, denying that he knew of any Standard Oil contribution to the 1904 campaign at the time it was made.

"In the first place, gentlemen," he said, "since I was elected governor of New York about 14 years ago, I have written and signed about a hundred thousand letters, so it is not possible at once to recall all the letters I have written on any given subject."

"Looking through my letter book," he said, "I wrote my recent letter to Senator Clapp. I have found two other letters bearing on the subject of campaign contributions. One was the letter to Cornelius Bliss in 1904, which I understand was recently given to your committee; the other letter written to George H. Sheldon in 1905."

Col. Roosevelt asked for his letter book. He finally found the letter, he sought and handed it to the chairman, who had it placed in the record as an exhibit. At the chairman's request, Col. Roosevelt read the letter dated

Sept. 21, 1905, and addressed to George H. Sheldon, treasurer of the republican national committee. It was practically as follows:

"I am informed that you or someone on behalf of the national committee has been soliciting contributions from corporations, particularly from John D. Archibald and the Standard Oil Co. If this is true I wish to enter a vigorous protest and say that not only should such contribution be refused but it made that it should be immediately returned."

The letter set forth that "four years ago" Mr. Cortelyou refused all contributions from corporations which were being prosecuted or were likely to be prosecuted and that Col. Roosevelt wished the same course followed in the 1908 campaign.

Col. Roosevelt also read the letter of Oct. 25, 1904, to Chairman Cortelyou, in which he directed that if any money had been contributed by the Standard Oil Co. or Mr. Archibald it should be returned at once.

This letter, he said, had been partly quoted in his recent letter to Senator Clapp. It was an emphatic declaration to Mr. Cortelyou that "we cannot, under any circumstances, afford to take a contribution that might be construed as placing us under an obligation."

Col. Roosevelt said that he had also found that on Oct. 25, 1902, he had sent an extra telegram to Chairman Cortelyou which he had only recently found. It was sent from Oyster Bay and referred to his letter to Mr. Cortelyou, demanding return of the Standard Oil contribution.

The Harriman Fund

Col. Roosevelt offered the committee the originals of the letters he had sent to Chairman Clapp or had read into the record. "Now, in regard to the Harriman fund," began Senator Clapp.

Col. Roosevelt interrupted and asked to explain the charges that have been made in regular order and Senator Clapp acquiesced.

"There is no testimony against me except in the form of hearsay evidence," the colonel said. "Hearsay statements of men who are dead."

Mr. Archibald and Mr. Penrose purport to give statements of what Mr. Bliss had to say. Mr. Bliss is dead. Mr. Odell and the other gentlemen referred to statements made by Mr. Harriman who is dead."

Col. Roosevelt said he had not intended to bring his former private secretary into the controversy but that as the committee had already determined to call William Loeb, Jr., he had asked him to bear out his statements.

The Sibley Letter

"May I speak of a letter published in Hearst's magazine from Congressman Sibley," asked the colonel, and then went on: "It is a letter which in substance states that Sibley came to me and spoke to me about seeing Mr. Archibald, and I said I would be delighted to see him and asked Mr. Sibley to bring Mr. Archibald to lunch. I don't remember ever having talked to Mr. Sibley about that matter, but it is very possible I may have done so. Any invitation that I may have extended was the result of a request of Mr. Sibley. I always saw any man brought to me by a representative or a senator."

"While I was president," he said, leaning forward, "if any man trust magnate, socialist, lawyer or clergyman, had any business with me and wanted to see me, I gladly saw him. If I am elected president a month hence if Mr. Rockefeller or anyone else wants to see me I'll see him and, moreover, if I have anything to ask for the public service from Mr. Rockefeller, J. P. Morgan or anyone else, I'll send for him."

Col. Roosevelt said that during his administration he had sent for James Hill, the railroad magnate.

"I think I sent for J. P. Morgan," he said, "at least I saw Mr. Morgan in regard to currency questions. At this moment some of the same newspapers that are carrying comments on the supposed fact that I sent for Mr. Archibald," continued the colonel, "are commenting on the fact that I sent for a socialist, Mr. Bruere, to help me draw up my platform."

"As to Mr. Bruere," he added, chuckling, "they were right. If there is any man from whom I think I can get anything of value to the people I'll send for him. I have sent for trust magnates and prize fighters. I have sent for John L. Sullivan, Battling Nelson and Dr. Lyman Abbott. I added with a laugh that brought response from the crowd, 'If ever I find my virtue is so frail that it will not stand being brought in contact with trust magnates, labor leaders or anyone else, I'll get out of public life.'"

"Now, about the Harriman business," said the colonel, "I feel there ought not to be need of any intelligent man to ask any question after reading the letters I wrote at that time."

Wanted "Practical Men"

Here he took up his letters to Mr. Harriman and defended the use of the term "practical men" in the much discussed letter of Oct. 14, 1906. He said his effort was to get practical men into politics. Then he read the letter and declared that it "was absolutely incompatible with a suggestion of my getting aid from Mr. Harriman in any way."

On Oct. 20, 1904, Col. Roosevelt said, "Mr. Harriman had telephoned to Secretary Loeb, who told the president Mr. Harriman wanted to see him about the New York state campaign, which was running badly." The colonel said he made the appointment through Secretary Loeb of Harriman's request.

Col. Roosevelt said that at the time the Harriman contribution was made there was no doubt of the national ticket carrying New York, but the state ticket was in doubt.

"There was not one word spoken by Mr. Harriman or me having reference to the collection of funds for the campaign. On the contrary, the entire conversation was to the effect that the national campaign was safe and that aid should be given to the state campaign."

Mr. Harriman asked me to get Mr. Cortelyou and Mr. Bliss to help raise funds for the New York state campaign. I never asked Mr. Harriman directly or indirectly for a dollar to help in that campaign or any other."

Col. Roosevelt said he wished to correct his statement regarding his interview with Harriman.

"Mr. Harriman told me," he said, "the national committee people had plenty of money and I told him I knew nothing about that. His request to me was that I ask the national committee to give money not that I ask the national committee help raise money."

Judge Parker's Statement

Col. Roosevelt discussed Judge Alton R. Parker's statement in 1904 and declared that "a repeated misstatement charged to him was that he had said corporations did not contribute to his 1904 campaign."

"I never made the statement that corporations had not contributed to the republican party," he said emphatically. He said his recent letter to Chairman Clapp and his open published statement made it clear that he had never declared the standard but had denied specifically that corporations had been blackmailed into contributing or assured of some kind of favor for contributing.

Col. Roosevelt said he had secured the word of Bliss and Cortelyou that the statement was a fact before he made it. "Corporation contributions were not considered improper in 1904, 1906 or 1908," he said, and it was public knowledge that they were being made.

"Now I wish to take up the testimony of Mr. Archibald and Senator Penrose," said Col. Roosevelt.

"I wish to call your attention to this fact in connection with the statement of Mr. Archibald as in the case of Mr. Harriman. Mr. Archibald and Mr. Harriman's complaint is that they got nothing from the administration."

"Mr. Archibald testified that Cornelius N. Bliss, who is dead, attempted to blackmail him and that I knew of it. I don't for a minute believe that Mr. Bliss tried to blackmail him, if he did I knew nothing of it."

"And I had the assurance of Mr. Cortelyou over the telephone again yesterday that such a contribution was not made. I want to call your attention to the testimony of Messrs. Archibald and Penrose against themselves as Senator Penrose testified that he advised Mr. Archibald to have the Standard Oil Co. submit to the blackmail and he did it to prevent being subjected to hostility from certain sources. That could mean hostility only from myself, the attorney-general or the commissioner of corporations."

"When I was police commissioner of New York City," said the colonel, "and a member of the police force did in connection with the enforcement of the law against liquor selling what Mr. Penrose says he did in this case, I would have thrown him off the force."

"Should Oust Penrose?"

The colonel leaned forward in his chair, shook his finger at the committee and shouted:

"And I hold that the senate of the United States should oust Penrose from the senate for the admissions he made before this committee."

He referred to Mr. Archibald's statement.

Riker-Jaynes Drug Stores

have served the public as "public health stores." Our purpose is to help you and every other member of the community to get well when you are ill and to keep well. Our great laboratories and warehouses, each of our perfectly equipped stores, and our honorable record for nearly a century testify to the faith we have kept with the public.

With the growth of medical science we have kept pace. The work of physicians today is to prevent people getting sick. We are equipped with preventives. Below will be found a list of preparations compounded in our own laboratories and sold under our own label, which are offered to help you keep well.

These compounds are originated by us, the fruit of nearly a century's experience. We are so convinced of their worth that if you find any of them unsatisfactory after trial, we will refund you the amount you paid when you return the package EVEN IF YOU HAVE CONSUMED THE ENTIRE CONTENTS.

We can do this because these preparations are compounded from absolutely fresh, pure drugs of standard strength, such as are used at our prescription desk for filling doctors' prescriptions.

Many a grandmother of today gives her grandchildren Riker-Jaynes preparations which were given her when she was a child. Three generations have proved the worth of Riker-Jaynes preparations.

OUR GUARANTEE: If any Riker-Jaynes proprietary medicine fails to give you satisfaction bring us the empty package and get your money back.

Wagon Was Hit by a Wild Locomotive at Rockland—Party on Way from Brockton Fair

moved to Brooklyn hospital; on dangerous list

Manfred, the owner of the wagon, was driving. There are no gates at the crossing, and he did not notice the flagman. His view of the approach-

The locomotive struck the rear right-hand wheel and threw the wagon several rods. Its occupants were thrown out with great force, and the wrecked wagon piled up on Rocka, the veteran fireman, lying him beneath its wreckage. A pair of horses that had drawn the vehicle broke away and ran through Union street, the business center, before being caught.

All the injured, except the Cunningsham boy, who is a nephew of Maguire, are residents of Rockland. With the exception of Roche they had all driven to the Brackton fair early today, and had almost reached home after a happy day's outing. The wagon was used by Maguire ordinarily as a fruit wagon.

Several of the injured were treated in the Rockland railroad station, and others were removed to offices of local doctors. They were attended by Drs. Osgood, Colgate, Knight, Melitosh, Ash

The locomotive was in charge of engineer Harry Hesselberg and Fireman J. R. Watt. Several members of a train crew were riding in the cab. The locomotive was running "light" from Hanover to North Abington, as customary every weekday, to meet the 7.12 train from Boston and haul several coaches from North Abington back to Hanover. The locomotive was slightly late tonight, and was said to have been running at more than ordinary speed.

Of Having Harbored a Deserter

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Harry A. Wright, 30 years old, manager of a detective agency in this city, was placed on trial before Judge Merton and a jury in the United States district court yesterday afternoon.

Wright is charged with having harbored a deserter, George Baum. It was asserted by Baum that Wright, through his aid, was enabled to turn over a number of other deserters from the navy, for whose apprehension Wright received the government rewards of $20 apiece.

Baum, who has been under arrest at the navy yard, was brought over as a witness for the government under guard of a marine.

MONSTER MASS MEETING HELD

People of Lawrence Speak Their Loyalty to the Stars
and Stripes

LAWRENCE, Oct. 4.—This city last evening blossomed out with a show of patriotism in resentment of the failure of the L. W. W. paraders on Sunday to carry United States flags, and of their slogan inscribed, "No God, No Master."

Mayor Scanlon called a mass meeting in the city hall, at which a committee was named to arrange a parade for "an early date," which was understood to be intended for Oct. 12, Columbus day. He also issued an appeal to all citizens to display American flags and to wear miniature flags on the lapel of the coat every day from now on until Thanksgiving day, "as a tribute to those detractors of our national emblem who would dare carry the red flag of anarchy through our streets on the Lord's day." The announcement promised that a supply shall be available and the mayor said he expects all city employees to wear the flag.

The meeting filled the large upper hall in the city hall building to the last seat. The attendance was estimated at 2,500. Most of the leading business men of the city were present, and the audience contained many women.

Needham a Walking Challenge

Things draped the speaker's desk, and formed the only decorations in the hall. John C. Needham, ex-superintendent of streets, early in the evening wrapped a large flag around his shoulders. Then to look a stout cudgel in his hand and marched all alone down the middle of the hall, to the platform, announcing to his friends that he was prepared to give battle to any person who dared to insult the flag that he wore.

At 7:50, Mayor Scanlon, ex-Congressman William S. Knox, Postmaster Louis S. Cox and C. E. Bradley came upon the platform, as the crowd was singing "America." Three cheers for the mayor and three more for the police force were given.

Mayor Scanlon opened the meeting briefly.

"Lawrence," said he, "has always been a proud city, the home of liberty-loving, God-fearing people, and we are going to remain such. We are not opposed to labor getting all it can, but we are opposed to the flag of anarchy being paraded through our streets. Mr. Bradley was then introduced as chairman of the meeting, and Postmaster Cox was the next speaker.

Anarchy Must Stop

"Many times," said Mr. Cox, "I have spoken from this platform, but never till now on an occasion which meant so much."

"This city has been in turmoil and uncertainty for months and the people of this country have been led by reports to believe that the city of Lawrence is made up of a city government, a police force, three companies of militia, the mill owners and thousands of discontented operatives, and it has never been suggested that there are people here who care about the national flag.

"The situation has changed since last winter, when our citizens now view it in an entirely different light. Your presence is proof that the time has come when the good people of the city intend to take charge."

"The truth is that we have here thousands of people who have come from other cities, who must be taken care of and who are doing the best we can, educating their children, bettering their homes; every one wants to see their prospects bright."

"A year ago this city was safe; one could go with security through any alley of it at any hour, night or day; but now we have some men of talk, but not with hands softer than mine, who have filled these people with anarchy and lawlessness. Who these men are, what their histories have been, is known to all; and so far as we are concerned, the time has come when this thing has got to stop."

Wild Hauls of Approval

The audience broke into a hail of approval, stamping, whistling, and shouting, a strange, seething crowd, under the four high-arched lights, selling its multiplex head off.

"This is my native city," went on the speaker, "but what have you who were born here to say? Are you going to stand up in your might and say what's going to be, or are you going to give up?"

A thunderous "No!" was his answer. "Let us resolve to protect and care for these people," he concluded, "and to give them what they ought to have, but give it to them according to law and according to justice."

J. N. Chandler, associate judge of the Lawrence police court, was much more direct in his recommendations. "I say," he cried, "that the red flag of anarchy, this symbolization of every-thing American must come, and if the militia and the police authorities cannot put it down, they know where to come to get others who will help them. And when we help them we shall be serving our country just as faithfully as our fathers did in '61."

"There can be no question that these people who have come to our shores will not be absolute justice, but we are not going to pull down our own hopes, destroy our prosperity, satisfy the whims of demagogues and anarchists. They should be ejected from our doors."

This suggestion, which after the meeting was translated by city leaders who heard it later, "transferring them out of town," produced applause that lasted for nearly a minute.

No Government by Mob

John W. S. Knox discussed the problem gradually. Then he said: "We have come to a time when government seems to be government by mob, the men who take the law into their own hands, and I feel as Capt. Parker must have felt when he said to his men facing the British, 'If they want war, it may as well commence here.' And if there is a class of people here seeking by force and intimidation to rule others, to say when they shall work and when they shall not, who parades the red flag, I say, 'If they want war, it may as well come now.'"

"What is the remedy?" "First let us have political honesty, let us do away with robbery, corruption, graft of the people's money. Next, I think there should be some restriction of immigration into this country. Any honest, well-meaning man, willing to give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay; moral, God-fearing, without a record of crime, we welcome to this country. But when they undertake to destroy the foundations of our prosperity, then we have no use for them. But all must be done according to law, and this will take years."

Reason With Reason

Dennis E. Callahan, principal of the Tarbox school, made a telling oration, saying he no longer believed it necessary to appeal to the sword, and that Lawrence can solve her problems peacefully.

"We are ready to meet reason with reason," said the speaker, "or if necessary, force with force. We are ready to agree that capital must remember that the laborer is worthy of his hire, but we are also ready to stand by constitutional authority."

He repeated the belief of the community in the existence of God, and ended by saying: "We have suffered in silence, but the patriotism of this people is roused; it will overcome every difficulty."

The audience sang "America" and Mrs. J. O'Mahoney, who introduced the speaker, was the only one of the evening which did not in some way suggest that force be used against the people who were under discussion. She did not agree that there should be further restriction of immigration; if there had been earlier, she herself would not be a citizen. She was the daughter of an immigrant and herself an immigrant. "I have faith in these people," said Mrs. O'Mahoney, "and we must make them loyal American citizens. The majority of them are Italians, but they have been misled, and it is for you and me to lead them in the right way."

Committee on Flag Parade

Judge Chandler appeared on the floor of the meeting. "Mr. Chairman," said she, "the next I am asked to make a motion is—"

"My motion," said Judge Chandler, "is that the chair appoint a committee to arrange a parade by organizations and citizens and to set the date."

163 CENTRAL STREET MAURICE J. LAMBERT, Mgr. NEW BRADLEY BUILDING

John G. A. R. spoke in loving eulogy of the flag and J. C. Toomey moved the appointment of another committee on "peace and permanent organization," that the effect of the evening should not be allowed to die. This was carried, but the chairman put off naming the committee.

Rev. Fr. O'Reilly of St. Mary's church, though far from well, made a touching speech. He was greeted with "hail of delight upon his appearance."

"I would dearly love," he began, "to speak the sentiments that swell up in my heart to a people aroused at last to confront the demon of anarchy."

"No God, no master," that is true in a sense. If there is no God there is no master, but the tyrant.

"This cannot in one sense be called a Christian country, but every man who takes oath of office, or oath of citizenship, takes it in the name of the God of Nations."

Malcontents Must Go

"It should go forth from Lawrence today to the land of pirates who have captured the vessel, that we believe in the private ownership of land, in the payment of just wages, in right relations between labor and capital and in the right of every man to work when and where he pleases. And I would say further that those who don't want to work had better take the hint and go."

Fr. O'Reilly was rewarded with tremendous applause.

EDMUND SHIELDS

Says That the Vote of Michigan Will Go To Governor Wilson When Counted

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.—Edmund C. Shields of Howell, Mich., chairman of the democratic state central committee of Michigan, was a caller at national democratic headquarters today in company with A. B. Canfield of Claire, Mich., secretary of the committee.

"Michigan will be found in the Wilson column when the votes are counted in November," said Mr. Shields. "For the first time in years the democratic party has a full national state and local ticket in the field in every county in the state. There are some counties in Michigan in which until this year there have not been enough democrats to form a fair-sized county committee. But this year things are changing, and the change is not due to the work of the state central committee alone, but in a response to local sentiment."

"Michigan is peculiarly divided both geographically and in public opinion. The farm lands of the lower peninsula and the southern half of the upper peninsula are the best in the world and our farmers are the most progressive and prosperous in the world. They have been for the most part devoted to the republican party in years gone by, but you know, Michigan is close up to Canada and the reciprocity policy of the Taft administration was a 'condition and not a theory' to them."

"In the upper peninsula the chief industry is mining and the citizens of that region have been hopelessly corporation-children. During the past year or two there has been a remarkable change in public opinion and I am sure that the large Taft majority of 1908 will be very helpfully split this year."

The democratic party stands in a fine position in this field. We are united with our opponents are divided. We are getting from both of the republican factions and losing to neither. We have but to hold the vote of 1908 and 1910 to win by a handsome plurality. We have ample evidence to prove to anyone's satisfaction that so far from being any of our 1908 strength, we have actually gained thousands of votes."

MANY IMMIGRANTS RETURN

600,000 Went Back to Their Homes in Foreign Countries Last Year

Much is said of the constant flow of the people of Europe into America. Eleven millions of new Americans in the last nineteen years came in through the port of New York alone. But nearly every one appears to forget the "back current"—the enormous number of foreigners who stay in this country only a little while and then with a few hundreds of dollars saved up return to their own lands.

This "back current" is large and important. In the nineteen years 44 per cent., or 4,800,000 out of the 11,000,000 who had come here returned to Europe. Some years more went back than arrived here. In 1908 620,000 foreigners credited as part of new America, set sail for their old homes. That year only 256,000 arrived, so there was an actual immigration deficit of 364,000.

A balance on the wrong side has only happened once or twice, but the last complete figures—those for 1911—show that while 600,000 immigrants passed through Ellis Island, 410,000 took returning steamers during the same period, a net immigration gain of only 190,000.

Some years have been big ones of course from the point of view of added Americans; even in these the back current pulls down the total. Thus 1907 was a banner year, and 1,200,000 immigrants came in. But rows of little figures in the books of steamers plying out of New York to the countries of Europe proved that this very year over half a million—528,000, to be exact—slipped back to take up their lives in their native towns or cities just as before.

Ellis Island is so picturesque and imposing, its massed crowds so dramatic, the entire immigration system so significant of continuing prosperity and of opportunity that people do not think of the steamers that are constantly and unobtrusively carrying immigrants back week in and week out. The steerages of the big and little liners going east are not indeed so crowded as they are upon the western passage, but they are comfortably filled. An empty steerage, even relatively going east is a thing seldom known.

What is more, the procession of returning immigrants is steady, and now a common thing. It is well understood by the transportation people and is a profitable extra traffic. It has also passed out of the class of a valuable by-product with the steamships and is now a prominent source of their revenues.

In nineteen years nearly five million people crossed back to Europe. Nearly a quarter of that number went back in the last two years. In the fiscal year ended last June there were 600,000 of these returning Europeans, each with a little money saved, and the year before that 500,000. These two sets of figures are significant beside the back current average of the nineteen years—260,000. The growing back current is regarded as curious, and much in demand and wages relatively high. So far as any one has attempted to analyze the return movement, it is seen to be that of the successful. The failures and those who can do only a little better than work from hand to mouth daily leave here. Practically going back almost daily is the steerage of outgoing steamers to the capitalists, the men who have won out.

A very little money means a lifetime of competence to many of these people. The average returning immigrant is rich with $1200, he is practically a plutocrat with $2000. Some under $1000 amply satisfy many.

An interesting story was told, not long ago, by a traveler just returned from Sicily. He was a good American, and he was Mount Etna at night. He met a Sicilian who is a forward described as looking precisely like a friend. He proved, however, a very loquacious Italian, who at once recognized the American as such and inquired if he came from New York. The American spoke excellent English. Being assured on this point he pulled a card in English from out of his pocket. It was his own, and showed that for several years he had been a barber on Third avenue.

His story was like many another. He had gradually saved up some hundreds of dollars and when these were amassed he left the country he had never even informally adopted and went back to his own blue sky and sunny climate. He did not like America to live in, though he did like American dollars. The few had set him up for life.

Italians, Hungarians and Slavs make up by far the largest proportion of these returning immigrants. They are divided into two classes, those who use their small savings to give them a cozy comfort in a single American dollar or its equivalent having enormous purchasing power in these southern European countries, and those who put their little capital into business, very frequently into agriculture. So many of these immigrants in fact have bought land in order to become proprietors instead of rent paying tenants that in certain districts farming land that a few years ago sold for $40 an acre now brings hundreds of dollars.

Of course the average returning immigrant cannot out of his savings buy much land as figures like these. This is what happens: Sometimes an individual is content with an acre or two and lives in happiness and prosperity upon it. Again, a number of returning immigrants form themselves into an association and work a fair sized piece of land in common.

At times an even more ambitious scheme is worked out. Much land is purchased, and a large part of the money needed comes direct from America on loan. Eventually it is almost certain all the lenders will find their way back to their old home and take an active personal interest in their investment. Meanwhile they have something to look forward to. An authority says that some of these associations are so large that they have managed to buy good sized estates.

"Immigrant aliens" are what these people of the back current are officially called. The evidence is that very few of them ever intended to stay in America. They came over for the money they could not make in their own country. As some one has expressed it, the United States is their workshop and Europe their home.

It is interesting to compare these big percentages of the southern nations that fit into America and speedily fit away from it with the tenacity with which the Jewish immigrants continue in this country, no matter whether their success is big or little. Not far from 15 per cent. of the recent emigration from Europe to America has been that of the Jews. Less than 2 per cent. of them have returned. Irish, German, French and Scandinavian immigrants stick in this same way. The back current is of the southern people.

In the towns, villages and cities to which the travelers return, they are called Americans and are looked up to with respect. The men that across seas have earned as much as $12 or $14 a week are magicians. They fill the younger element with envy and awe, and in their turn these go out to win fortune. For two or three or four hundred dollars a man builds himself a house in his village. From 60 cents to $1 a day gives him an excellent living.

All the countries concerned and the immigration authorities of the United States have studied this situation and many interesting incidents are to be found hidden away in the records of a certain little village in Italy this was discovered.

"The vice-mayor says that between $240 and $300 is sent from America weekly" (a cash fortune for a little Italian village, by the way). "A large proportion says that families, seeing their heads depart for America, are satisfied because they are sure to receive money from them. The houses that were dirty and neglected are now improved. The relations between the proprietors and peasants have changed, and there are some peasants whose groceries are sure to be well supplied from America. Those who return from America purchase a house with a small estate. Where this is not sufficient they resort to hiring hands or to the partnership system. The Americans come back improved more clever and intelligent. A peasant said to the commissaire: 'The Americans have brought here the paradise.'

Another village report of the Royal Italian commission says: "Those returned from America purchase pieces of land. These 'Americans' buy the houses and dress well. The mayor of San Pili says peasants now live better than proprietors. Those returned from America, accustomed to high wages and good living, do not adapt themselves any longer to the hard labor of the old country."

HAMILTON WHITE

Deserts the Bull Moose Party and Will Vote For Governor Wilson for President

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.—Hamilton White, who was a delegate to the Illinois state bull moose convention and to the Bull Moose congressional convention in his district, walked into the democratic headquarters in the Karren building this morning and announced his repudiation of the third term candidate and declared his intention to support Gov. Wilson. When Roosevelt was named by the third-term party Mr. White, who had helped to bring about his nomination, was enthusiastic in his behalf, but recent events have cooled his ardor and in fact led him to support Gov. Wilson.

The disclosure of the fact that Standard Oil contributed to Roosevelt's campaign fund, the support of Roosevelt by Perkins and the steel trust and harvester trust interests as well as other developments of the campaign have caused Mr. White to abandon his support of Roosevelt. Mr. White emphasized his change of heart by informing Representative A. S. Burleson in charge of the speaker's bureau that he was willing to devote his time to the campaign to the extent of making speeches wherever the committee might desire to send him. Mr. White was formerly from Iowa and has indicated a preference to be sent to that state for speaking purposes.

Why Haverhill and Neighboring Druggists Recommend English Hemorrhoid Treatment

The FORMULA on Each Package—The METHOD of Treatment—The RELIABILITY of Compounds Appeals to Physicians and Druggists Alike

When the druggists of Haverhill and nearby towns were recently visited by representatives of the English Pharmaceutical Laboratories, Inc., little attention was paid to them, until the formula and methods of administration were explained.

Naturally, every discriminating dealer or dispenser of drugs who has not missed the fact that there was an unusual merit in the treatment, is certainly a distinctive complaint to the remedy to have made all these druggists undertake its sale and give its recommendation.

The ENGLISH HEMORRHOID TREATMENT is different from all others. It consists of CONSTITUTIONAL TABLETS, SUPPOSITORIES and OINTMENT. The prime element of successful treatment, however, is in the administration; therefore, full complete and specific instructions, together with a full sheet and Rules of Health accompany each box.

This remedy can be purchased at 15 drug stores in Haverhill, and every druggist is supplied with booklets for free distribution, which the afflicted will read with great interest, or the booklet can be obtained by writing the English Pharmaceutical Laboratories, Inc., 1241 Broadway, New York. Ask your Druggist! Ask your physician.

THE EVENING HIGH SCHOOL

Registration of Pupils Will Begin Monday Evening—Supt. Molloy Issues Statement

Registration will begin on Monday evening, Oct. 7, at 7:15 o'clock at the Lowell Evening High school and will continue on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Monday and Tuesday will be for those only who were students during the year 1911-1912; all others may register on the remaining evenings.

Graduates of the elementary evening schools or of a day grammar school are admitted without examination. All others must pass such an examination as would secure promotion from the seventh grade in the day schools.

In conversation with a reporter of The Sun this forenoon Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, referring to a statement in a morning paper, said:

The superintendent of schools has given no orders to any one in the school department as to giving out news; he does assume, however, that it would be only in keeping with the best usage in any well-organized business or department to expect that news or information concerning it will be given by some person of responsibility and record; further, the school department should be best able to judge what is to be given out as news and when to give it.

In connection with the evening high school statement there must be some misunderstanding. The superintendent merely wished to know where he could find the records, registration and all such data concerning the school as should be easy of access and practically self-explanatory in any well-organized school at any stage of its progress and particularly at its close. He assumes that all such material can be easily reached. But, in any event, he wishes to say that the registration and classification of students in the evening high school is a matter of no great difficulty for persons of school experience.

HORACE E. CARON DEAD

Well Known French Resident Passed Away

One of the best known and most prominent French citizens of this city, Mr. Horace E. Caron, passed away last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Willis Pelletier, 883 Moody street, after a lingering illness of nearly a year. Mr. Caron took sick in November, suffering from cancer. After consulting the leading physicians of this city, he was advised to go to Canada for his health and made the trip last July, remaining in the dominion for two weeks, but this proved of no avail, for upon his return his condition grew worse, and he breathed his last shortly before midnight last night.

Mr. Caron was born in St. Jean Port Joli, Que., 52 years ago, and received a very good education, at the close of which he entered the employ of the Grand Trunk railroad. Later he severed his connection with this company and secured employment with the Canadian Pacific. He was prominent in politics in Canada and held many important offices. Seventeen years ago he removed to this city with his family and went to work as a telegraph operator for the Boston & Maine, later accepting the position of tower man at the Broadway, a position he has held up to the time of his sickness.

Deceased was a learned astronomer, having made special studies in this particular branch, and his delight was to give lectures on astronomy, which he did on several occasions in this city. He was a man possessed of most refined disposition and a staunch republican in politics. He was of good build and stature and respected by all who knew him. Mr. Caron was very prominent in fraternal circles, having been a charter member of the Carillon council, F. O. E. of which he was also connected with Union Lodge, and the Eastern Division Mutual Benefit association of the Boston & Maine railroad, as well as a prominent member of Citizens-American club of which he was a past president.

He is survived by a wife, two sons, Albert of this city and Joseph of Wilmington; two daughters, Mrs. Willis

Pelletier and Miss Alice Caron and a grandson, Lloyd Caron. Four brothers, Alfred, Philias and Ferdinand of St. Jean Port Joli, Que., and Godfroi of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Gilbert Pelletier of St. Jean Port Joli, Que., and Mrs. Joseph Guimond of Montreal.

MISS JOSEPHINE LISS

Lawrence Strike Leader to Wed

LAWRENCE, Oct. 4.—This is the story of the romantic end of the spectacular career of Josephine Liss.

Josephine Liss is the pretty Polish girl who was the "star" of last winter's strike in Lawrence. She was the girl accused of taking a militia man's gun away from him and knocking him down. She was the girl who refused to be jailed or to have her fine head, preparing prison to compromise. She was the girl who went to Washington with the tenement children who became exhibit A in the congressional investigation.

Josephine Liss is to be married on next Sunday afternoon, "between 5 and 6, probably," she added modestly.

Henry Miker, an operative in the Plant shoe factory at Roxbury. The wedding will be held in the first floor tenement where Josephine lives, at 46 Chestnut street. The couple will enjoy a brief honeymoon in New York before they go to their new little home in Roxbury.

"I came to this country from Poland when I was 7 years old," she said, "and five years later I went into the mills. I had but one year of school. The wages I earned were not enough to keep us all when father would be out of work, so I learned to be a weaver as that paid more money and therefore, was the hardest work of all. At 14 I earned $10 a week. Many strong peasant girls from the old country became weavers and in a short time they lost flesh and all their rest cheeks disappear from the close confinement and long hours.

"That is what happened to me. I was broken down in two years and had not a long time. When I went back I learned to be a weaver."

"Up to the time the strike was called last winter I had never heard of a union nor of the I. W. W. One night I heard one of the I. W. W. speakers telling the foreigners how to stand together and help each other. I was interested at once and from that moment became one of them. It was like a new world opening up to me. After that I worked hard for them, and even though I am leaving the mills forever my sympathy will always be with the working people and I will help them fight for their rights the best I know how."

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Miss Ruth Esther Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett D. Ward, to Mr. Harry L. Woodman of this city, took place at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, North Orange, Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John W. Cummings, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Mary L. Blodgett of North Orange. The maid of honor was Miss Louise Ward, a cousin of the bride and the best man was Dr. Horace E. Davis of this city. The ushers were: Miss Ada Warrick of North Orange, Mass.; Miss Marie Rich of North Orange; Miss Catherine Dunbar of Baldwinville and Miss Margaret Fanning of Whitinsville, Mass. The ushers were accompanied by the bride at the Fitchburg Normal school. The bride's gown was a cream colored crepe de chine and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor wore an apricot colored gown and carried a large bouquet of pink roses. The ushers wore white gowns and carried bouquets of white carnations.

After the ceremony there was a short reception to members of both families and intimate friends. There were guests present from Athol, Orange, Brockton, Woburn, Lowell, Nashua and Boston.

Miss Gladys Higgins of Worcester was maid of honor and Randall B. Houghton of Lexington served as best man. About 75 guests were present, including Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Kelley of Toledo, the bride's parents, and Robert W. Kelley of New York city. The spacious house was tastefully decorated with flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley will reside in Toledo.

CAMPBELL—RINGWOOD

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The contracting parties were Mr. William Campbell and Miss Elizabeth Ringwood. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Ringwood. The brother of the groom was best man. The bride was becomingly attired in a gray traveling suit and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and the bride-maid carried yellow chrysanthemums.

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF---25c "DANDERINE"

Hair coming out?—If dry, brittle, thin or your scalp itches and is full of dandruff

Within 10 minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance; the beauty and shimmer of true hair health. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair—and lots of it. If you will just try a little Danderine.

WATERWAYS COMMISSION

wards the answering of whatever of these questions they could.

Acting upon Col. Abbott's call for Lowell delegates, Secretary John H. Murphy of the Lowell board of trade introduced Mr. Edward B. Pierce, a member of the board, as the first speaker.

Secretary Murphy
John H. Murphy, secretary of the Lowell board of trade was the first speaker and said:

Col. Edward B. Pierce, in his report to the committee of the United States army, concerning his survey of the Merrimack river from its mouth to the railroad bridge at Haverhill, said:

I am of the opinion that the improvement of the Merrimack river by the United States army, consisting of providing a channel 14 feet deep to Haverhill by the construction of a lock and dam, essentially as outlined in this report, at an estimated cost of $800,000, is justified by the commercial interests involved, present and prospective.

In arriving at this conclusion, I am largely influenced by the evident necessity for opening to water competition the large transportation interests involved, not only at Haverhill but at Lawrence and Lowell, the centre of one of the most important manufacturing districts in New England, and by the belief that the development of an improved waterway to Haverhill is but the first step in extending navigation facilities to Lawrence and Lowell and to the Merrimack river above these points.

The Lowell Board of Trade is represented here today to advocate the carrying out of the above recommendation and to present facts concerning the possibilities of making the river navigable above Haverhill.

The interest of the people of the Merrimack valley and especially Lowell in the project of making the river navigable is aroused when they realize that the cities of the Merrimack valley are unable to compete with other manufacturing communities enjoying water transportation facilities.

The importance of this project may be estimated when we realize that the Merrimack river turns more spindles than any other river in the world, and that the Merrimack river flows through the greatest textile centre of the United States.

The growing importance of the industries of the Merrimack valley demands study and attention and the cost of the project is not incommensurate with the advantages to be derived. The cost of the project should have little weight. The Ohio river for a 300-mile, 8-foot project received this year a partial payment of $5,370,000 on a $53,600,000 estimated project. New England, and especially Massachusetts, has received but a small share of the total appropriations made by the government for the improvement of waterways. For example, Massachusetts, with a wealth twice as great as that of Texas, and a population about the same, received in 1910 $155,000, while Texas received $5,542,000, or five times as much. In the last appropriation of 1912 Massachusetts received $151,000 and the state made an appropriation for the development of the port of Boston of $9,000,000, while Texas this year received from the government $1,635,800.

The development of the Trinity river in Texas contemplates an ultimate depth of 6 feet for a distance of 511 miles upon which there is at present absolutely no commerce, and the ultimate cost of which is estimated at $4,500,000.

The development of the Brazos river is costing $200,000, to remove overhanging trees and snags and carries on no commerce, and travels through an unimportant agricultural country. The development of these two rivers in Texas are two shining examples of developing future commerce or glittering examples of representative, active, political work.

The Merrimack river project is insignificant in comparison with such expensive undertakings. While the commercial benefits to be derived from the desired improvements are held to be entirely prospective and speculative, it appears from reports of improvements in other rivers that are not so large as the Merrimack and do not flow through such an important industrial section, that freight rates have been reduced, shipping congestion has been relieved, and business improved.

The establishment of competitive rates by rail and water result in a saving to the manufacturer and in this particular section competition with a single railroad is sure to bring about reduction of rates and more efficient service.

The development of the Intra-Costal canal from Boston to New Orleans, as advocated by the Atlantic Deep Waterway association, is the trade avenue through which Lowell can have its supply of cotton shipped from the cotton belt to the mills of the city by means of the Merrimack river, as well as to receive other raw materials in large quantities from the south and west. Should such a waterway to the south fields of the south be opened for business, as it probably will be, eventually, the city of Lowell will be wholly unable to compete with textile cities on the coast unless the Merrimack river is made navigable to the sea, for the reason that cities having the advantage of water transportation can get their raw materials at low freight rates from the cotton fields of the south.

The completion of the Panama canal will bring to our ports the cheaper grade of manufactured commodities from the Orient, and if the New England manufacturer is to compete with the Japanese, in comparison with the American made goods, the great textile centres of New England may lose their supremacy.

Value of the river made navigable from Lowell cannot be estimated from the volume of business done on a 9-foot channel from Haverhill to the sea. Lowell with its 320 diversified industries and its 1900 factories employing over 33,000 wage earners, manufacturing over 350 commodities representing in value over $60,000,000, must be given the attention by the United States government that it is entitled to, and the position that Lowell occupies in the state and country can only be maintained by receiving appropriations which will adequately develop and help to properly utilize her natural resources.

There is received at Boston by water, exclusive of coal, over 15,000 tons, and there is shipped from Lowell through the port of Boston annually over 7,000 tons, and there is received for Lowell through the port of Boston over 500,000 tons of coal a year. Lowell ships 24,000 tons and receives from the port of New York about 25,000 tons.

The records obtainable from the railroad officials indicate that about 2,000,000 tons of freight are handled annually, both in and out of the city of Lowell.

If you can assume that one-half of the 2,000,000 tons of freight will be transported by water at a saving in charges of 10 cents per ton, you can figure on an estimated cost for making the river navigable of $2,000,000, it would require about 20 years to save enough in transportation charges to warrant the expenditure.

Manufacturers often complain of the delay of shipments, and freight rates are a source of continual trouble. Many manufacturers have expressed themselves as being in favor of securing water transportation and would utilize the river for receiving raw materials and shipping finished products. The value of Lowell products equalling more than $60,000,000, furnishes a basis upon which to figure that if the transportation charges were reduced because of the use of the river it is quite easy to expect increased compensation for labor.

If New England is to maintain her supremacy as an industrial centre, which she is able today to hold by reason of her unlimited supply of labor, capital and intellect, the avenue for reaching the entire world by water must find a way to the manufacturing community besides the railroad, and the development of the canals and rivers hold the key to the situation.

There are a few items of interest taken from the report of the chief engineers of the United States army pertaining to the work of making rivers navigable, which show that transportation charges are reduced, and business increased by use of developed streams, and also prove that less important rivers than the Merrimack are developed at great cost where the opportunities for the development of commerce are not so great. Among the items are the following:

"Rappahannock river, Virginia.—The work done has been of benefit to commerce, and it is understood that freight rates have been reduced."

"Neuse and Trent rivers, North Carolina.—Reports show that the commerce was increased last year about 5000 tons. Freight rates are materially lessened by reason of the river improvement."

"Chattahoochee river of Georgia and Alabama.—Reports claim the improvement of this river has been made to give Columbus and all other points on the river water-rates, or a material reduction over rates to all rail points, but the exact amount of reduction cannot be stated. Columbus is 225 miles above the junction of this river with the Flint river and has become the head of navigation, and boats are able to reach there at all times except at unusually low water."

"Warrior river, Alabama.—The ultimate depth of the channel was about one foot and the minimum width about 50 feet after the expenditure to June 30, 1911, of $2,086,445.12. The maximum draft that can be carried over the shoalest place in the channel at low water is 4½ feet and the minimum width at some of the worst bars is 60 feet."

"The Monongahela river, Pa.—It is reported that the effect on freight rates of the slack water system of the river is very great. This is particularly true for coal, which is the principal article of commerce, and is well shown by a comparison of the railroad rates for carload lots along this river and those along the unimproved Allegheny. There are many mines along the Monongahela river that can ship either by rail or water and within a distance of 45 miles from Pittsburgh, which practically covers the industrial district on that river."

"One large consumer transports its coal by river a distance of about 50 miles at a total cost of less than 10 cents a ton, including all charges, while the corresponding railroad freight rate is 45 cents a ton."

The Board of Trade of Lowell agrees that the improvement of the Merrimack river will develop new territory, will enhance the value of land and real estate, will reduce the cost and increase the efficiency of transportation, and will have a tendency to decrease the cost of living and open new fields for the employment of capital and labor.

Edward B. Pierce, representing Lowell, said in part:

The men of the Merrimack valley count themselves very fortunate in being accorded the opportunity to present before the officers of the United States army an especially of that branch of the service which is so significantly using its engineering skill in putting forth some of the many, and we believe, cogent reasons why the Merrimack river should be further improved for the purposes of navigation. We assume that no great argument will be needed to secure the wisdom of improvements from the outer harbor to the wharves of Newburyport, whence were sailed in the war of 1813 some privateers, then from almost every port in the country, and ships built largely from ship timber brought down the river from the forest in the north woods. The obstructions about Gangway Rock, South Gangway and Badger which are the principal obstructions now to safe navigation, should be removed. The cost, we believe, would be very much less now than when in 1855 attention was called by the general report in the expense of handling and rehabilitating the ledge to be removed as we are now in the concrete era. It is fair to presume that this material would have a commercial value when above water, and we submit that as a business proposition entirely devoid of sentiment that the opening of the river to further navigation as far as feasible or possible is highly desirable and should be done.

Not a great deal of work will be required to allow the passage of steamers and barges to Haverhill. The vessel cargoes were landed in Haverhill last year than there exist vessels today under the American flag that pass through the Panama canal. From Haverhill to Lawrence, the great obstructions have been the great falls. There is a long peninsula through which at a small cost a canal could be cut, giving deep water at its head and foot, and entirely avoiding the dangerous rocks at Mitchell's falls. It will be a great improvement on the river above water, and we submit that Lawrence is a well constructed and well maintained set of locks and canals, which will permit the passage of barges around Essex falls, thence to Hunt's falls at Lowell is fairly clear water. At Hunt's falls at Lowell in the past 20 years the line of the river had been well marked out by durable granite walls, and the river has cut its way, and jetted out eight feet of additional channel. At Lowell is a well constructed and well maintained set of locks and canals, which boats can pass to a point above Pawtucket dam. There is fairly clear water thence to the New Hampshire line. At Wicasset falls a considerable amount of blasting has been done by private parties making a possible channel at that point.

Above that point nearly 100 years ago a steamer sailed from Lowell to Concord, N. H., bearing the redoubtable name of "John L. Sullivan" (that ought to knock them out), and we submit with our forebears and our citizens having constructed and maintained through all these years a complete set of locks and canals at Lowell and Lawrence that we are not unreasonable in asking the government to complete the work which they, with their own money, commenced, and have shown their faith by maintaining through all these years.

It was my good fortune thirty years ago to sail a steam boat over Newburyport Bar up the Merrimack past Haverhill over Mitchell's falls through the locks at Lawrence over Hunt's falls even before they were jetted out as now. They are eight feet deeper through the locks at Lowell and up the Merrimack river to Nashua. This was not a small pleasure boat, but an actual seagoing steamer, decked and housed over, and I ran it from Lowell to Nashua carrying passengers and freight and in complete success. From Lowell to Nashua for several years, and only ceased operation when the Nashua and Lowell railroad was constructed, passed down over these waters, was taken to New York harbor and sold, and was used by Jake Vanderbilt for several years as a ferry boat between New York and Staten Island, and at that time was the largest ferry boat in New York harbor, and we are here not to ask you to make the Merrimack river navigable but to complete the work already begun, and in which private citizens and corporations spent hundreds of thousands of dollars opening up this entire valley to the sea.

The building of the Cape Cod ship canal shortening the distance between New York and this valley about one hundred miles, and miles of the most dangerous navigation on our coast is a strong argument for consideration and we urge you believing that it will pay and hoping to show you by further arguments, facts, figures and statistics to be presented that as a business proposition it is a safe and feasible investment.

We thank you sir for this opportunity to present these facts for your consideration.

Mayor O'Donnell

Mayor James O'Donnell then came forward to briefly address the gathering in regard to the importance of this new project. He told of the enthusiasm which he saw on a visit to western New York state at Lockport. It cost, he said, more than ten millions of dollars to bring about the same industrial conditions and resources rich here in New England for building a far better waterway at a much smaller cost, with the water there and a matter of but about 60 miles from Lowell to the sea.

Mayor Scanlon

Mayor Michael Scanlon of Lawrence was the next speaker and he dwelt on the importance of this channel to the industries of that city. Mr. N. J. Sullivan, president of the Lawrence Merchants' association; Charles C. Bradley, president of the Real Estate Owners' association, and Mr. Fred Sullivan, secretary of the Lawrence Board of Trade, spoke, and each had strong arguments in favor of this deepening of the Merrimack river. They emphasized all the points relating to the various industries of the city and the great amounts of coal which have to be transported to these various mills and factories each year.

James J. McManmon

Mr. Murphy then introduced Mr. James J. McManmon of the Lowell board of trade and the latter presented some very forcible arguments in favor of the carrying out of the plan of deepening the Merrimack river. "As a public spirited citizen living on the bank of this great river, I see a great future for this part of the country owing to that and other streams," said Mr. McManmon in his opening words. He pointed out that it was planned to keep this proposed channel open all winter. The city of Lowell is today greatly hampered in its manufactures because of the lack of good freight facilities and he explained in detail the causes of this condition and how the proposed channel would remedy the evil. Places on the river between Lawrence and Lowell are practically cut off from the world as far as freighting is concerned and this is a big detriment to the manufactures of these towns and cities. This deepening of the waterway could not be converted into a canal, and the price of transporting freight would be greatly lessened even in the case of the railroads, for they would have to confront tremendous competition. In conclusion Mr. McManmon said: "I therefore believe and hope that the Merrimack river will be put to its best use, and that is far from being the case today, for a great deal of water is going to waste yearly, that could be converted into a great commercial facility."

As representatives of Haverhill, there were among others, Daniel Casey secretary of the board of trade, E. H. Taylor, a wholesale coal dealer, Alderman Ralph D. Hood, and C. W. Thom, a shoe manufacturer. All of these were well acquainted with their subject, and as being intensely interested in the success of the undertaking and they waxed eloquent as they dwelt on the great benefits which the deepening of the waterway from Lowell to the sea will bring about if accomplished.

Col. Abbott will take the evidence and arguments presented today and forward them to headquarters with recommendations as to conditions and possible verifications.

H. O'Sullivan Promises Support

Thompson O'Sullivan said to a San reporter today relative to the hearing at Lawrence:

"I am watching this movement to make the Merrimack river navigable, I believe in its practicability and its necessity for the continued success of the textile and other industries in this city. We have the water power of the river as a bounty from Nature. We are using it to produce electricity by which to drive the machinery of the mills. What we want now is to be put into communication, by water, with the coal supply and the raw material of our manufacturers. That can be done only by making the Merrimack river navigable. The state, I believe, should help in this movement to guarantee the future of this city and the prosperity of the industries in the Merrimack valley. The main expense should be borne by the national government and if I am elected to congress I will use my utmost endeavor to secure an appropriation sufficient to make the river navigable."

"I did not care to attend the hearing as some people might think I was using the occasion for political purposes."

PLAN TO ANNIHILATE THE GREEKS TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

Albanian Governor of Janina Created a Force of Police Composed of 100 Outlaws

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 4.—Plans to annihilate all the Greeks now in Albania have been laid, according to reports received this morning from the Greco-Turkish frontier.

The report says a Greek notable at Philippidae has been assassinated. The Albanian governor of Janina has created a force of armed military police, composed of 100 outlaws. These men he has sent out ostensibly to pursue Greek rebels, but it is alleged that the real object of the expedition is to annihilate all the Greeks in the vicinity.

It is also reported that bomb outrages are being arranged and the responsibility for them is to be cast on the Greeks in order to provoke their massacre by the Turks.

Three battalions of Montenegrin troops are reported to have crossed the Turkish frontier to assist the Macedonian tribesmen in checking the approach of the Turkish troops.

HOPEFUL FEELING PREVAILS THAT THE BALKAN TROUBLE WILL BE SETTLED

LONDON, Oct. 4.—A hopeful feeling prevails today concerning the Balkan situation, for diplomacy has made some little progress toward a solution of the crisis. The arrival of the news that the powers had reached a complete agreement and that the Balkan states had modified their demand was, however, simultaneous with further reports of fighting on the frontier.

In view of the fact that they are unable to procure financial support it is believed that the Balkan nations will soon see the futility of going to war only in the end to be deprived of such territorial benefits as they might have expected to obtain in the event of success in their fight with Turkey.

The reports that Turkey and Italy had arranged peace are also believed to have had some influence on their Serbian, Bulgarian, Montenegrin and Greek allies, who, it is assumed, are not so anxious to back Turkey when she is free from the embarrassment of a war with a great power.

Turkey, on the other hand, has become less docile and with her hands virtually free from the Italian war she appears bent on settling the Balkan question once for all by means of war.

Princess Ready for War
COPENHAGEN, Oct. 4.—Princess George of Greece started today for Athens in order to be ready to join the Greek army should hostilities break out.

BROCKTON MARATHON

Joe Cristo of Lowell Led Runners at Start

BROCKTON, Oct. 4.—Joseph Cristo of Lowell led the two score of New England's fastest long distance runners when the pistol cracked at the Boston Athletic club's house that started men in the "Marathon" in connection with the fair in this city. The other starters included William Galvin of Yonkers, N. Y., William J. Fallon and T. J. Lilly of North Dorchester, A. C. and Albert Harrop of Fall River.

The weather was unusually warm for the season and the runners faced the breeze for part of the distance. The course was over comparatively level roads for the first ten miles after which the roads led over the Blue Hills with three very stiff hills to negotiate.

Masons Leave Boston
BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Masons who have attended the sessions of the supreme council, Northern Jurisdiction of the Scottish Rite, left here today on a special train for Niagara Falls, Ont., and Washington.

Peace Delegates
LONDON, Oct. 4.—Pietro Berini and Richard Pascha, the Italian and Turkish peace delegates, leave today, Switzerland tonight for Rome and Constantinople respectively in order to secure the ratification of their recommendations to the peace agreement reached this morning, according to a special dispatch received here from Ouchy.

A SHARP DECLINE IN PRICES IN STOCK MARKET DURING FINAL HOUR

The Selling Took on Larger Proportions—Movement Continued to Center About the Leading Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Heavy buying of stocks was resumed at the opening of today's market with substantial gains throughout the general list. The market rose two points, with special strength in Adolphus, the Harriman and Hill interests. The few nominal declines at the opening included

Following the movement broadened considerably after the opening, embracing a number of specialties which rose 1 to 2 points. Of the leaders St. Paul was the feature at its best price of 107 1/2.

The buying movement continued to center about the leading stocks, which were especially prominent. The more optimistic feeling abroad was largely due to a belief in a speedy defeat of the Greco-Turkish conflict. Cancellation of a considerable portion of the gold recently engaged by our bankers in London was accepted as additional proof of our increasing monetary ease. Considerable selling met the early rise and before noon Street yielded all their gains. Bonds

Further heavy selling, much of which originated abroad, set in during the afternoon with marked effect upon the general list.

Lombard's became more active later with further movement of prices, especially in Reading and Steel. Supporting orders rallied the list slightly.

The market closed heavy. In the final hour the selling took on larger proportions and prices declined sharply. The leaders continued to center around the quantities. Other issues of less speculative importance fell in sympathy.

STREET RAILWAY MATTER

Not Referred to Railroad Commissioners

Some time ago Lawyer William D. Regan addressed a letter to the municipal council asking for a public hearing relative to street car service and street car fares in Lowell, Mr. Regan holding that Lowell was being discriminated against in the matter of service generally, but particularly in the matter of fares. Upon reading in the newspapers that the municipal council had referred the matter to the railroad commissioners, Mr. Regan addressed another communication to the council asking that the railroad commission be asked to give a hearing in the matter and that he be given an opportunity to present his case. The matter, however, had not been referred to the state commission, but the city council did take it up with Supt. Thomas Lees of the Bay State Street Railway company and City Clerk Flynn, acting under the instructions of the municipal council, has forwarded the following correspondence to Mr. Regan in order to acquaint him with the council's procedure:

City Clerk's Office, Oct. 3, 1912.
W. D. Regan, Esq., Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: On behalf of the municipal council of the city of Lowell I am directed to acknowledge receipt of your letter, and in reply to advise you with reference to the council's action on your petition upon which a public hearing was held.
Pursuant to instructions of the municipal council I addressed a letter to the management of the Bay State Street Railway company a copy of which is enclosed herewith, also their reply. Needless to add that the municipal council has not, as intimated in your letter of Sept. 27th, requested a hearing before the railroad commissioners. Very respectfully,
Stephen Flynn, City Clerk.
City Clerk's Office, Sept. 27, 1912.
Mr. Thomas Lees, Supt. Bay State St. Ry. Co., Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: At a recent hearing held before the municipal council of the city of Lowell on the matter of the generally unsatisfactory car service furnished to the citizens of Lowell, it was alleged that the Bay State Street Ry. Co. has in the past, and is now discriminating against the city of Lowell in the matter of service generally, but particularly in the matter of fares. I am directed to request your company to grant the same privileges to the citizens of Lowell in the matter of fares or tickets that are in vogue in the city of Fall River, where car tickets are sold by your company at the rate of six for 25 cents. Respectfully, Stephen Flynn, City Clerk.

Bay State Street Railway Co.
Office of General Superintendent,
Lowell, Mass., Sept. 27, 1912.
Mr. Stephen Flynn, City Clerk, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: This will acknowledge receipt of yours of even date, regarding matter of fares in the city of Lowell, which will have suitable consideration. Respectfully yours,
Thomas Lees, Gen. Supt.

FOUR SAFE BLOWERS
Exchanged Shots with a
Night Watchman

WALPOLE, Oct. 4.—Four safe blowers, believed to be expert yeagmen, blew open the safe in the post office about 2:10 yesterday morning, but before they could dislodge the contents their presence was discovered and they left town in an automobile, after exchanging revolver shots with a night watchman of the town.
Workmen employed in the mills of Charles S. Hard, progressive candidate for governor, heard the noise of the explosion when the door of the safe was blown through a window and through the branches of a tree, finally tumbling itself in the roof of the railroad station at East Walpole.
As the night watchman started to investigate, he was confronted by the four robbers, who immediately opened fire as they retreated down the road to their automobile, which was waiting. The burglars took nothing from the safe.

BIG PRICES ARE ASKED

For the Tickets for the World's Series

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—With the first world's series game in this city only five days away, the quotations on single chances to see the initial struggle rose today to $7 bid and $12 asked. Lucky baseball fans with covered pieces of pasteboard secure in their pockets could be easily distinguished by their conspicuous stouts, who the best fortunate followers of the game seemed worried. Betting on the series has not been particularly brisk in this city. The Red Sox have ruled strong favorites over the Giants from the time the lineup of the world series clubs was definitely settled, but a death of New York money has curbed the gambling instinct in Boston. It was reported yesterday that the odds which were 10 to 7 and 5 to 3 on the Red Sox had dwindled to even money. Investigation, however, failed to disclose any great amount of confidence in the ability of the Giants to win the series and few wagers were made.
The Red Sox are expected to return from Philadelphia on Sunday and will have a final workout at Fenway park next Monday. It is planned to give them a lively and encouraging send-off when they leave for New York and several hundred of their most devoted followers will accompany them so that they may hear some Boston cheers for their encouragement.
This band of supporters are busily engaged in learning baseball songs set to popular ditties. It is expected that this feature will be almost as pronounced as at a football contest.

HELD A SHORT SESSION

Two Boys Sent Away by Judge Enright

It took Judge Enright just 15 minutes this morning to dispose of the few cases which were brought to his attention at the police court session. There were three first offenders for drunkenness, who were released after being fined $2 each, and the last case was that of neglect of wife which was brought against George Holbert. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty, and at his request the case was continued till next Tuesday.
Two Boys Sent Away
The two most important cases in the juvenile session were that of Henry Delveau, who was charged with breaking and entering and larceny on three counts, and his cousin, Henry Tremblay, charged with being a delinquent child. The former was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory, while the latter was sent to the Lyman school.

LOWELL COUNCIL, R. A.
Held Smoke Talk With Minstrel Entertainment and an Address By P. G. R. Henry Goodwin of Boston.

A very largely attended smoke talk was held last night in Odd Fellows Temple under the auspices of Lowell council No. 8, Royal Arcturion, followed by an entertainment by the Honey Boy Minstrels.

A short business meeting was held previous to the smoke talk and one application for membership was received. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Past Grand Regent Henry Goodwin of Boston, one of the seven charter members of the order. He was accompanied by Grand Chaplain Hugh Walker.

The Honey Boy Minstrels then gave their concert and entertainment which was fully appreciated. The minstrels were under the charge of Musical Director William H. Way, the accompanist being Emile Hiron, while the interlocutor was Joseph M. Donohue. The program rendered was as follows:

Opening overture; and song, C. Austin Carey; song, Andrew Doyle; song, "Dixie" Donohue; song, Paul Coleman; song, "Bib" "Thump" Humble; zither solo, John Hansen; bass solo, Guy Johnson; song, "Cleveland K. Noble"; song, John Wilke; grand finale, the entire company with solo by Arthur Enright.
The committee in charge of this entertainment was composed of Hiram J. S. Jackson and Orator E. J. White.

AVIATOR WAS KILLED

He Fell 2,000 Feet at Fair in Trenton

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 4.—With 60,000 persons watching him at the Interstate Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon, Charles F. Walsh, while making a spiral descent in a Curtiss biplane, fell to instant death about a quarter of a mile outside of the fair grounds. When physicians reached him, Walsh was dead and his machine a complete wreck. Practically every bone in his body was broken and his face and body were badly cut. He had fallen 2000 feet.

Walsh had been giving exhibitions at the fair all the week, and this year, for the first time, was doing fancy stunts with his machine. He was very high yesterday, probably 5000 feet, as he began his descent.

He was making the spiral descent with the front of the machine pointed almost downward when the upper plane seemed to become loose.

Walsh could plainly be seen struggling to regain his balance, but without avail. The biplane made a rapid descent to the earth and the large number of spectators realized that Walsh had lost control of the machine and that death was imminent.

The accident had a depressing effect upon the audience at the fair grounds and within a few minutes nearly half of those present began an exodus. Walsh's body was brought to a morgue in this city and Secretary Magarum of the fair association gave orders for the abandonment of other flights scheduled for the day.

Groom Has Sign on Crawford
One of the oddities of baseball is the sign that Pitcher Groom of Washington has on Sam Crawford, a slugger who can be depended on to hit almost any twirler hard even if not safely. When Sam gets a single off Robert, it's an event, and when he hits the ball out of the infield he is happy. Usually he bays or yells to an outfielder, crying, "Hit with an occasional strikeout."

EIGHT PERSONS WERE KILLED

Six Cars Plunged from Rail Down Embankment at Westport and Were Burned

SOUTH NORWALK, Ct., Oct. 4.—At least eight persons were killed, including four women, when the second section of the Springfield express, bound from Boston for New York, was wrecked at a cross-over in Naugatuck at 4:44 p. m. yesterday.

About 20 passengers were injured. It is not thought that any of the injuries will prove to be fatal.

Most of the bodies of those killed were so burned as to render identification difficult.

The train, consisting of a heavy engine, baggage and mail cars, three Boston Pullmans, two Springfield Pullmans and three day coaches, was to have taken a switch from the inner to the outer track in order to carry it by a standing work-train.

For some unexplained reason, Engineer George L. Clark, who lost his life in the accident, gave his heavy train at top speed into the cross-over. The engine leaped the rails after crossing a bridge spanning a roadway and toppled on its side half way down a 15-foot embankment. Almost immediately the boiler burst. In an instant the baggage and mail cars plunged down the embankment to the roadway where they were splintered. The first Pullman car leaped on top of the engine and burst into flames, incinerating several of the imprisoned passengers. Debris from the explosion scattered for hundreds of yards and many windows in the vicinity were smashed.

Engineer Clark was instantly killed and J. J. Moker, his fireman, fatally injured. Mrs. George L. Clark, wife of the engineer, was killed in the first Pullman car.

Two Have Marvelous Escape

The baggage car completely catapulted the engine but a baggage man and a newsboy in it escaped with their lives. The 4 chair cars next following were overturned and in the first of these occurred the loss of life. The three day-coaches, although derailed, remained upright. To add to the distress the wreck carried down the poles carrying wires alongside of the tracks and delay ensued before outside assistance could be secured.

As soon as possible the South Norwalk fire department responded and at once began on the burning cars. Meantime darkness had settled down upon the wreck, surgeons had been called from the cities of Norwalk, South Norwalk, Bridgeport and New Haven and a special train ordered made up at Stamford to take away those passengers who were able to proceed. The work of rescue of the injured passengers could be prosecuted but very slowly and for several hours fire burned in the wreckage. Automobiles have valuable aid hurrying the injured to hospitals.

The dead aside from the engine crew are all believed to have been passengers in the first chair car. Fears are held that in this car many passengers lost their lives because those who got out of the second chair car say that at that time flames were running over the sides of the first car.

Under the engine were found the bodies of two women who died with hands clasped. Of the injured it is believed the number will run to 50, although only a small number in the early evening had been sent by ambulances to the Norwalk hospital. The east-bound tracks were cleared early.

Torture for Prisoners

Uninjured passengers and witnesses of the accident dashed forward to the burning car and made desperate attempts to reach the penned and dying passengers, but were driven back by the flames. Frenzied screams and cries gave evidence of the torture of the imprisoned ones.

The train left Boston at noon via Springfield, and owing to the heavy traffic a second section was made up. This section left New Haven immediately following the first section.

This statement concerning the wreck was issued from the New Haven & Hartford railroad at 10:15 last night: "The 12 o'clock train out of Boston for New York, which runs over the New Haven to New York, was wrecked at the Westport crossover, about 4:45 p. m. today.

"It was the second section of train No. 35, and was pulled by Engineer George L. Clark, one of the old-time engineers of the New Haven.

"The train had 10 cars, consisting of one baggage, one mail, four parlor, three coaches and one smoking car in the order named. The engine tender, baggage car, mail, four parlor cars and one coach were derailed, the engine going down the bank. The baggage car went by the engine, the mail and one parlor car followed and the wreck on top of the engine.

"Balance of the derailed cars were partially tipped over. The mail and three parlor cars caught fire, the fourth parlor car was scorched on the end. "All passengers got out except those in the first parlor car."

RECEPTION AT Y.W.C.A.

The New Secretary Was Greeted by Members

The local quarters of the Y. W. C. A. was the scene of a very pretty and largely attended reception last evening when its members gathered there to greet Miss Harriet L. Boutelle, the new secretary.

The hall was very tastefully and attractively decorated with autumnal foliage, carnations, palms, hydrangeas and other plants and flowers. An orchestra composed of Miss Mildred Freeman, violinist; Miss Grace McEvoy, cornetist, and Miss Ola Sargent, pianist, furnished very enjoyable music for the affair, and the evening, viewed from every aspect, was a great success.

Miss Boutelle was the recipient of the good wishes of all present for success in her work for the association. The event was also in the nature of a rally for the opening of the class work which will take place next week. Miss Boutelle said that the organization would resume activities and that there will probably be several new features this year. All the societies are planning for an extremely busy fall season.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. William E. Brink, chairman of the shop meeting committee of the Boston association and at the close of the reception about 9:30 o'clock, he began informally to address the gathering. He spoke briefly, touching on the factors, physical and moral, of the success of the young girl in the business world. He explained the requirements, mentioning character, reliability and personality.

The social committee, which had charge of the ushers, the decorations, and the music, was composed of the following: Mrs. G. D. Farley, chairman; Mrs. John T. Roy, Mrs. Arthur Cashin, Mrs. Albert French, Mrs. Chas. E. Meader, Mrs. John A. Stevens, Mrs. Sam Shimley and Miss Margaret Archbold.

The educational committee, which discussed the plans for the educational work of the winter with informal groups, was composed of the following: Mrs. Alvan Sturgeess, chairman; Miss Helen Buttrick, Miss Winifred Nelson, Miss Charlotte Meader, and Miss Catherine Paulsner.

The gymnasium committee, which had charge of the refreshments which were served during the evening, was composed of the following: Mrs. Clarence H. Nelson, chairman; Mrs. D. E. Yarnell, Mrs. Edwin N. Sleeper, Mrs.

Harry Walker, Miss Juna Sleeper, Miss Maud Smith, Miss Sadie Sweet and Miss Winifred Nelson.

The ushers were Miss Olive Douglass, Miss Charlotte Meader, Miss Ethel Putnam, Miss Alice Cochran, Miss Helen Thomas, Miss Alice Mills, Miss Vita Gergswell, Miss Marion Farley, Miss Olga Lurgin, Miss Louise Bancroft and Miss Florence Knowlton.

WOMAN BURIED AT SEA

She Passed Away on the Cymric

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—A death at sea and an attempted suicide occurred on board the White Star liner Cymric, which reached port yesterday afternoon from Liverpool and Queenstown. On Sept. 27, the second day out from Queenstown, Mary Moran, aged 26, on her way from Sandville, County Kerry, to visit Mrs. Patrick Hurley, an old friend living at Springfield, Mass., died suddenly of heart disease.

The following morning the body, wrapped in a white shroud, was lowered over the side, after a priest had read the prayers for the dead. The impressive ceremony was attended by most of the passengers and officers.

The most startling incident of the passage was the attempted suicide of William Kerrigan, one of the steerage passengers, who boarded the liner at Queenstown. Before he had been on board very long he divested himself of all his clothing and dashed through the steerage quarters to the deck. He attempted to fling himself over the rail when one of the quartermasters grabbed him by the leg. Kerrigan struggled to free himself, but the quartermaster retained his hold. They rolled about the deck and Kerrigan finally wrenched a section of a steam pipe from its fastenings and was about to use it on the quartermaster when several members of the crew pounced on the crazed man and put him in a strait-jacket. It is thought that Kerrigan's mental derangement is only temporary, but it will probably have the effect of barring him from entry into the country.

The Cymric brought 24 cabin passengers and 740 steerage. Among those in the cabin were Frederick P. Leary, the British consul general at this port, Mrs. Leary and two daughters, returning from a visit to their home in England; Charles S. French, cousin of United States Dist. Atty. French, with his wife and two sons; Mrs. Francis Hurlbut, Miss Rosalind Hurlbut and Mrs. Virginia Hurlbut of Boston and Charles F. Hoffman of Minneapolis.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The Lowell Ows met in regular business session last night and transacted a large amount of routine business. The quarterly statement of the treasurer was given as was also the report of the financial secretary. The class initiation, which is being worked up, will take place at the next regular meeting of the next, which will be Thursday evening, Oct. 17. Deputy Supreme President King has been invited to be present and a large attendance is looked for.

A committee of five, of which Vice President Bowers is chairman, was appointed to make arrangements for putting on a banquet in the early winter. This committee is composed of bustling young men and much is expected of them.

Trades and Labor Council

A meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held last night at 32 Middle street and interesting reports were heard from President Rourke and Edward Welch, delegates to the recent convention of the State branch. Harvey B. Greene, fraternal delegate from the Federation of Churches, spoke interestingly on the convict ship, now on exhibition in Boston and also on the settlement of international differences by arbitration. The organizing committee reported the formation of the Telephone Operators' union and they were admitted in the council membership.

Odd Ladies

The regular meeting of Loyal Victoria lodge, Odd Ladies, was held last night and at the close of the routine business an enjoyable musical program was given by Sisters Crowthers and Toy.

Knights of Pythias

Lowell lodge, 24, Knights of Pythias, held its regular meeting last night at its hall, 134 Merrimack street, and transacted a large amount of routine business. The entertainment committee reported good progress on the proposed visit to the William B. Yates lodge on Monday, Oct. 7.

Elgin Lodge, N. E. O. P.

The regular meeting of Elgin lodge, 166, N. E. O. P., was held last night in Veritas hall and considerable business was transacted.

The entertainment committee reported that it had been decided to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Elgin lodge, by an open meeting and entertainment on Dec. 3. After the business meeting, the degree staff went through its drill and showed considerable proficiency.

ECZEMA ON LIMB ITCHED DREADFULLY

Scatched in Sleep. Spread Rapidly. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Worked Wonders. Stopped Itching and In Less Than a Week Healed Entirely. Cost 75 Cents.

27 Whitely Ave., Cambridge, Mass.—"My trouble was eczema. It began by my nose-supporter rubbing and poisoning the skin on my leg just above the knee. The eruption was small pimples which itched dreadfully. When I scratched them they would stab over and they itched so nights that I scratched the scabs off in my sleep. They spread rapidly. I used which hand, different carbolio salves but nothing did it any good until a neighbor told me how her hands were cracked open and bleeding and that Cuticura cured her. I had been to so much expense buying remedies that did not keep that I sent for samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment before using. They worked wonders. They stopped the itching and in less than a week's time it had healed entirely. After using a full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap, costing less than 75c." (Signed) Mrs. W. E. Lewis, Nov. 25, 1911.

For treating your complexion, red, rough hands and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorites for more than a generation. Sold throughout the world. Liberal samples of each mailed free, with 42-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T. Boston."

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE

Was Addressed by Francis McLean

Francis McLean, a representative of the national association, addressed the Lowell Social Service league last night in Matthews hall.

adopted to the effect that the meeting endorse the proposition for the establishment of a league for social service, according to the purposes stated by the chairman, and in the constitution already adopted. Also that the provisional committee of the league be instructed to proceed to organize, and to elect officers for the first year and prepare and submit plans of operations to the board of directors.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman of the provisional committee, J. J. Gallagher, who explained the object of the Social Service league as defined in the constitution. It is, briefly stated, to be a center of inter-communication between the churches and charitable organizations of the city, and to be a clearing house for the charitable distribution of money. It is hoped to simplify, by co-operation, the charitable work of the city, and to make it more effective, preventing duplication of work by the various societies, while other needy cases are overlooked.

Mr. McLean gave an informal talk on the best methods to employ in solving family problems. Social service work, he said, is just a game of fairness, and a system of constructive work. It is not a question of undemocratic work, but it means giving just such helpful advice as we would ourselves desire in the same circumstances. He emphasized the importance of thorough and careful investigation, not for the purpose of determining whether or not the family is worthy—a consideration that does not enter into the problem at all—but in order to find the best methods of solving each individual family problem.

Another important point, he said, is to have a trained social worker in charge. Economy in the choice of a secretary is a poor policy. Many societies have failed recently just because they did not realize the need of professional ability of the highest sort.

The speaker also warned against financial dependence upon municipal appropriations. He said the society should be financed by means of private subscriptions, in order to be independent of local politics.

PROGRESSIVES MEETING

Daniel Cosgrove the Star Orator at Boston Rally

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—To open their state campaign 3500 progressives crowded into Tremont Temple last night and "overflowed" into Faneuil hall.

In numbers the rally exceeded the turnout at the Foss rally at the close of the recent primary campaign. As for cheering and other forms of applause, the gathering set a new mark for the year.

The audiences were ready to cheer on the slightest provocation. The mention of Roosevelt's name started hand-clapping, waving of handkerchiefs, moose calls and cheering. Even the statement of a progressive plank was considered worthy of applause.

Hisses greeted Chairman Matthew Hale's reference to Senators Barnes, Penrose and Crane. There was some applause, but whether it was for the attack or the object of the attack was not clear. Every derogatory reference to the republican party was cheered and while the democrats came in for censure, as well, the tribute Charles F. Bird, the candidate for governor, paid to Grover Cleveland, of whom he was a supporter, was applauded.

Collection Taken Up

There were several distinctly Bull Moose features of the rally. One was the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and other songs of the Armies; another the taking up of a collection such as one is accustomed to see at the Sunday services at the Temple; and a third the genuine moose call given by a Maine hunter equipped with a birch bark horn. The collection brought in within a few cents of $200.

In his first speech in the campaign before a Boston audience Mr. Bird took his stand firmly upon the national platform of the progressive party. The same issues for which he stands were outlined in his letter of acceptance. His reference to the purpose of the party to improve the condition of the workingmen were applauded no less generously than his attacks upon his republican and democratic opponents.

Cheers interrupted his recital of the names of the new movement in the progressive movement, and when he had concluded a voice in the audience shouted: "Name Adams, too." His attack upon the "untrustworthy republican press" brought out cries of "Buck 'em." He advocated the publication of a newspaper in which the state shall give faithful reports of political and other matters.

Daniel Cosgrove, the former Lowell alderman who is running for lieutenant governor, entertained the audience by his statement of reasons for being in the party. He cut before the meeting unknown as a speaker outside of his home city, but he carried away the honors of the evening, at least so far as they were measured by the applause.

Overflow Meeting

Addresses were also made by H. Heustis Newton of Everett, candidate for attorney general; Russell A. Wood of Cambridge, candidate for secretary of state; and Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard, who is running for the state senate.

A procession of 700 progressives from Walpole, Dedham, Cambridge and other places greeted Mr. Bird at the South station and escorted him to Tremont Temple. There was another parade from the North station, but the hall was filled when the paraders arrived at Tremont Temple and they were sent to the overflow meeting at Faneuil hall.

RED SOX SLAUGHTER PITCHERS

Joe Wood Held Athletics Down to Eight Hits—Two New York Players at Game

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The fast fading World's Champions of old Philadelphia were given a fine trouncing here yesterday afternoon by the Boston Speed Boys, before a good-sized crowd of spectators led by Ben Shibe and Cornelius McGillicuddy. The official records will credit Boston with 17 runs and the Athletics with 8.

The game was witnessed by Christopher Columbus Matthews and Richard Le Marquand, more commonly known as "Rube" Marquand, who were commissioned by Napoleon Johnnie McGraw of New York to take notes of the Red Sox's work points.

The Broadway experts occupied front seats close to the Boston dugout, and for four innings exchanged sniffs. Up to this time the Athletics led the opposition by a score of 5 to 0.

The villain Baker made a big noise with a home-run drive in the sixth inning, with two on. Baker's hit went through the score board in left field and was a beautiful swing.

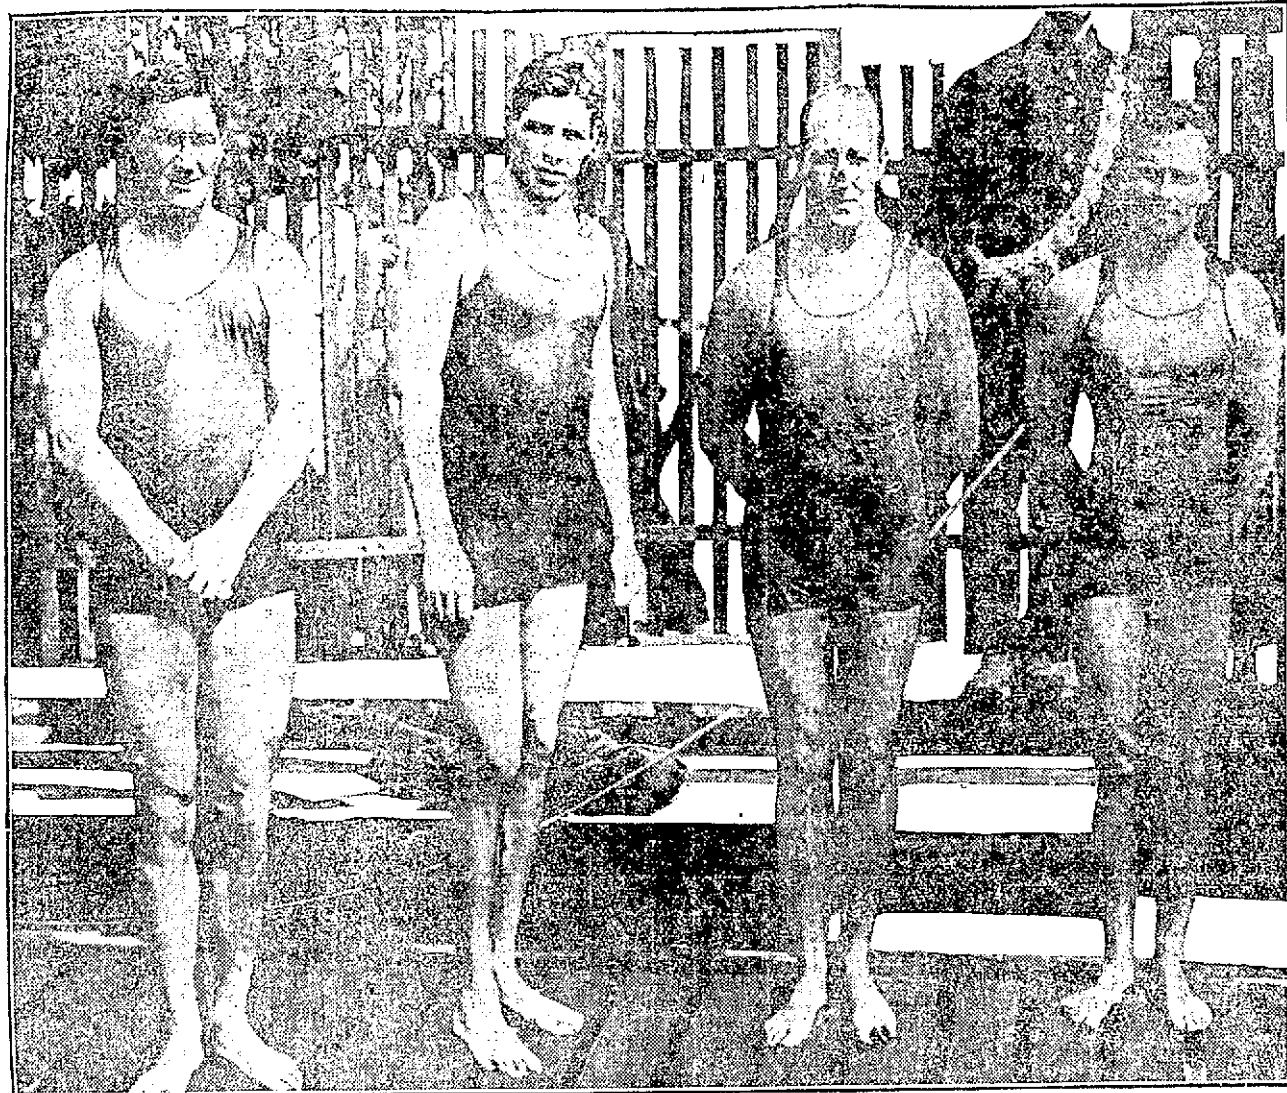

The Athletics were after second place, and figured they would get the money, even with Sir Joseph Wood on the rubber. For four innings it looked as if they would, and then commenced the working of passes, a home run drive by "Punch" Egan, with bases full, and after the third man went down in the fifth.

Lewis' tremendous drive to the center field fence brought a cheer from the Boston bench, and the Boston players yelled: "Make a note of that hit, Matty." All through the game after this, when Boston batted, the ball in the Athletics' hands was a sure sign.

The Boston drive was fairly, a home run by Lewis, a double by Speaker, and a walk to first and Stubb's failure to stop a grounder that went through his legs, allowed the home team three of its five runs. The other two were the result of a scratch hit by Collins and Baker's home run.

Joe Wood was very well, and was hit rather freely in the first three in-

SPEAKER GETS THE AUTO

Voted Best Player in the American League

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Champions among real champions will pilot the trophy automobiles this season. The last vote has been cast by the 11 critics chosen for the purpose of determining the awards, and Ren Mulford, Jr., chairman of this body, arrived in Chicago yesterday bearing the papers which proclaim Tris Speaker, center fielder of the pennant-winning Boston Red Sox, and Larry Doyle, second baseman and captain of the New York Giants, the greatest all-around players of their respective leagues for the season of 1912.

Tris Speaker, president of the Chalmers Company of Detroit, who last season evolved this idea of stimulating the general play and conduct of the big leagues, will be present next Tuesday at the Polo grounds, New York, to deliver a Chalmers car into the keeping of Capt. Larry Doyle.

The following day at Fenway park, Boston, the motor car maker will make a big award to Speaker, when the Athletics and the Red Sox prepare for the second battle of the world's championship.

In arriving at their decisions, the members of the commission considered every angle in the all-around behavior of the players, their hitting ability, machine skill, base-running, fielding, etc. Eight points constituted the higher any commissioner could give in favor of any athlete.

In computing the strength and assistance rendered to Boston by Speaker, the commissioners rated the hard-hitting Texan within 5 points of a "top four" while Doyle landed the highest mark attainable by 16 points.

RECORD RACE BY PACERS

Evelyn W. Wins in Five Heats that Average Better than 2:03

COLUMBIA, O., Oct. 4.—The most remarkable long-distance racing race in history was staged at the Grand Circuit meeting yesterday afternoon. Evelyn W. and Earl Jr., fighting five heats for the first time in the five-for-all class, the time of the event averaging a shade better than 2:03.

The event was marred by an accident to the fast local horse, Independence Boy, who broke a bone in his left hind leg just after the start of the first heat and will probably never race again.

It was a day of split-heat races, all of the events going five heats, and the 2:07 pace was carried over until today, unfinished, with three minutes to go.

Best heat winners. Evelyn W. a favorite. In the first heat, Evelyn W. was a strong favorite for the fast pace, but he was out of the race in the first heat, the fastest was 2:02 1/2 and the slowest 2:08, with an average a shade better than 2:04 1/2, which shows and how fast the side-winners were looking for the money.

she could do was to win the third heat, taking a record of 2:10.

Miss Davis won the first heat, but the race went to Ben Zolock, a very fast trotter, who has been unsteady in his previous starts. Belle Ashland was not equal to beating the flag in the final heat.

The 2:07 pacers put up a corking contest and the event is still undecided. Babe and Ty Cobb having two heats each and Walter Cochato one.

Ty Cobb lived up to the reputation of his name as a sprinter in the first two heats, outrunning the field in a stretch drive each time, but a mile in 2:04 1/2 in the third by Babe was too much for him, as he had broken early in the heat.

Walter Cochato beat the Babe in the fourth, but the latter was too much for him in the fifth, after which the race went over.

"Top" Geers today worked Barney Gibbs, the high-priced stake prospect for 1913, recently purchased by Frank G. Jones, a mile in 2:03 1/2, his fastest since joining the Geers stable. The summary:

LIEUT. WALLER

Has Returned Home After a Two Months' Visit in Principal Countries of Europe

After a two months' trip to the principal countries of Europe, Dr. Schuyler R. Waller, lieutenant of G company, Sixth regiment, M. V. M., returned home yesterday afternoon.

Lieutenant Waller, it will be remembered, left for Europe a few days after the close of the Connecticut campaign and went immediately to London. While there, he was the guest of Captain Terence, of the Irish guards, at the Tower of London and had the pleasure of inspecting the entire garrison. He was greatly impressed with the showing they made, and devoted not a little time to discussing tactics and maneuvers. He then visited the following countries in order: Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France. In Switzerland, he saw many of the troops returning from the maneuvers.

He was present at the first weekly drill of the season of his company at the army in Westford street last night. It is expected that later he will give talks to the company members on the military systems of other countries.

This week is Quarter Week at the Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

Was Rescued From a Life Drudgery

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Alice Kelly, the 15-year-old daughter of Gregory Kelly of No. 235 East One Hundred and Twenty-fourth streets, who 14 years ago was separated from her father, was rescued by him yesterday from a life of drudgery in the family of a foster parent in the Bronx.

During the past four years the father has searched for his daughter. He had kissed her goodbye in 1898 when he and his wife moved away from their home, No. 829 Greenwich avenue. Ten years passed and then the husband learned his wife was dead and his daughter lost to him in this city.

The father at once started a search and at last found his daughter in a rooming on 165th street, the Bronx. The foster parents were loath to give the child up, for from her an income was derived. They had put her to work in a paper box factory, taking the 31 cents earned each week. But, factory work was only part of her duties. She was forced to rise at 5 each morning, cook breakfast for her foster father, who is an expressman, and the foster mother to get a morning's meal for other children and then go to the factory. At night she was home by 6, but not through with her work until 11.

"The child should be thankful for the home," said the foster mother yesterday. "I have her a few pennies for candy each week and clothed and fed her. I even allowed her 10 cents a week to pay for life insurance. Who was the beneficiary? I, of course."

Alice was seen last night and said she is the happiest child in the world. Her father and his present wife—married to him for four years—were beginning with joy.

"A man who knew my wife knew also where my daughter was," the father said. "I hunted for him beside searching for my daughter, directly, for through him I felt I could learn of her whereabouts. Two years ago I found him, but he pleaded he must have a day in which to obtain her address. I returned the next day, but he had given up his work. I know he meant to wait until Alice was earning a good wage and then claim her as his daughter."

"A few days ago I found him again. I was careful this time and hauled him to a police station. He told me the truth and I located my daughter."

"Up in the Bronx they tried to keep Alice from me. I had a photograph of her when she was 13 months old and she, luckily, had a duplicate. She had a few other things, that I knew in those old days, and since those people had no legal guardianship I took her from them. She is to return to school at once. My income as a waiter isn't much, but on it we three can easily live."

Bubonic Plague in Azores

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—A dispatch from Henry T. Gage, United States minister at Lisbon, to the state department yesterday stated that bubonic plague had broken out in Terceira island. A quarantine has been declared. Terceira island is one of the islands in the Azores.

Woman's Golf Championship

MANCHESTER, Oct. 4.—Miss Margaret Curtis of Boston, playing with a badly crippled hand, and Mrs. Ronald Barlow of Philadelphia won their respective matches today in the semi-finals of the national women's golf championship at the Essex Country club. They will meet tomorrow in the finals if Miss Curtis is in condition to play.

Attempted to Kill Young Matron

DETROIT, Oct. 4.—William J. Reisenweber, 45 years old, said to be a wealthy clubman, living at the Ansonia hotel, New York city, is alleged to have made a murderous assault on Mrs. Gould Allen, 24 years old, wife of a prominent Detroit man, yesterday afternoon. The police are searching the city for Reisenweber, but he is still at large.

Reisenweber is very much infatuated with Mrs. Allen and has paid her considerable attention, which she says, has been against her wishes. Today's attack was the second one he made on the young woman with a knife.

Reisenweber is alleged to have gone to the rear door of the Allen home, on the East Grand boulevard, and cut the screen out of the door and gained an entrance to the house. Mrs. Allen heard him, and when she went to see who it was met him in the hall. He pulled a knife and slashed her across the throat, cutting a gash an eighth of an inch from the jugular vein, and slashed her across the breast. He then ran out of the house and has not been seen since.

THE GREAT WHITE WAY

Plans for it Have Been Prepared

It seems almost a foregone conclusion that Lowell is to have a "white way" extending from the city hall to the railroad station in Middlesex street. The proposed system of ornamental street lighting seems to meet with universal favor.

Alderman Brown had the blue prints in front of him when a reporter of the Sun called at his office this forenoon. Alderman Brown said he felt very much pleased over the arrangement that he had arrived at with the Lowell Electric Light corporation and he thinks the municipal council will take kindly to the proposition.

"The Lowell Electric Light Corporation has agreed to install the proposed ornamental street lighting system at its own expense. This has not been done by any lighting company in any other city that I have heard of and I do not see why we should reject it," said Mr. Brown. "With the white way included we will not have to pay any more for our street lighting than is being paid at the present time."

St. Louis Couple in a Mental Wedding

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—Following the example of their brother and sister, Ernest Roehlk, a fresco painter, and Miss Elizabeth Olk, also an artist, were joined in "mental wedlock" in New York a fortnight ago. Rumors of the marriage were confirmed yesterday by Hugo Olk, brother of the bride and member of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra.

"My sister and Ernest Roehlk were married by a clergyman following their return from Europe, where they have been studying," said Mr. Olk. "Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Roehlk have the same ideas of the dominance of mind over matter that Louis Roehlk and my sister Maria had. Although their marriage was unconventional their union will be platonic. They hope to become parents through mental means."

Louis Roehlk and Maria Olk announced on April 27, 1911, that "on the 12th of August, 1910, we were united before God and man," and that they hoped to produce a perfect child by "will power."

Such a storm of indignation swept over the west after this announcement that the young couple, both of whom are also artists, were forced to go through a legally ordained marriage ceremony.

"No child has come to my sister Maria and her husband," said Hugo Olk yesterday. "But, bah! It makes no difference. They are busy with their art and their music. In a year, maybe two, the child will come. My brother-in-law had an idea, maybe, of becoming a father by process of mind and will. But it doesn't bother him any more."

"Then the idea has been abandoned for the present?"

The musician thought deeply, an operation that required much shaking of his curly locks.

Mull Clerk Injured

WORCESTER, Oct. 4.—Rev. W. H. Goggin, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic church, received a telegram last night stating that his brother, Edward F. Goggin, a railway mail clerk on the Worcester river, was in the hospital but not seriously injured. The name Daniel B. Cleaver does not appear in the Worcester directory, and the police were unable to locate his residence.

And of equal interest to "the folks" the wear is there. Pants strengthened to receive the hard knocks, and coats with extra strong linings and stays.

ROOSEVELT A WITNESS

ment that the Roosevelt administration's treatment of the Standard Oil Co. rivaled "darkest Abyssinia."

"It is true that when I was president I administered the darkest Abyssinian treatment to the Standard Oil Co., but it was because it was needed. If I administered it again I will again administer it to any corporation of the Standard Oil type that may need it."

"All these men who testify against me testify that I refused to do anything improper in their interests and they are all now supporting the candidates against me—those who are alive."

He said he had a fight with the Standard Oil Co. in 1904 when he was getting through the bureau of corporations bill.

"Senator Clapp, you were in the fight and so were you, Senator Payner, I believe."

He finally got the bill through, he said, by publishing telegrams sent by the younger Mr. Rockefeller.

"I had my first brush with the Standard Oil Co. then," he said, "and they knew just what they could expect from me."

Col. Roosevelt emphasized his statements with blows of his hand on the witness chair.

"I wish call your attention to this fact in connection with Mr. J. P. Morgan's testimony yesterday regarding the Northern Securities case. The Northern Securities case was settled with a verdict against Mr. Morgan and J. J. Hill. It was also during my first administration that I settled the antitrust case striking down the Standard Oil Co. then," he said, "and they knew just what they could expect from me."

Col. Roosevelt said he first heard of Mr. Morgan's contribution in the testimony yesterday. He insisted that during the 1904 campaign Mr. Bliss had assured him that no promises, expressed or implied, had been made in return for contributions and Mr. Bliss had never asked him after his election for any favors for contributors.

Regarding his campaign this year, Col. Roosevelt said:

"I saw the different men who were interested in my campaign at Chicago and before, and explained explicitly that I would not accept of any kind by the use of money, or the offer of patronage to get delegates for me. The only time I ever saw it charged was in reference to Ormsby McHarg. I wrote a letter to him and got an answer which I have here."

Col. Roosevelt's letter asked Mr. McHarg for "his personal assurance" that he had never used money or other influence to secure his delegates.

Mr. McHarg's reply read in part: "Unhesitatingly say that no man can say that I ever endeavored by the use of money or the promise of patronage to aid your campaign. I wish to unequivocally deny that charge. I will add that you would immediately regulate me if I did make any such effort."

Col. Roosevelt took up the allegation that $2,000,000 was used in the progressive primary campaign.

those men he called here immediately and asked to produce their proof."

"The man who bears false witness is guilty of as infamous conduct as the man who steals. If Mr. Bachelder or Mr. Miles can prove their statements they ought to be compelled to do so. If they cannot they ought to be driven out of public life."

Col. Roosevelt demanded that Chas. B. Taft, William McKinley and also Chairman McCoombs and Vice Chairman McAdoo of the democratic committee be summoned.

"You can see it is hard on me," said Col. Roosevelt, "to have to wait a month to answer Mr. Archbold's charges and then to have things so arranged that the attention of the country is riveted on the campaign expenses of the progressive party while no attention is directed to the campaign funds of the other candidates."

"I assure you that if the committee hears the other men will be brought here before election," said Chairman Clapp.

At this point the committee recessed until 1:30 o'clock.

ALL FREIGHT JUMPERS

To be Arrested by the Police Officials

There were five or six boys before the juvenile court this forenoon for "freight jumping," which means that the youngsters had been stealing rides on freight trains. Now this is a very dangerous practice and the police, railroad officials and others have decided that extra means must be employed to prevent it. To this end the police and special officers connected with the railroads have orders to arrest all freight jumpers and bring them to court.

There was one very sad home coming in this city last night. It was that of a boy who left a good home and kind relatives here just to see the world. He left a note behind saying that he had no complaint to find as to his home treatment but that he was anxious to see the world. Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society happened to be at the boy's home when he returned last night and the poor fellow was minus his left arm and right leg. He had been stealing rides on freight trains and in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., he was tossed under a train and deprived of a leg and arm. He spent about three months in a hospital and then turned his face toward home. Agent Richardson said it was the saddest homecoming he ever witnessed.

WHY VOTE AGAINST THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE

In the bewildering appeals to the electorate, it is difficult for the voters in many cases to determine just which party is right and which is wrong. To the man of intelligence who has given any attention to the recent trend of affairs it must be very clear that the republican party is responsible for the high cost of living, for the oppressive tariff, the dangerous power of the trusts, the cold storage and other evils by which the necessities of life are cornered and held up until scarcity drives the prices to starvation figures.

The republican party while claiming to favor a tariff that will represent the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, has a tariff equal to many times that difference and in some cases so high that the trusts doing business under it can ship their products to Europe or Asia and there sell them at half the price demanded from the American consumer.

The secret of that is, that while the trust is protected from foreign competition, "to foster the infant industry," it throttles domestic competition and then has the power to plunder the people just as much as it pleases. This power is tyrannically used by the beef trust, the steel trust, and many others that control not only the necessities of life but clothing and building materials.

The constitution provides that the government alone shall have power to levy taxes; but the power enjoyed by a trust controlling any of the necessities of life and fully protected against foreign and domestic competition enjoys a power to tax the people so far as they are able to pay.

The trust hoards its product until a short supply puts up the price. If any attempt be made to relieve the situation by foreign competition, then the supply locked up in big storehouses, or may be in cold storage, will be thrown upon the market so as to make the importation of the commodity highly unprofitable.

That is how the American consumer is swindled, humbugged and robbed. Yet that is the system built up by the high republican tariff and the republican alliance with the trusts. The trusts rather than the party control the government today and this is why the people should rise in their might and drive the party from power, or in other words wrest the government from control of the trusts and place it in charge of a party that is free and independent of trust power and influence.

But the republican party promised to lower the tariff. It promised to do so in 1904 and again in 1908, yet it violated its pledges to the people because it is in the hands of the trusts and combines known as the "standpat element." When the people thoroughly aroused elected democrats to the house of representatives sufficient to make a majority these democrats framed a number of tariff bills to bring urgent relief from the most oppressive tariff schedules; but President Taft vetoed these measures. Is that the party or Taft the candidate to re-elect to power?

According to Congressman Underwood, the democratic leader, these tariff bills if passed into law would have lifted from the shoulders of the people the sum of $650,000,000 annually without injuring any legitimate industry in the country. Thus it appears that President Taft could not induce the republicans to revise the tariff downward and when the democrats submitted bills to relieve the situation, he did not have the courage to place them on the statute book by affixing his signature. By so doing President Taft betrayed the people when he had a chance to protect them and he did so through fear of his party and knowing full well that he was acting against the best interests of all the people.

Is not this sufficient reason why President Taft and the party that elected him should be relegated to oblivion?

The republican party is subservient to the money power of the country which has financed its campaigns with mammoth contributions as appears from the investigation now being conducted by the United States senate, the revelations of Penrose, Archbold and various other authorities. For every election since 1892 the republican party collected several million dollars from corporations to be spent in carrying the close states. How was this money spent if not to debauch the electorate? Yet this is the party that asks to be retained in control of the government for four years more. It is true, as appears from the investigation, that the trusts and combines represented by such men as the late Mr. Harriman, J. P. Morgan, who is still in the game, John D. Rockefeller and others have financed the republican campaigns.

These are the influences that have been plundering the people and that will continue to do so unless they are turned down in the coming election. It is the duty of every citizen, therefore, to vote against the republican party as represented by Mr. Taft and if there is such overwhelming reasons for voting against Taft there are ever so many more and ever so much greater reasons why they should vote against the Bull Moose candidate, Colonel Roosevelt. Both being, therefore, leagued against the people the only candidate for whom the honest citizen can conscientiously vote is Governor Wilson of New Jersey, the nominee of the democratic party, the party of Jefferson, Jackson and Cleveland, the party of the people, that stands against special privileges and for equal rights and opportunities for all.

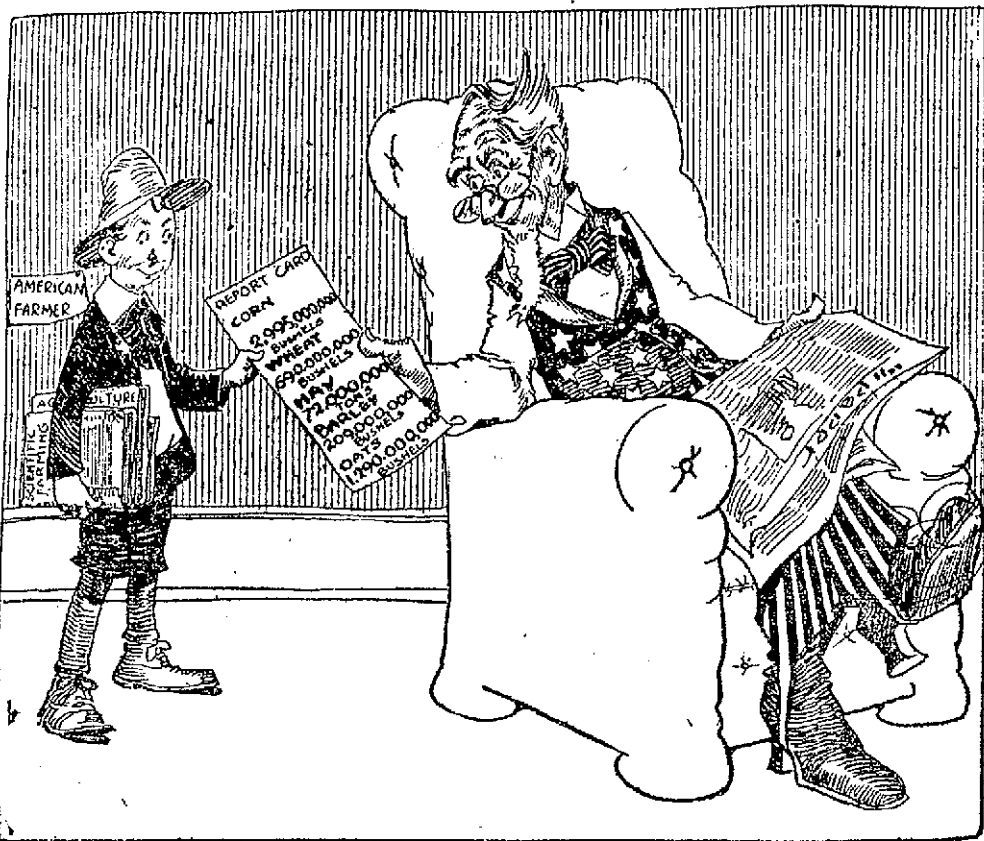

THE PATRIOTISM OF THE GREEKS

The loyal Greek men between the ages of 21 and 35 years are called to defend their country in the war with Turkey. It is really astonishing with what enthusiasm they respond to the call. Greece has reason to be proud of such sons and America would be proud to have their allegiance. These men are volunteering to risk their lives for their native land in war against the Turk, a war that is righteous if ever any war was. We admire the patriotism of these Greek volunteers who not only go to fight for Greece but pay their own way to the scene of battle. We wish them God speed; and we believe we can say truly that Lowell is very sorry to lose such men. The Greeks as mill operatives have refused to line up with the dangerous class that flaunt the red and the black flags and set all authority at defiance. They have shown due respect for our constitution and our laws, for lawful authority and their devotion to native land shows that they are patriotic to the core and that as citizens they would be as loyal to their adopted country as they are now to the mother land. The illustrious history and traditions of the Greek people are still potent as an inspiration to the race and may yet result in firing the Grecian armies to join hands with Italy in driving the Mos-ahann from the continent of Europe.

ROOSEVELT'S EXCUSE

Col. Roosevelt tries to justify his course in seeking a third term by saying that all talk in opposition to a third term refers strictly to consecutive terms. In his opinion a candidate can have as many non-consecutive terms as he can get and when he promises not to seek "another term" he means another consecutive term. That is on a par with the similitude of the cup of coffee. "If at breakfast," said the Colonel, "I say I will have no more coffee, I mean no more at that time, but that does not mean that I will not drink more coffee on the following or succeeding days." This is the sophistry by which Roosevelt tries to justify the violation of his promise not to seek another nomination for the presidency. When the custom is established against seeking a third term and a president says he will not seek a third nomination, that precludes a term of any kind, consecutive or non-consecutive.

The presidential candidates or at least two of them, are injecting speeches into talking machines to be reproduced to audiences over the country. Colonel Roosevelt has not resorted to this style of campaign because it does not offer him any opportunity to assault anybody for disturbing the meetings.

"PROUD OF YOU, MY SON"

MARSHALL SCORES ROOSEVELT

Democratic Candidate for Vice President Attacked Colonel in Speech at Norwich

NORWICH, Conn., Oct. 4.—The attitude of Col. Roosevelt "is that of a man without whom civilization cannot longer survive," declared Gov. Marshall of Indiana here last night in a speech devoted almost wholly to an attack upon the progressive presidential candidate. "If he should break a leg, or lose his voice, would that 'damned crook,' Judge Anderson, be compelled to appoint a receiver for our liberties?" continued the democratic nominee for vice president.

"It is time for sober consideration when the ambition of one man would lead us, if he is essential now, can we ever get along without him? I should be in despair if I thought the sober judgment of the people would choose him for permanent president of the United States. I do not so believe. This American character will find that the sun has arisen on November 4th next, without his crowing. Yet it is well for us to be on our guard. Slapping is more dangerous than assault. There is no dissenting voice in all history to the never-ending warning against the ambitions of popular men. Turkey's Caesar thrust away the crown, each time more gently than the last. He thrust it away because it was consecrated to him."

"A word to the wise American should be sufficient. If you can't get along without Roosevelt now, when can you? He says it will take forty years to accomplish his work. If he does not live that long, who is to complete it for him? Some one he has trained to succeed him? He trained Taft to succeed him, and Taft has failed. If Roosevelt is essential to the republic, it is just as much a condemnation of Taft and his administration. This is the spirit of Caesar or Napoleon. "Mr. Roosevelt went into the Chicago convention admitting that certain delegates were honestly elected. He went in as a republican to eliminate the delegates declared by him to have been dishonestly elected; a majority of the delegates, in fact practically all the delegates, adopted the platform. It must have been satisfactory to Roosevelt and his supporters as they did not oppose it. If Roosevelt were contending for principles, why did he not fight the platform and then, if defeated, bolt? Instead, he bolted a man. "It will be a sorry day for America when anyone becomes essential to its onward progress. Heaven has been kind to me in limiting my influence. It would be a distinct ill if anyone should deem me essential to a good government, or if I should deem myself essential. MILITARY DRILL

To Be Held on Grounds of French Orphanage in Pawtucket Street on October 12th

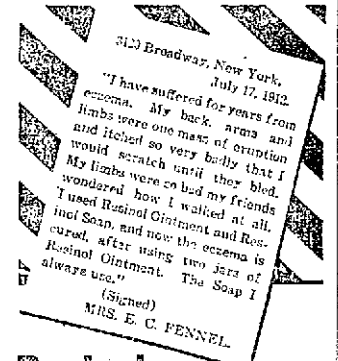

A large number of guards from the French American Volunteer brigade of New England have replied in a favorable manner to the invitation which was sent them to participate in the military contest which will be held on the grounds of the French American orphanage in Pawtucket street on Oct. 12, and it is expected at least 15 guards from various places of the New England states will be in attendance.

According to the terms of the contest each guard will drill for minutes, and suitable prizes which will consist of a silver trophy and three gold medals will be awarded the winners. The prizes, however, will be distributed only in the evening at a box party which will be held at St. Joseph's college hall. Among the local guards which are to take part in the contest the delegates declared by him to have been dishonestly elected; a majority of the delegates, in fact practically all the delegates, adopted the platform. It must have been satisfactory to Roosevelt and his supporters as they did not oppose it. If Roosevelt were contending for principles, why did he not fight the platform and then, if defeated, bolt? Instead, he bolted a man. "It will be a sorry day for America when anyone becomes essential to its onward progress. Heaven has been kind to me in limiting my influence. It would be a distinct ill if anyone should deem me essential to a good government, or if I should deem myself essential. Times, customs, governments, civilizations may change but the measure of life is the man who thinks he is essential to society."

Jesse Burkett To Quit

Report has it that this will be the last year of the veteran Jesse Burkett in the game. He has been part owner and manager of the Worcester team of the New England league for several years. He planned to go into business in Worcester at the close of this season. Kitty Bransfield, now with Montreal, whose home is in Worcester, is talked of as the man to succeed Burkett at the head of the team.

SHE TRIED SUICIDE TEN TIMES COLONEL SAYS NO PROMISE WAS LOWELL MEN AT THE HEARING

Girl Prevented From Ending Her Life by Woman With Whom She Boarded

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 4.—Miss Emily R. Sherman at 42 North Seventh street is now in the City hospital after ten ineffectual attempts to take her own life. Each time Mrs. Helen O. Beach, with whom the young woman boarded, prevented her from carrying out her purpose.

According to Mrs. Beach the young woman tried to end her life after a quarrel with her. Four times she turned on the gas in the bathroom, and when she was frustrated went to the cellar, where she made six other attempts. The last time she nearly succeeded.

Mrs. Beach told the police that she was unable to call help during the several hours Miss Sherman defied her because she feared to leave her alone in the house. At the City Hospital it is said Miss Sherman will recover. The police probably will place her under arrest and have her examined to determine her mental condition.

THE NEW STATE ROAD

Work on it Begun This Morning

A number of workmen began work this morning on the construction of a new state road on First street just beyond the car burn. This road, which is being built by the state, will extend to where the building of the other one was left off last summer. It will be one of the best roads in this vicinity and it is badly needed for the highway throughout the distance to Lawrence is in extremely poor condition. Good headway was made this morning in the work of leveling and excavating.

Mexico Looks to France

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Mexico is not to confide the instruction of its army to a German military mission. The report to this effect in circulation in France will be denied officially in the forthcoming issue of the Franco-American Magazine.

Miguel Diaz Lombardo, Mexican minister to France, points out today that Mexico is hardly in a position to require the services of any military instructors. However, he says, she is sending Mexican officers to the French military schools and is buying her artillery in France.

GIVEN FOR ANY CONTRIBUTIONS MADE TO 1904 CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—"I asked no man to contribute to the campaign fund when I was elected president of the United States, and I wish to reiterate that Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou both assured me that no promise had been made as a return for any contribution. Neither they nor anyone else having authority asked me to act or refrain from acting in any matter while I was president because any contribution had been made or withheld.

"Gentlemen, could I put it more sweepingly?"

In these words, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt summarized his testimony today at the close of the first part of his hearing before the Clapp committee of the senate investigating campaign funds.

The colonel specifically denied that he ever asked for contributions to his 1904 campaign or that he had known of any contribution by J. P. Morgan.

To those unequivocal statements Col. Roosevelt added again that he had ordered the return to the Standard Oil Co. of any contribution it might have made in 1904, that he had been assured by George B. Cortelyou "only yesterday" that he knew of no such contribution and that he did not believe Cornelius Bliss had ever demanded a contribution from John B. Archbold or from any corporation by any methods of extortion.

EX-PRES. ROOSEVELT TELLS COMMITTEE ABOUT CONTRIBUTIONS TO CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Colonel Roosevelt arrived here shortly after 7 o'clock this morning to be the star witness before the Clapp committee of the senate, investigating campaign funds. The colonel was greeted by a few leaders of the progressive party and went to breakfast at a hotel within sight of the White House. The principal part of Col. Roosevelt's examination before the committee was to be concerning the $100,000 Standard Oil contribution to the republican fund of 1904. John D. Archbold has testified that he made such a contribution to the late Cornelius N. Bliss; George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the committee in 1908 and this year also, has testified that Mr. Bliss' records showed such a contribution; George B. Cortelyou, chairman of the committee in 1904, BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Claiming to be a welterweight championship aspirant in the boxing world, a man giving his name as James Laganas was yesterday brought back to this city from New York by Patrolman McCaffery of the Lanover street police station, on a charge of having stolen $200 from James Stashopoulos, his employer at 35 Endicott street, Jan. 24.

Dividend of 20 Per Cent.
TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 4.—John H. Bullock, on trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the government on Alaskan coal contracts, admitted yesterday that the John Seanon company, which he was manager for declared a dividend of $40,000 in 1908 on a capital stock of $200,000. That was the year of the alleged collusion of bidders.

Local Greeks Ready to Fight and Are Planning to Leave This City for Athens Sunday Night

THE LOCAL GREEK REGIMENT

The local Greek newspaper published an extra edition last night relative to the conflict in which Greece and the Balkan states will engage with Turkey. It wasn't very long after the papers had begun to circulate through the Greek neighborhood that evidence of widespread interest in the Balkan situation made its appearance. In the streets and cafes and especially at the hall of the Olron Tagma of Greeks, or Holy regiment, 70½ Jefferson street, large gatherings took place and the main topic was the Balkan trouble. One would read a few lines and then all would join in an enthusiastic discussion, to be interrupted only by a further reading. Everywhere could be heard declarations that the call to the colors would not go unheeded. The call to the colors fixes the ages of those who are expected to respond by calling for certain classes. For service in the army or navy the men are those whose ages range from 21 to 32 years. The non-commissioned officers called range in age from 19 to 29 years. The Greeks here declare that the estimates made of the war strength of their country are too low and call attention to the fact that an September

BIG MASONIC MEETING

66 Were Chosen for the
33d Degree

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—A large and brilliant gathering of Masons attended Masonic Temple last night to witness an exemplification of the 33d degree by the officers and on the invitation of the Massachusetts consistory. The ceremony came at the close of the sessions of the supreme council of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite for the northern jurisdiction of the United States, and the audience included all the delegates to those sessions.

The exemplification was given in full form by 41 officers of the Massachusetts consistory, including Edward S. Benedict, commander-in-chief; George C. Thatcher, first lieutenant-commander; Thomas Bevington, second lieutenant-commander; Leonard W. Ross, orator; Charles S. Danforth, chancellor; Joseph W. Work, treasurer; Benjamin W. Rowell, secretary; Dr. Frederick W. Hamilton, private; Jos. A. Bryant, master; Josiah T. Dyer, hospitaller; Richard Langood, senechal; George A. W. Bates and Richard C. De Normandie, standard bearers; Winbur S. Locke, guard; Henry B. Perkins, adjutant; Herbert Austin, councillor; Louis C. Southard, judge advocate; Thos. R. Neath and Walter H. Tripp, assistant masters; Edward E. Reynolds, commissary; Jay R. Benton, orderly; Ralph M. Smyth, color sergeant; Horatio G. Hall, sentinel.

The supreme council met yesterday morning in Gothic hall, Masonic Temple, to install officers elected on the previous day, to appoint other officers and to receive reports. The installation ceremonies were conducted by Most Venerable Jose Castillot, Mexican delegate from the Scottish Rite in the city of Mexico. The new officers appointed were: Frederic R. Stevens, assistant grand master-general of ceremonies; George W. Currier, grand almoner; Horace Irving, grand prior; Henry L. Ballou, assistant grand prior; Robinson Locke, John Lloyd Thomas, A. Melville Foss, Chalmers Brown, marshals of the camp; Solon W. Stevens, grand organist; Theodore H. Emmons, grand senechal emeritus; George W. Chester, grand senechal; Henry R. Benton, assistant grand senechal. There was also a selection of 66 candidates to receive the 33d degree at the next meeting of the council. At 1 o'clock luncheon was served in Masonic Temple to the members of the council and visiting brethren.

Later in the afternoon the Masons from abroad were taken to special parlor cars furnished by the Boston Elevated company, to Harvard University, where they were received by President Lowell and the members of the faculty, also by members of the local fraternity, a Masonic college organization. After strolling through the grounds and inspecting the various university buildings the visitors were taken in automobiles to Soldier's Field, where a football scrimmage was shown them by two picked Harvard teams.

The wives of the visiting Masons were entertained at noon yesterday at a luncheon in the Copley-Plaza hotel by Mrs. Burton Smith, wife of the sovereign grand commander. In the evening the ladies of the party attended the electric show in Mechanics building.

After a formal session of the supreme council in Masonic Temple this morning the delegates left the South station at 1 o'clock by special train for Washington. The trip will be taken by way of Niagara Falls, on the Canadian side of which the party will be entertained by a reception at Government House.

FOUR PERSONS INJURED

Auto Wrecked in Collision With Wagon

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Two young women and two men were injured when an automobile struck a grocery delivery wagon at Fremont street and Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, last evening.

The injured are: CAMPBELL, Mary E., 59, broken nose, with possible fracture of the skull.

SHEA, LOUISA, 32, deep laceration right eye, with multiple abrasions.

HAMILTON, EDWIN D., driver of the automobile, 425 Columbus avenue, inner city and bruised.

McQUE, MORRIS E., 36, 323 Adams street, Dorchester, received minor contusions and lacerations.

The wrecked car is said to have been following an erratic course up Fremont street toward Blue Hill avenue, where it met another car, and it was in attempting to steer out for the other, according to Hamilton, that it struck the delivery team.

Mrs. Clarence E. Cheever and Thos. J. Guild were summoned and the injured persons were taken to the City hospital, where all but Miss Campbell were treated and sent home.

Hamilton and McQue were taken home by Dr. Guild in his car, but after riding a short distance Miss Shea refused to go any farther, saying she preferred to go home alone.

The grocery team was the property of J. C. Talbot of 1157 Washington street, Dorchester. The driver, Israel W. Meyers, had just left the wagon to enter a house. The horse was not injured.

Miss Campbell, the most seriously injured member of the party, said she lived at 21 Parkman street, Dorchester. Miss Shea said she lived at 1612 Dorchester avenue. There is a vacant lot at that number.

Lieut. Adams Retires
BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Lieut. George H. Adams, member of the harbor police wing of the service since 1878 and chief engineer of the police boat Canadian since he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant in 1895, was retired last evening at roll call by order of Police Commissioner O'Meara. Lieut. Adams is 62 years old and was a member of the department over 33 years. Born in Gloucester, he joined the force in 1874 and four years later, after only a short time, he became one of the harbor police.

Money deposited in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank on or before October 5th draws interest from that date.

has sworn that no such contribution was received and Col. Roosevelt has said that he gave express instructions to both Mr. Bliss and Mr. Cortelyou that if such a contribution were made it was to be immediately returned. Witnesses have testified that they knew of no record of such a contribution having been returned and Charles H. Dwight, assistant treasurer for the committee in 1904, told the committee yesterday he did not believe Mr. Bliss had kept information of any contributions from Mr. Cortelyou.

If Mr. Roosevelt's examination is concluded in a comparatively short time he wanted to visit the national museum to look over some of the trophies of his African hunt mounted there.

Col. Roosevelt breakfasted with William Loeb, Jr., formerly his private secretary and now collector of customs at New York, before going to the senate office building, where the hearings of the committee are held.

Several hundred people were waiting hoping to get into the little committee room with its capacity for about 100. Seats had been reserved by Chairman Clapp for Mr. George Reid, Australian high commissioner, and Lady Reid, who had been Col. Roosevelt's host abroad. A murmur of applause, culminating in a cheer, greeted Col. Roosevelt as he entered the building. He forced his way through the crowds to Senator Clapp's private room. There he met the members of the committee.

Col. Roosevelt learned this morning that Gov. Hadley of Missouri had declared in favor of President Taft. He would make no comment.

The spectators applauded vigorously as Col. Roosevelt entered the room followed by a secretary tugging a brief-case filled with papers. The colonel took his place in the witness chair and the secretary, with the big grip on his knees, seated himself beside him.

"You were a candidate for president in 1904?" asked Senator Clapp.

"I was," answered the colonel shortly.

"George B. Cortelyou was chairman of the committee that year?"

"He was."

"And Cornelius Bliss was treasurer?"

"He was."

Senator Clapp asked Col. Roosevelt if his attention had been called to certain statements made by John B. Archibald.

"It has," he replied.

Senator Clapp asked the colonel what he knew about the Archibald contribution at the time it was said to have been made.

The colonel asked permission to include in his answer the letter he sent to Chairman Clapp already published, denying that he knew of any Standard Oil contribution to the 1904 campaign at the time it was made.

"In the first place, gentlemen," he said, "since I was elected governor of New York about 14 years ago, I have written and signed about a hundred thousand letters, so it is not possible at once to recall all the letters I have written on any given subject."

"Looking through my letter books since I wrote my recent letter to Senator Clapp, I have found two other letters bearing on the subject of campaign contributions. One was the letter to Cornelius Bliss in 1904, which I understand was recently given to your committee; the other letter written to George B. Sheldon in 1908."

Col. Roosevelt said of his letter to Bliss: "I finally found the letter he sought and handed it to Senator Clapp, who had it placed in the record as an exhibit. At the chairman's request, Col. Roosevelt read the letter dated

Sept. 21, 1908, and addressed to George B. Sheldon, treasurer of the republican national committee. It was practically as follows:

"I am informed that you or someone on behalf of the national committee has been soliciting contributions from corporations, particularly from John B. Archibald and the Standard Oil Co. If this is true I wish to enter a vigorous protest and say that not only should such contribution be refused but it should be immediately returned."

"The letter set forth that 'four years ago' Mr. Cortelyou refused all contributions from corporations which were being prosecuted or were likely to be prosecuted and that Col. Roosevelt wished the same course followed in the 1908 campaign."

Col. Roosevelt also read the letter of Oct. 26, 1904, to Chairman Cortelyou, in which he directed that if any money had been contributed by the Standard Oil Co. or Mr. Archibald it should be returned at once.

This letter, he said, had been partly inserted in his recent letter to Senator Clapp. It was an emphatic declaration to Mr. Cortelyou that "we cannot, under any circumstances, afford to take a contribution that might be construed as placing us under an obligation."

Col. Roosevelt said that he had also found a letter, on Oct. 21, 1908, he had sent an extra telegram to Chairman Cortelyou which he had only recently found. It was sent from Oyster Bay and referred to his letter to Mr. Cortelyou, demanding return of the Standard Oil contribution.

The Harriman Fund

Col. Roosevelt offered the committee the originals of the letters he had sent to Chairman Clapp or had read into the record. "Now, in regard to the Harriman fund," began Senator Clapp.

Col. Roosevelt interrupted and asked to explain the charges that have been made in regular order and Senator Clapp acquiesced.

"There is no testimony against me except in the form of hearsay evidence," the colonel said. "Hearsay statements of men who are dead."

"Mr. Archibald and Mr. Penrose purport to give statements of what Mr. Bliss had to say. Mr. Bliss is dead. Mr. Odell and the other gentlemen referred to statements made by Mr. Harriman who is dead."

Col. Roosevelt said he had not intended to bring his former private secretary into the controversy but that as the committee had already determined to call William Loeb, Jr., he had asked him to bear out his statements.

The Sibley Letter

"May I speak of a letter published in Hearst's magazine from Congressman Sibley," asked the colonel, and then went on: "It is a letter which in substance states that Sibley came to me and spoke to me about seeing Mr. Archibald, and I said I would be delighted to see him and asked Mr. Sibley to bring Mr. Archibald to lunch. I don't remember ever having talked to Mr. Sibley about that matter, but it is very possible I may have done so. Any invitation that I may have extended was the result of a request of Mr. Sibley. I always saw any men brought to me by a representative or a senator."

The colonel spoke very slowly.

"While I was president," he said, leaning forward, "if any man trust magnate, socialist, lawyer or clergyman, had any business with me and wanted to see me, I gladly saw him. If an elected president a month hence if Mr. Rockefeller or anyone else wants to see me I'll see him and, moreover, if I have anything to ask for the public service from Mr. Rockefeller, J. P. Morgan or anyone else, I'll send for him."

Col. Roosevelt said that during his administration he had sent for James Hill, the railroad magnate, and said:

"I think I sent for J. P. Morgan," said he, "at least I saw Mr. Morgan in regard to currency questions. At this moment some of the same newspapers that are carrying comments on the supposed fact that I sent for Mr. Archibald," continued the colonel, "are commenting on the fact that I sent for a socialist, Mr. Bruere, to help me draw up my platform."

"As to Mr. Bruere," he added, chuckling, "they were right. If there is any man from whom I think I can get anything of value to the people I will send for him. I have sent for two lawyers and prize fighters. I have sent for John L. Sullivan, Battling Nelson and Dr. Lyman Abbott," he added with a laugh that brought response from the crowd. "If ever I find my virtue is so frail that it will not stand being brought in contact with trust magnates, labor leaders or anyone else, I'll get out of public life."

"Now, about the Harriman business," said the colonel. "I feel there ought not to be need of any intelligent man to ask any question after reading the letters I wrote at that time."

Wanted "Practical Men"

Here he took up his letters to Mr. Harriman and defended the use of the term "practical men" in the much discussed letter of Oct. 14, 1906. He said his effort was to get practical men into politics. Then he read the letter and declared that it "was absolutely incompatible with a suggestion of my getting aid from Mr. Harriman in any way."

On Oct. 26, 1904, Col. Roosevelt said, "Mr. Harriman had telephoned to Secretary Loeb, who told the president Mr. Harriman wanted to see him about the New York state campaign, which was running badly." The colonel said he made the appointment through Secretary Loeb at Harriman's request.

Col. Roosevelt said that at the time the Harriman contribution was made there was no doubt of the national ticket carrying New York, but the state ticket was in doubt.

"There was not one word spoken by Mr. Harriman or me having reference to the collection of funds for the campaign. On the contrary, the entire conversation was to the effect that the national campaign was safe and that aid should be given to the state campaign."

"Mr. Harriman asked me to get Mr. Cortelyou and Mr. Bliss to help raise funds for the New York state campaign. I never asked Mr. Harriman directly or indirectly for a dollar to help in that campaign or any other."

Col. Roosevelt said he wished to correct his statement regarding his interview with Harriman.

"Mr. Harriman told me," he said, "the national committee people had plenty of money and I told him I knew nothing about that. His request to me was that I ask the national committee to give money not that I ask the national committee help raise money."

Judge Parker's Statement.

Col. Roosevelt discussed Judge Allen B. Parker's statement in 1901 and declared that "a repeated misstatement charged to him was that he and corporations did not contribute to his 1904 campaign."

"I never made the statement that corporations had not contributed to the republican party," he said emphatically. "He said his recent letter to Chairman Clapp and his open published statement made it clear that he had never denied the contributions but had denied specifically that corporations had been blackmailed into contributing or assured of some kind of favor for contributing."

Col. Roosevelt said he had scanned the word of Mr. Bliss and Cortelyou, that the statement was a fact before he made it. Corporation contributions were not considered improper in 1904, 1906 or 1908, he said, and it was public knowledge that they were being made.

"Now I wish to take up the testimony of Mr. Archibald and Senator Penrose," said Col. Roosevelt.

"I wish to call your attention to this fact in connection with the statement of Mr. Archibald as in the case of Mr. Harriman. Mr. Archibald and Mr. Penrose's complaint is that they got nothing from the administration."

"Mr. Archibald testified that Cornelius N. Bliss, who is dead, attempted to blackmail him and said that I knew of it. I don't for a minute believe that Mr. Bliss tried to blackmail him, if he did I knew nothing of it."

"And I had the assurance of Mr. Cortelyou over the telephone again yesterday that such a contribution was not made. I want to call your attention to the testimony of Messrs. Archibald and Penrose against themselves as Senator Penrose testified that he advised Mr. Archibald to have the Standard Oil Co. submit to the blackmail and he did it to prevent being subjected to hostility from certain sources. That could mean hostility only from myself, the attorney-general or the commissioner of corporations."

"When I was police commissioner of New York city," said the colonel, "and a member of the police force did in connection with the enforcement of the law against liquor selling what Mr. Penrose says he did in this case, I would have thrown him off the force."

"Should Oust Penrose?"

The colonel leaned forward in his chair, shook his finger at the committee and shouted:

"And hold that the senate of the United States should oust Penrose from the senate for the admissions he made before this committee."

He referred to Mr. Archibald's statement.

For Eighty-Seven Years

have served the public as "public health stores." Our purpose is to help you and every other member of the community to get well when you are ill and to keep well. Our great laboratories and warehouses, each of our perfectly equipped stores, and our honorable record for nearly a century testify to the faith we have kept with the public.

With the growth of medical science we have kept pace. The work of physicians today is to prevent people getting sick. We are equipped with preventives. Below will be found a list of preparations compounded in our own laboratories and sold under our own label, which are offered to help you keep well.

These compounds are originated by us, the fruit of nearly a century's experience. We are so convinced of their worth that if you find any of them unsatisfactory after trial, we will refund you the amount you paid when you return the package EVEN IF YOU HAVE CONSUMED THE ENTIRE CONTENTS.

We can do this because these preparations are compounded from absolutely fresh, pure drugs of standard strength, such as are used at our prescription desk for filling doctors' prescriptions.

Many a grandmother of today gives her grandchildren Riker-Jaynes preparations which were given her when she was a child. Three generations have proved the worth of Riker-Jaynes preparations.

OUR GUARANTEE: If any Riker-Jaynes proprietary medicine fails to give you satisfaction bring us the empty package and get your money back.

EIGHT WERE INJURED IN CRASH

Wagon Was Hit by a Wild Locomotive at Rockland—Party on Way from Brockton Fair

ROCKLAND, Mass., Oct. 4.—Eight persons were injured, two so seriously that it is feared they may die, when a "wild" locomotive on the Hanover branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad struck a wagon occupied by men and boys, returning from the Brockton fair on the Union Square crossing at 8 last night. The injured:

John Roche, aged 71, fireman; fractured skull and thigh, scalp wound and probable internal injuries; removed to Brockton hospital; on dangerous list.

Harry Wade, 20; scalp wound, face cut, hemorrhage of brain feared; removed to Brockton hospital; on dangerous list.

T. Maguire, leg injured.

Maguire, the owner of the wagon, was driving. There are no gates at the crossing, and he did not notice the flagman. His view of the approaching locomotive was cut off, he said, by a freight train standing on another track.

The locomotive struck the rear right-hand wheel and threw the wagon several rods. Its occupants were thrown out with great force, and the wrecked wagon piled up on Roche, the veteran flagman, burying him beneath its wreckage. A pair of horses that had drawn the vehicle broke away and ran through Union street, the business center, before being caught.

All the injured, except the Cunningham boy, who is a nephew of Maguire, are residents of Rockland. With the exception of Roche they had all driven to the Brockton fair early today, and had almost reached home after a happy day's outing. The wagon was used by Maguire ordinarily as a fruit wagon.

Several of the injured were treated in the Rockland railroad station, and others were removed to offices of local doctors. They were attended by Drs. Osgood, Colgate, Knight, McIntosh, Ash-and Cunningham, for whom hurry calls were sent.

The locomotive was in charge of engineer Harry Hesselberg and fireman J. R. Watt. Several members of a train crew were riding in the cab. The locomotive was running "light" from Hanover to North Abington, as customary every weekday, to meet the 7.13 train from Boston and haul several coaches from North Abington back to Hanover. The locomotive was slightly late tonight, and was said to have been running at more than ordinary speed.

DETECTIVE IS ACCUSED

Of Having Harbored a Deserter

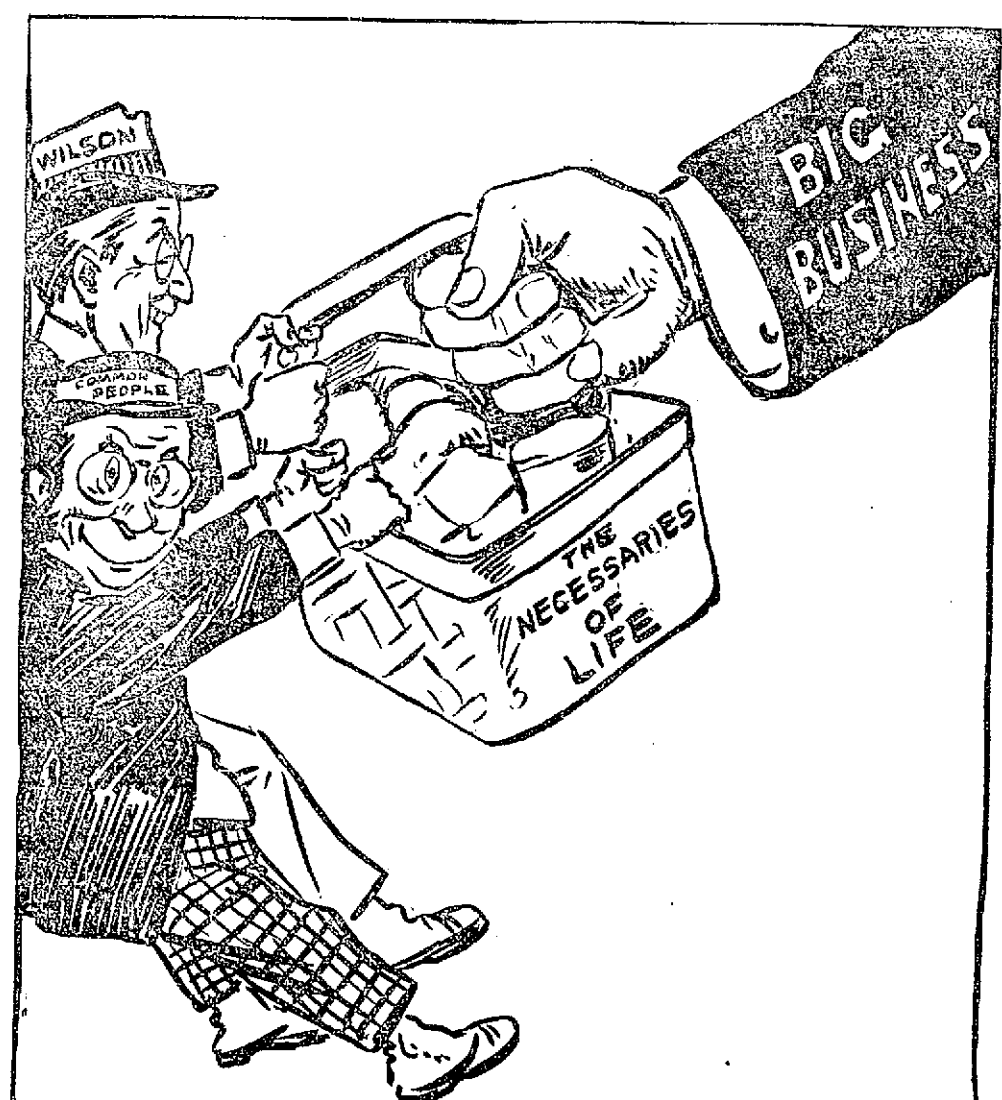

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Harry A. Wright, 30 years old, manager of a detective agency in this city, was placed on trial before Judge Morton and a jury in the United States district court yesterday afternoon.

Wright is charged with having har-

bored a deserter, George Baum. It was asserted by Baum that Wright, through his aid, was enabled to turn over a number of other deserters from the navy, for whose apprehension Wright received the government rewards of $50 apiece.

Baum, who has been under arrest at the navy yard, was brought over as a witness for the government under guard of a marine.

Asst. United States District Atty. Daniel Shea appeared for the government, while Joan H. Casey, formerly United States district attorney, appeared for the defense. When Mr. Casey was district attorney Mr. Shea was his office boy.

No More Ugly Hands

Lovely Hands for Every Woman in New England

A man need never to care for his hands. But a woman is judged by her hands every day of her life.

Yet work must be done and clothes must be washed. And the question is—how to have both lovely hands and spotless clothes.

The answer is—Welcome Soap. Hundreds of thousands of women in New England use it. It has made them famous both for pretty hands and for spotless clothes.

The daintiest garment can be washed with Welcome Laundry Soap without injury either to material or color. And the dirt flies.

One secret of this wonderful soap is borax. Borax softens the water better than any ingredient known. It cannot injure the skin. More borax is used in one year in making Welcome Laundry Soap than in all the other soaps made in New England in five years. So, of your grocer.

The Guarantee—Your grocer will give your money back if you can find a better laundry soap. Our great reputation and the priceless good will of hundreds of thousands of users are at stake in each case.

MONSTER MASS MEETING HELD

People of Lawrence Speak Their Loyalty to the Stars
and Stripes

LAWRENCE, Oct. 4.—This city last evening blossomed out with a show of patriotism in remembrance of the failure of the I. W. W. paraders on Sunday to carry United States flags, and of their sign inscribed, "No God, No Master."

Mayor Scanlon called a mass meet-

uncertainty for months and the people of this country have been led by reports to believe that the city of Lawrence is made up of a city government, a police force, three companies of militia, the mill owners and thousands of discontented operatives, and it has never been suggested that there are people here who care about the national flag.

"The situation has changed since last winter, many of our citizens now view it in an entirely different light. Your presence to-day that the time has come when the people of the city intend to take charge."

"This much is true, we have here thousands of people who have come from other countries. They must be taken care of and we are doing the best we can, educating their children, bettering their homes; every one wants to see them prosper."

"A year ago this city was safe; one could go with security through any alley of it at any hour, night or day; but there have come men, not men of toil, but men with hands softer than mine, who have filled these people with anarchy and lawlessness. Who these men are, what their histories have been is known to all, and so far as we are concerned, the time has come when this thing has got to stop."

Wild Howls of Approval

The audience broke into a howl of approval, stamping, whistling and shouting, a strange, seated crowd, under the four high-arched arch lights, yelling its multicolored head off.

"This is my native city," went on the speaker, "but what have you who were born here to say? Are you going to stand up in your night and say what's going to be, or are you going to give up?"

A thunderous "No" was his answer. "Let us resolve," he proclaimed, "and to give them what they ought to have, but give it to them according to law and according to justice."

E. N. Chandler, associate judge of the Lawrence police court, was much more direct in his recommendations. "I say," he cried, "that the red flag of anarchy, this nullification of everything American must cease, and if the militia and the proper authorities cannot put it down, they know where to come to get others who will help them. And when we help them we shall be serving our country just as faithfully as our fathers did in '76."

"There can be no question that these people who have come to our shores will not absolute justice, but we are not going to pull down our own homes, destroy our prosperity, to satisfy the whims of demagogues and anarchists. They should be ejected from our doors."

This suggestion, which after the meeting was translated freely by many who heard it into "running them out of town," produced applause that lasted for nearly a minute.

No Government by Mob

Hon. W. S. Knox discussed the problem academically. Then he said: "We have come to a time when government seems to be government by mob, the men who take the law into their own hands, and I feel as Capt. Parker must have felt when he said to his men facing the British, 'If they want war, it may as well commence here.' And if there is a class of people here seeking by force and intimidation to rule others, to say when they shall work and when they shall not, who shall wear the red flag, I say, 'If they want war, it may as well commence now.'"

"What is the remedy?"

"First let us have political honesty, let us do away with robbery, corruption, graft of the people's money. Next, I think there should be some restriction of immigration into this country. Any honest, well-meaning man, willing to give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay; moral, God-fearing, without a record of crime, we welcome to this country. But when they undertake to destroy the foundations of our prosperity, then we have no use for them. But all must be done according to law, and this will take years."

Reason With Reason

Dennis B. Callahan, principal of the Tarbox school, made a telling oration, saying he no longer believed it necessary to appeal to the sword, and that Lawrence can solve her problems peacefully.

"We are ready to meet reason with reason," said the speaker, "or if necessary, force with force. We are ready to agree that capital must remember that the laborer is worthy of his hire, but we are also ready to stand by constituted authority."

He asserted the belief of the community in the existence of God, and ended by saying "We have suffered in silence, but once the patriotism of this people is roused it will overcome every difficulty."

The audience sang "America" and Mrs. A. O'Mahoney was introduced. Her speech was the only one of the evening which did not in some way suggest that force be used against the people who were under discussion. She did not agree that there should be further restriction of immigration; if there had been earlier, she herself would not be a citizen. She was the daughter of an immigrant and herself an immigrant. "I have faith in these people," said Mrs. O'Mahoney, "and we must make them loyal American citizens. The majority of them are Italians, and there's good blood in the Italians, but they have been misled, and it is for you and me to lead them in the right way."

Committee on Flag Parade

Judge Chandler appeared on the floor of the meeting. "Mr. Chairman," said he, "by request I am asked to make a motion."

"My motion," said Judge Chandler, "is that the chair appoint a committee to arrange a parade by organizations and citizens and to set the date."

join of the G. A. R., spoke in loving eulogy of the flag and J. C. Toomey moved the appointment of another committee on "peace and permanent organization," that the effect of the evening should not be allowed to die. This was carried, the chairman put off naming the committee.

Rev. Fr. O'Reilly of St. Mary's church, though far from well, made a rousing speech. He was greeted with yells of delight upon his appearance. "I would dearly love," he began, "to speak the sentiments that swell up in my heart to a people aroused at last to confront the demon of anarchy."

"No God, no master; that is true in a sense, if there is no God there is no master, but the tyrant, and it is for you and me to lead them in the right way."

"This cannot in one sense be called a Christian country, but every man who takes oath of office, or oath of citizenship, takes it in the name of the God of Nations."

Malcontents Must Go

"It should go forth from Lawrence today to the band of pirates who have captured the vessel, that we believe in the private ownership of land, in the payment of just wages, in right relations between labor and capital and in the right of every man to work when and where he pleases. And I would say further that those who don't want to work had better take the hint and go."

Fr. O'Reilly was rewarded with tremendous applause.

EDMUND SHIELDS

Says That the Vote Of Michigan Will Go To Governor Wilson When Counted

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.—Edmund C. Shields of Howell, Mich., chairman of the democratic state central committee of Michigan, was a caller at national democratic headquarters today in company with A. B. Canfield of Claire, Mich., secretary of the committee.

"Michigan will be found in the Wilson column when the votes are counted in November," said Mr. Shields. "For the first time in years the democratic party has a full national state and local ticket in the field in every county in the state. There are some counties in Michigan in which until this year there have not been enough democrats to form a fair-sized county committee. But this year things are changing, and the change is not due to the work of the state central committee alone, but in a response to local sentiment."

"Michigan is peculiarly divided both geographically and in opinion. The farm lands of the lower peninsula and the southern half of the upper peninsula are the best in the world and our farmers are the most progressive and prosperous in the world. They have been for the most part devoted to the republican party in years gone by, but you know, Michigan is close up to Canada and the reciprocity policy of the Taft administration was a condition and not a theory to them."

"In the upper peninsula the chief industry is mining and the citizens of that region have been hopelessly corruption-ridden. During the past year or two there has been a remarkable change in public opinion and I am sure that the large Taft majority of 1908 will be very helplessly split this year."

"The democratic party stands in a fine position in this field. We are united while our opponents are divided. We are gaining from both of the republican factions and losing to neither. We have but to hold the vote of 1908 and 1910 to win by a landslide plurality. We have ample evidence to prove to anyone's satisfaction that so far from losing any of our 1908 strength, we have actually gained thousands of votes."

MANY IMMIGRANTS RETURN

Much is said of the constant flow of the people of Europe into America. Eleven millions of new Americans in the last nineteen years came in through the port of New York alone. But nearly every one appears to forget the "back current"—the enormous number of foreigners who stay in this country only a little while and then with a few hundreds of dollars saved up return to their own lands.

This "back current" is large and important. In the nineteen years 44 per cent, or 4,800,000 out of the 11,000,000 who had come here returned to Europe. Some years more went back than arrived here. In 1908 129,000 were credited as part of new Americans, set sail for their old homes. That year only 355,000 arrived, so there was an actual immigration deficit of 226,000. A balance on the wrong side has only happened once or twice, but the last complete figures—those for 1911—show that while 600,000 immigrants passed through Ellis Island, 440,000 took returning steamers during the same period, a net immigration gain of only 160,000.

Some years have been big ones of course from the point of view of added Americans; even in these the back current pulls down the total. Thus 1907 was a banner year, and 1,200,000 immigrants came in. But rows of little figures in the books of steamers plying out of New York to the countries of Europe prove that this very year over half a million—525,000, to be exact—slipped back to take up their lives in their native towns or cities just as before.

Ellis Island is so picturesque and imposing, its massed crowds so dramatic, the entire immigration system so significant of continuing prosperity and unbounded opportunity that people do not think of the steamers that are constantly and unobtrusively carrying immigrants back week in and week out. The steerage of the big and little liners going east are not so crowded as they are upon the western passage, but they are comfortably filled. An empty steerage, even relatively, going east is a thing seldom known.

What is more, the procession of returning immigrants is steady, and now a common thing. It is well understood by the transportation people that it is a profitable extra traffic. It long ago passed out of the class of a valuable by-product with the steamships and is now a prominent source of their revenues.

In nineteen years nearly five million people crossed back to Europe. Nearly a quarter of that number went back in the last two years. In the fiscal year ended last June there were 600,000 of these returning Europeans, each with a little money to take up their lives in the old country. These two sets of figures are significant beside the back current average of the nineteen years—260,000. The growing back current is regarded as curious, with labor much in demand and wages relatively high. So far as any one has attempted to analyze the return movement, it is seen to be that of the successful. The failures and those who can do only a little better than work from hand to mouth daily have stayed here. Practically going back almost daily in the steerage of outgoing steamers are the capitalists, the men who have won out.

A very little money means a lifetime of competence to many of these people. The average returning immigrant is rich with $1200, he is practically a plutocrat with $2000. Sums under $1000 apply to many.

An interesting story was told not long ago by a traveler just returned from Sicily. He was a good American, and he was on Mount Etna at night. He met a Sicilian whom he afterward described as looking precisely like a brigand. He proved, however, a very loquacious Italian, who at once recognized the American as such and inquired if he came from New York. The brigand spoke excellent English. Being assured on this point he pulled a card in English from out of his pocket. It was his own, and showed that for several years he had been a barber on Third avenue.

His story was like many another. He had gradually saved up some hundreds of dollars, and when these were amassed he left the country he had never even informally adopted, and went back to his own blue sky and sunny climate. He did not like America to live in, though he did like American dollars. The few had set him up for life.

Italians, Hungarians and Slavs make up by far the large proportion of these returning immigrants. They are divided into two classes, those who use their small savings to give them a cozy comfort a single American dollar or its equivalent having enormous purchasing power in these southern European countries, and those who put their little capital into business, very frequently into agriculture. So many of these immigrants in fact have bought land in order to become proprietors instead of rent paying peasants. In certain districts farming land that a few years ago sold for $10 an acre now brings hundreds of dollars.

Of course the average returning immigrant cannot out of his savings buy much land at figures like these. This is what happens: Sometimes an individual is content with an acre or two and lives in happiness and prosperity upon it. Again, a number of returning immigrants form themselves into an association and work a fair sized piece of land in common.

At times an even more ambitious scheme is worked out. Much land is purchased, and a large part of the money needed comes direct from America on loan. Eventually it is almost certain all the lenders will find their way back to their old home and take an active personal interest in their investment. Meanwhile they have something to look forward to. An authority says that some of these associations are so large that they have managed to buy good sized estates.

"Emigrant aliens" are what these people of the back current are officially called. The evidence is that very few of them ever intended to stay in America. They came over for the money they could not make in their own country. As some one has expressed it, "the United States is their workshop and Europe their home."

It is interesting to compare these big percentages of the southern nations that fit into America and speedily fit away from it with the tenacity with which the Jewish immigrants continue in this country. No matter whether their success is big or little. Not far from 15 per cent. of the recent emigration from Europe to America has been that of the Jews. Less than 2 per cent. of them have returned.

In the towns, villages and cities to which the travellers return they are called Americans and are looked up to with respect. The men that across seas have earned as much as $12 or $14 a week are magnates. They fill the younger element with envy and awe, and in their turn these go out to win dried dollars a man builds himself a day gives him an excellent living.

All the countries concerned and the immigration authorities of the United States have studied this situation and many interesting incidents are to be found in the hidden away in the reports. Of a certain little village in Italy this was discovered:

"The vice-mayor says that between $240 and $300 is sent from America weekly" (a cash fortune for a little Italian village, by the way). "A large proprietor says that families, seeing their heads depart for America, are satisfied because they are sure to receive money from their sons. The houses that were dirty and neglected are now improved. The relations between the proprietors and peasants have changed, and there are some peasants whose greetings are such. Those who return from America purchase a house with a small estate. There this is not sufficient they report to hiring hands or to the partnership system. The Americans come back improved more clever and intelligent. A peasant said to the commission: 'The Americans have brought here the paradise.'"

Another village report of the Royal Italian commission says: "Those returned from America purchase pieces of land. These 'Americans' buy the houses and dress well. The mayor of San Fili says peasants now live better than proprietors. Those returned from America, accustomed to high wages and good living, do not adapt themselves any longer to the hard labor of the old country."

HAMILTON WHITE

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.—Hamilton White, who was a delegate to the Illinois state bull moose convention and to the Bull Moose congressional convention in his district, walked into the democratic headquarters in the Karen building this morning and announced his repudiation of the third term candidate and declared his intention to support Gov. Wilson. When Roosevelt was named by the third term party Mr. White, who had helped to bring about his nomination, was enthusiastic in his behalf, but recent events have cooled his ardor and in fact led him to support Gov. Wilson.

The disclosure of the fact that Standard Oil contributed to Roosevelt's campaign fund, the support of Roosevelt by Perkins and the steel trust and other developments of the campaign have caused Mr. White to abandon his support of Roosevelt. Mr. White emphasized his change of heart by informing Representative A. S. Burdison of Chicago and the speaker's bureau that he was willing to devote his time to the campaign to the extent of making speeches wherever the committee might desire to send him. Mr. White was formerly from Iowa and has indicated a preference to be sent to that state for speaking purposes.

THE EVENING HIGH SCHOOL

Registration of Pupils Will Begin Monday Evening—Supt. Molloy Issues Statement

Registration will begin on Monday evening, Oct. 7, at 7:15 o'clock at the Lowell Evening High School and will continue on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Monday and Tuesday will be for those only who were students during the year 1911-1912; all others may register on the remaining evenings.

Graduates of the elementary evening schools or of a day grammar school are admitted without examination. All others must pass such an examination as would secure promotion from the seventh grade in the day schools.

In conversation with a reporter of The Sun this forenoon Hugh J. Molloy, superintendent of schools, referring to a statement in a morning paper, said:

The superintendent of schools has given no orders to any one in the school department as to giving out news; he does assume, however, that it would be only in keeping with the best usage in any well-organized business or department to expect that news or information concerning it will be given by some person of responsibility and record; further, the school department should be best able to judge what is to be given out as news and when to give it.

In connection with the evening high school statement there must be some misunderstanding. The superintendent merely wished to know where he could find the records, registration and all such data concerning the school as should be easy of access and practically self-explanatory in any well-organized school at any stage of its progress and particularly at its close. He assumes that all such material can be easily reached. But, in any event, he wishes to say that the registration and classification of students in the evening high school is a matter of no great difficulty for persons of school experience.

HORACE E. CARON DEAD

Well Known French Resident Passed Away

One of the best known and most prominent French citizens of this city, Mr. Horace E. Caron, passed away last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Willis Peltier, 863 Moody street, after a lingering illness of nearly a year. Mr. Caron took sick in November, suffering from cancer. After consulting the leading physicians of this city, he was advised to go to Canada for his health and made the trip last July, remaining in the dominion for two weeks, but

Mr. Caron was born in St. Jean Port Joli, Que., 53 years, 5 months and 10 days ago and received a very good education, at the close of which he entered the employ of the Grand Trunk railroad. Later he secured his own business with his company and secured employment with the Canadian Pacific. He was prominent in politics in Canada and held many important offices. Seventeen years ago he removed to this city with his family and went to work as a telegraph operator for the Boston & Maine, later accepting the position of tower man at the Bleecker, a position he has held up to the time of his sickness.

Deceased was a learned astronomer, having made special studies in this particular branch, and his delight was to give lectures on astronomy, which he did on several occasions in this city. He was a man possessed of most refined disposition and a staunch republican in politics. He was of good habits and character and respected by all who knew him. Mr. Caron was very prominent in fraternal circles, having been a charter member of the Elks club, P. O. E. U. S. A. He was also connected with P. O. E. U. S. A. of which he was for some time secretary; Eastern & Maine Relief association; and the Southern Division Mutual Benefit association of the Boston & Maine railroad, as well as a prominent member of Citizens-American club of which he was a past president.

He is survived by a wife, two sons, Albert of this city and Joseph of Wilmington; two daughters, Mrs. Willis

Peltier and Miss Alice Caron and a grandson, Lloyd Caron. Four brothers, Alfred, Phyllis and Ferdinand of St. Jean Port Joli, Que., and Godfroi of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Gilbert Doyras of St. Jean Port Joli, Que., and Mrs. Joseph Guimond of Montreal.

MISS JOSEPHINE LISS

Lawrence Strike Leader to Wed

LAWRENCE, Oct. 4.—This is the story of the romantic end of the spectacular career of Josephine Liss.

Josephine Liss is the pretty Polish girl who was the "star" of last winter's strike in Lawrence. She was the girl accused of taking a militia man's gun away from him and knocking him down. She was the girl who refused to be jailed or to have her fine paid, preferring prison to compromise. She was the girl who went to Washington with the tenement children who became exhibit A in the congressional investigation.

Josephine Liss is to be married on next Sunday afternoon, "between 5 and 6, probably," she added naively, to

Henry Miker, an operative in the Plant shoe factory at Roxbury. The wedding will be held in the first door tenement where Josephine lives, at 66 Chestnut street. The couple will enjoy a brief honeymoon in New York before they go to their new little home in Roxbury.

"I came to this country from Poland when I was 7 years old," she said, "and five years later I went into the mills. I had but one year of school. The wages I earned were not enough to keep us all when father would be out of work, so I learned to be a weaver as that paid more money and therefore, was the hardest work of all. At 14 I earned $10 a week. Many strong peasant girls from the old country become weavers and in a short time they lose flesh and all their red checks disappear from the close confinement and long hours.

"That is what happened to me. I was broken down in two years and had to rest a long time. When I went back I learned to be a 'mender'.

"Up to the time the strike was called last winter I had never heard of a union nor of the I. W. O. One night I heard one of the I. W. O. speakers telling the foreigners how to stand together and help each other. I was interested at once and from that moment became one of them. It was like a new world opening up to me. After that I worked hard for them, and even though I am leaving the mills forever my sympathy will always be with the working people and I will help them fight for their rights the best I know how."

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Miss Ruth Esther Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. Ward, to Mr. Harry L. Woodman of this city, took place at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, North Orange, Mass. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Schless W. Cummings, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Mary L. Blodgett of North Orange. The maid of honor was Miss Louise Ward, a cousin of the bride and the best man was Dr. Herbert E. Lewis of this city.

The brides gown was a cream colored crepe and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor wore an apricot colored gown and carried a large bouquet of pink roses. The ushers wore white suits and carried bouquets of white carnations.

After the ceremony there was a short reception to members of both families and intimate friends. There were guests present from Athol, Orange, Brockton, Woburn, Lowell, Nashua and Boston.

KELLEY-HUNTINGTON

The marriage of Miss Helen Huntington, daughter of Rev. C. W. Huntington of Taunton, to Arthur Northmer Kelley of Taunton, was solemnized Wednesday at the residence of Edward P. Bliss, in Lexington. The officiating clergyman were Rev. J. B. Scobey of Wellesley Hills and the bride's father.

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF---25c "DANDERINE"

Hair coming out?—If dry, brittle, thin or your scalp itches and is full of dandruff

Within 10 minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store, toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

wards the answering of whatever of these questions they could.

Acting upon Col. Abbott's call for Lowell delegates, Secretary John H. Murphy of the Lowell board of trade introduced Mr. Edward B. Pierce, a member of the board, as the first speaker.

Secretary Murphy
John H. Murphy, secretary of the Lowell board of trade was the first speaker and said:

Lieut. Col. Edward Burr, in his report to the chief engineers of the United States army, concerning his survey of the Merrimack river from its mouth to the railroad bridge at Haverhill, said:

"I am of the opinion that the improvement of the Merrimack river by the United States to the extent of providing a channel 14 feet deep to Haverhill by the construction of a lock and dam, essentially as outlined in this report, at an estimated cost of $350,000, is justified by the commercial interests involved, present and prospective.

"In arriving at this conclusion, I am largely influenced by the evident necessity for opening to water competition the large transshipment interests involved, not only at Haverhill, but at Lawrence and Lowell, the center of one of the most important manufacturing districts in New England, and by the belief that the development of an improved waterway to Haverhill is but the first step in extending navigation facilities to Lawrence and Lowell and to the Merrimack river above these points."

The Lowell Board of Trade is represented here today to advocate the carrying out of the above recommendation and to present facts concerning the possibilities of making the river navigable above Haverhill.

The interest of the people of the Merrimack valley and especially Lowell in this project of making the river navigable is aroused when they realize that the cities of the Merrimack valley are unable to compete with other manufacturing communities enjoying water transportation facilities.

The importance of this project may be estimated when we realize that the Merrimack river carries more spindles than any other river in the world, and that the Merrimack river flows through the greatest textile center of the United States.

The growing importance of the industries of the Merrimack valley demands study and attention and the cost of the project is not incommensurate with the advantages to be derived. The cost of the project should have little weight. The Ohio river for a 200-mile, 9-foot project received this year a partial payment of $5,570,000 on a $68,000,000 estimated project. New England, and especially Massachusetts, has no other waterway project of this magnitude and especially Massachusetts has no other waterway project of this magnitude and especially Massachusetts has no other waterway project of this magnitude.

The value of the river made navigable from Lowell cannot be estimated from the volume of business done on a 2-foot channel from Haverhill to the sea.

Lowell with its 320 diversified industries and its 1000 factories employing over 30,000 wage earners, manufacturing over 350 commodities representing in value over $60,000,000, must be given the attention by the United States government that it is entitled to, and in the position that Lowell occupies in the state and country can only be maintained by receiving appropriations which will adequately develop and help to properly utilize her natural resources.

There is received at Boston by water, exclusive of coal, over 15,000 tons, and there is shipped from Lowell through the port of Boston annually over 100,000 tons, and there is received for Lowell through the port of Boston over 500,000 tons of coal a year. Lowell ships to New York via Long Island Sound 24,000 tons and receives from the port of New York about 25,000 tons.

The records obtainable from the railroad officials indicate that about 2,000,000 tons of freight are handled annually, both in and out of the city of Lowell.

If you can assume that one-half of the 2,000,000 tons of freight will be transported by water at a saving in charges of 10 cents per ton, you can figure a saving of $100,000 a year, and figuring on an estimated cost for making the river navigable of $200,000, it would require about 20 years to save enough in transportation charges to warrant the expenditure.

Manufacturers often complain of the delay of shipments and freight rates are a source of continual trouble. Many manufacturers have expressed themselves as being in favor of securing water transportation and would utilize the river for receiving raw materials.

Manifactory often complain of the delay of shipments and freight rates are a source of continual trouble. Many manufacturers have expressed themselves as being in favor of securing water transportation and would utilize the river for receiving raw materials.

and shipping unskilled products. The value of Lowell products equalling more than $60,000,000, furnishes a basis upon which to figure that if the transportation charges were reduced because of the use of the river it is quite easy to expect increased compensation for labor.

If New England is to maintain her supremacy as an industrial center which she is able today to hold by reason of her unlimited supply of labor, capital and intellect, the avenue for reaching the crude or raw materials must find a way to the manufacturing community besides the railroad, and the development of the canal and rivers hold the key to the situation.

There are a few items of interest taken from the report of the chief engineers of the United States army pertaining to the work being done on the Merrimack river, which show that transportation charges are reduced, and business increased by use of developed streams, and also prove that less important rivers than the Merrimack are developed at great cost where the opportunities for the development of commerce are not so great. Among the items are the following:

"Rappahannock river, Virginia.—The work done has been of benefit to commerce, and it is understood that freight rates have been reduced."

"Neuse and Trent rivers, North Carolina.—Reports show that the commerce was increased last year about 5000 tons. Freight rates are materially lessened by reason of the river improvement."

"Chattahoochee river of Georgia and Alabama.—Reports claim the improvement of this river has been made to give Columbus and all other points on the river water-rates, or a material reduction over rates to all rail points, but the exact amount of reduction cannot be stated. Columbus is 223 miles above the junction of this river with the Flint river and has between the head of navigation and boats are able to reach there at all times except at unusually low water."

"Warrior river, Alabama.—The minimum depth of the channel was about one foot and the minimum width about 50 feet after the expenditure to June 30, 1911, of $2,086,415.12. The maximum draft that can be carried over the shallowest place in the channel at low water is 4½ feet and the minimum width at some of the worst bars is 60 feet."

"The Monongahela river, Pa.—It is reported that the effect on freight rates of the slack water system of the river is very great. This is particularly true for coal, which is the principal article of commerce, and is well shown by a comparison of the railroad rates for carload lots along this river and those along the unimproved Allegheny. There are many mines along the Monongahela river that can ship either by rail or water and within a distance of 45 miles from Pittsburgh, which practically covers the industrial district on that river."

"One large consumer transports its coal by river a distance of about 50 miles at a total cost of less than 10 cents a ton, including all charges, while the corresponding railroad freight rate is 45 cents a ton."

"The Board of Trade of Lowell agrees that the improvement of the Merrimack river will develop new territory, will enhance the value of land and real estate, will reduce the cost and increase the efficiency of transportation, and will have a tendency to decrease the cost of living and open new fields for the employment of capital and labor."

Edward B. Pierce
Edward B. Pierce, representing Lowell, said in part:

The men of the Merrimack valley count themselves very fortunate in being accorded the opportunity to present before the officers of the United States army, and especially of that branch of the service which is so significantly using its engineering skill in putting forth some of the many, and we believe, cogent reasons why the Merrimack river should be further improved for the purposes of navigation. We assume that no great argument will be needed to see the wisdom of improvements from the outer bar to the wharves of Newburyport, whence were sailed in the war of 1812 some privateers, then from almost every port in the country, and ships built largely from ship timber brought down the river from the forest in the north woods. The obstructions about Gangway Rock, South Cove and Badger which are the principal obstructions now to safe navigation, should be removed. The cost, we believe, would be very much less now than when in 1838 attention was called by the general report of the Real Estate Owners' association, and Mr. Fred Sullivan, secretary of the Lawrence Board of Trade, spoke, and each had strong arguments in favor of this deepening of the Merrimack river. They emphasized all the points relating to the various industries of the cities and the great amounts of coal which have to be transported to these various mills and factories each year.

Not a great deal of work will be required to allow the passage of steamers, and the larger to Haverhill. More vessel cargoes were landed in Haverhill last year than there exist vessels today under the American flag that pass through the Panama canal. From Haverhill to Lawrence, the great obstruction has been Mitchell's falls. There is a long peninsula through which at a small cost a canal could be cut, giving deep water at its head and foot, and entirely avoiding the dangerous rocks at Mitchell's falls. It will be seen that Lawrence can be reached without great expense. At Lawrence is a well constructed and well maintained set of locks and canals which will permit the passage of barges around Essex falls, thence to Hunt's falls at Lowell is fairly clear water. At Hunt's falls at Lowell is fairly clear water.

It was the line of the river had been well maintained, durable granite walls, and the river has been cut, and jetted out eight feet of additional channel. At Lowell is a well constructed and well maintained set of locks and canals through which boats pass to a point above Pawtucket dam. There is a canal, clear water, thence to the New Hampshire line. At Wrentham falls a considerable amount of blasting has been done by private parties making a possible channel at that point.

Above that point nearly 100 years ago a canal was cut, known as Concord, N. H., bearing the respectable name of "John L. Sullivan" (that ought to knock them out), and we submit with our forebears and our citizens having constructed and maintained through all these years a complete set of locks and canals, and we are now asking the government to complete the work which they, with their own money, commenced, and have shown their faith in by maintaining through all these years.

It was an old story, thirty years ago to sail a steam boat over Newburyport Bar up the Merrimack past Haverhill over Mitchell's falls through the locks at Lawrence over Hunt's falls even before they were jetted out as now. They are eight feet deeper through the locks at Lowell and up the Merrimack river to Nashua. This is not a small pleasure boat, but an actual seasonal steamer, decked and housed over, and I ran it from Lowell to Nashua carrying passengers and freight as a commercial success. The "Herald" which ran from Lowell to Nashua for several years, and only ceased operation when the Nashua and Lowell railroad was constructed, passed down over these waters, was taken to New York harbor where it was operated by Jake Vanderhoeft for several years as a ferry boat between New York and Staten Island, and at that time was the largest ferry boat in New York harbor, and we are here not to ask you to make the Merrimack river navigable but to complete the work already begun, and in which private citizens and corporations have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars, having opened up this entire valley to the sea.

The building of the Cape Cod ship canal shortening the distance between New York and this valley about one hundred miles, and miles of the most dangerous water in our country is a strong argument for consideration, and we urge you believing that it will pay and hoping to show you by further arguments, facts, figures and statistics to be presented that as a business proposition it is a safe and tenable investment.

We thank you sir for this opportunity to present these facts for your consideration.

Mayor O'Donnell
Mayor O'Donnell then came forward to briefly address the gathering in regard to the importance of this new project. He told of the canal which he saw on a visit to western New York state at Lockport. It cost, he said, more than 100 millions of dollars to bring about these artificial canals and yet we have a host of natural facilities and resources right here in New England for building a far better waterway at a much smaller cost, with the water there and a matter of deepening of the waterway from Lowell to the sea will bring about if accomplished.

Col. Abbott will take the evidence and arguments presented today and forward them to headquarters with recommendations as to conditions and necessary verifications.

H. O'Sullivan Promises Support
Humphrey O'Sullivan said to a Sun reporter today relative to the hearing at Lawrence:

"I am watching this movement to make the Merrimack river navigable. I believe in its practicability and its necessity to the continued success of the textile and other industries in this valley. We have the water power of the river as a bounty from Nature. We are using it to produce electricity by which to drive the machinery of the mills. What we want now is to be put into communication, by water, with the coal supply and the raw material of our manufacturers. That can be done only by making the Merrimack river navigable. The state, I believe, should help in this movement to guarantee the future success and prosperity of the industries in the Merrimack valley. But the main expense should be borne by the national government and if I am elected to congress I will use my utmost endeavor to secure an appropriation sufficient to make the river navigable."

"I did not care to attend the hearing as some people might think I was using the occasion for political purposes."

STREET RAILWAY MATTER

Not Referred to Railroad Commissioners

Some time ago Lawyer William D. Regan addressed a letter to the municipal council asking for a public hearing relative to street car service and street car fares in Lowell. Mr. Regan holding that Lowell was being discriminated against in the matter of service generally, but particularly in the matter of fares. Upon reading in the newspapers that the municipal council had referred the matter to the railroad commissioners, Mr. Regan addressed another communication to the council asking that the railroad commission be asked to give a hearing in the matter and that he be given an opportunity to present his case. The matter, however, had not been referred to the state commission, but the city council did take it up with Supt. Thomas Lees of the Bay State Street Railway company and City Clerk Flynn, acting under the instructions of the municipal council, has forwarded the following correspondence to Mr. Regan in order to acquaint him with the council's procedure:

City Clerk's Office, Oct. 3, 1912.
W. D. Regan, Esq., Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: On behalf of the municipal council of the city of Lowell I am directed to acknowledge receipt of your letter, and in return to advise you with reference to the council's action on your petition upon which a public hearing was held.

Pursuant to instructions of the municipal council I addressed a letter to the management of the Bay State Street Railway company, a copy of which is enclosed herewith, also their reply. Needless to add that the municipal council has not, as intimated in your letter of Sept. 27th, requested a hearing before the railroad commissioners. Very respectfully,

Stephen Flynn, City Clerk.
City Clerk's Office, Sept. 27, 1912.

Mr. Thomas Lees, Supt. Bay State St. Ry. Co., Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: At a recent hearing held before the municipal council of the city of Lowell on the matter of the generally unsatisfactory car service furnished to the citizens of Lowell, it was alleged that the Bay State Street Ry. Co. has in the past, and is now discriminating against the city of Lowell in the matter of service generally, but particularly in the matter of fares.

I am directed to request your company to grant the same privileges to the citizens of Lowell in the matter of fares or tickets that are in vogue in the city of Fall River, where car tickets are sold by your company at the rate of six for 25 cents. Respectfully,
Stephen Flynn, City Clerk.

Ray State Street Railway Co.
Lowell, Mass., Sept. 27, 1912.

Mr. Stephen Flynn, City Clerk, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: This will acknowledge receipt of yours of even date, regarding matter of fares in the city of Lowell, which will have suitable consideration. Respectfully yours,
Thomas Lees, Gen. Supt.

FOUR SAFE BLOWERS

Night Watchman

WALPOLE, Oct. 4.—Four safe blowers, believed to be expert yegmen, blew open the safe in the post office about 2:40 yesterday morning, but before they could disturb the contents their presence was discovered and they left town in an automobile, after exchanging revolver shots with a night watchman of the town.

Workmen employed in the mills of Charles S. Bird, progressive candidate for governor, heard the noise of the explosion when the door of the safe was blown through a window and through the branches of a tree, finally imbedding itself in the roof of the railroad station at East Walpole.

As the night watchman started to investigate he was confronted by the four robbers, who immediately opened fire as they retreated down the road to their automobile, which was waiting. The burglars took nothing from the safe.

BIG PRICES ARE ASKED

For the Tickets for the World's Series

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—With the first world's series game in this city only five days away, the quotations on single chances to see the initial struggle rose today to $7 bid and $12 asked. Lucky baseball fans with coveted pieces of pasteboard secure in their pockets could be easily distinguished by their complacent smiles, while the less fortunate followers of the game seemed worried. Betting on the series has not been particularly brisk in this city. The Red Sox have ruled strong favorites over the Giants from the time the lineup of the world series clubs was definitely settled but a dearth of New York money has curbed the gambling instinct in Boston. It was reported yesterday that the odds which were 10 to 7 and 5 to 3 on the Red Sox had dwindled to even money. Investigation, however, failed to disclose any great amount of confidence in the ability of the Giants to win the series and few wagers were made.

The Red Sox are expected to return from Philadelphia on Sunday and will have a final workout at Fenway park next Monday. It is planned to give them a lively and encouraging send-off when they leave for New York and several hundred of their most devoted followers will accompany them so that they may hear some Boston cheers for their encouragement.

This band of supporters are busily engaged in learning baseball songs set to popular ditties. It is expected that the feature will be almost as pronounced as at a football contest.

HELD A SHORT SESSION

Two Boys Sent Away by Judge Enright

It took Judge Enright just 15 minutes this morning to dispose of the few cases which were brought to his attention at the police court session. There were three first offenders for drunkenness, who were released after being fined $2 each, and the last case was that of neglect of wife which was brought against George Bolavert. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty, and at his request the case was continued till next Tuesday.

Two Boys Sent Away

The two most important cases in the juvenile session were that of Lillian, who was charged with breaking and entering and larceny on three counts, and his elum, Emory Tetreault, charged with being a delinquent child. The former was sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory, while the latter was sent to the Lyman school.

LOWELL COUNCIL, R. A.

Held Smoke Talk With Minstrel Entertainment and an Address By P. G. R. Henry Goodwin of Boston.

A very largely attended smoke talk was held last night in Odd Fellows Temple under the auspices of Lowell council, No. 8, Royal Arcanum, followed by an entertainment by the Honey Boy Minstrels.

A short business meeting was held previous to the smoke talk and one application for membership was received. The principal address of the evening was delivered by East Grand Regent Henry Goodwin of Boston, one of the seven charter members of the order. He was accompanied by Grand Chaplain, Lillian Walker.

The Honey Boy Minstrels then gave their concert and entertainment which was fully appreciated. The minstrels were under the charge of Musical Director William H. Way, the accompanists being Emory Tetreault, while the Interlocutor was Joseph M. Donoghue. The program rendered was as follows:

Opening overture; end song, C. Austin Carey; song, Andrew Doyle; song, "Dixie" Donoghue; song, Paul Coleman; song, "Dixie" Hummel; either selections, John Hansen; bass solo, Guy Johnson; song, Cleveland K. Nobles; song, John Wiley; grand finale, the entire company with solo by Arthur Golins.

The committee in charge of this entertainment was composed of Regent J. S. Jackson and Orator E. L. White.

AVIATOR WAS KILLED

He Fell 2,000 Feet at Fair in Trenton

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 4.—With 50,000 persons watching him at the International Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon, Charles F. Walsh, while making a spiral descent in a Curtiss biplane, fell to instant death about a quarter of a mile outside of the fair grounds.

When physicians reached him, Walsh was dead and his machine a complete wreck. Practically every bone in his body was broken and his face and body were badly cut. He had fallen 2000 feet.

Walsh had been giving exhibitions at the fair all the week, and this year, for the first time, was doing fancy stunts with his machine. He was very high yesterday, probably 5000 feet, as he began his descent.

He was making the spiral descent with the front of the machine pointed almost downward when the upper plane seemed to become loose. Walsh could plainly be seen struggling to regain his balance, but without avail. The biplane made a rapid descent to the earth and the large number of spectators realized that Walsh had lost control of the machine and that death was imminent.

The accident had a depressing effect upon the audience at the fair grounds and within a few minutes nearly half of those present began an exodus. Walsh's body was brought to a morgue in this city and Secretary Magerum of the fair association gave orders for the abandonment of other flights scheduled for the day.

Groom Has Sign on Crawford

One of the oddities of baseball is the sign that Pitcher Groom of Washington has on Sam Crawford, a slugger who can be depended on to hit almost any twister hard even if not safely.

When Sam gets a single off Robert's arm, and when he hits the ball out of the infield he is happy. Usually he tips or pops to an infielder, vying this with an occasional strikeout.

COME EARLY

Six Cars Plunged from Rail Down Embankment at Westport and Were Burned

SOUTH NORWALK, Ct., Oct. 4.—At least eight persons were killed, including four women, when the second section of the Springfield express, bound from Boston for New York, was wrecked at a cross-over in Naugatuck at 4:44 p. m. yesterday.

About 20 passengers were injured. It is not thought that any of the injuries will prove to be fatal.

Most of the bodies of those killed were so burned as to render identification difficult.

The train, consisting of a heavy engine, baggage and mail cars, three Boston Pullmans, two Springfield Pullmans and three day coaches, was to have taken a switch from the inner to the outer track in order to carry it by a standing work-train.

For some unexplained reason, Engineer George L. Clark, who lost his life in the accident, drove his heavy train at top speed into the crossover. The engine leaped the rails after crossing a bridge spanning a roadway and toppled on its side half way down a 15-foot embankment. Almost immediately the boiler burst. In an instant the baggage and mail cars plunged down the embankment to the roadway where they were splintered. The first Pullman car leaped on top of the engine and burst into flames, incinerating several of the imprisoned passengers. Debris from the explosion scattered for hundreds of yards and many windows in the vicinity were smashed.

Engineer Clark was instantly killed and J. J. Moker, his fireman, fatally injured. Mrs. George L. Clark, wife of the engineer, was killed in the first Pullman car.

Two Have Marvelous Escape

The baggage car completely catapulted the engine but a baggage man and a newsboy in it escaped with their lives. The 4 chair cars next following were overturned and in the first of these occurred the loss of life. The three day-coaches, although derailed, remained upright. To add to the distress the wreck carried down the poles carrying wires alongside of the tracks and delay ensued before outside assistance could be secured.

As soon as possible the South Norwalk fire department responded and at once began on the burning cars. Meantime darkness had settled down upon the wreck, surgeons had been called from the cities of Norwalk, South Norwalk, Bridgeport and New Haven and a special train ordered made up at Stamford to take away those passengers who were able to leave. The work of rescue of the injured passengers could be prosecuted but very slowly and for several hours fire burned in the wreckage. Automobiles gave valuable aid hurrying the injured to hospitals.

The dead aside from the engine crew are all believed to have been passengers in the first chair car. Few are held that in this car many passengers lost their lives because those who got out of the second chair car say that at that time flames were running over the top of the first car.

Under the engine were found the bodies of two women who died with hands clasped.

Of the injured it is believed the number will run to 50, although only a small number in the early evening had been sent by ambulances to the Norwalk hospital. The east-bound tracks were cleared early.

Torture for Prisoners

Uninjured passengers and witnesses of the accident dashed forward to the burning car and made desperate attempts to reach the penned and dying passengers, but were driven back by the flames. Pitiful screams and cries gave evidence of the torture of the imprisoned ones.

The train left Boston at noon via Springfield, and owing to the heavy traffic a second section was made up. This section left New Haven immediately following the first section.

This statement concerning the wreck was issued from the New Haven & Hartford railroad at 10:15 last night: "The 12 o'clock train out of Boston for New York, which runs over the New Haven to New York, was wrecked at the Westport crossover, about 4:45 p. m. today.

"It was the second section of train No. 53, and was pulled by Engineer George L. Clark, one of the old-time engineers of the New Haven.

"The train had 10 cars, consisting of one baggage, one mail, four parlors, three coaches and one smoking car in the order named. The engine tender, baggage car, mail, four parlor cars and one coach were derailed, the engine going down the bank. The baggage car went by the engine, the mail and one parlor car followed and the wreck on top of the engine.

"Balance of the derailed cars were partially tipped over. The mail and three parlor cars caught fire, the fourth parlor car was scorched on the end.

"All passengers got out except those in the first parlor car."

RECEPTION AT Y.W.C.A.

The New Secretary Was Greeted by Members

The local quarters of the Y. W. C. A. was the scene of a very pretty and largely attended reception last evening when its members gathered there to greet Miss Harriet L. Boutelle, the new secretary.

The hall was very tastefully and attractively decorated with autumnal foliage, carnations, palms, hydrangeas and other plants and flowers. An orchestra composed of Miss Mildred Brennan, violinist; Miss Grace McEvoy, cornetist; and Miss Ola Sargent, pianist, furnished very enjoyable music for the affair, and the evening, viewed from every aspect, was a great success.

Miss Boutelle was the recipient of the good wishes of all present for success in her work for the association. The event was also in the nature of a rally for the opening of the class work which will take place next week. Miss Boutelle said that the organization would resume activities and that there will probably be several new features this year. All the societies are planning for an extremely busy fall season.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. William E. Brink, chairman of the shop meeting committee of the Boston association and at the close of the reception about 8:30 o'clock, he began informally to address the gathering. He spoke briefly, touching on the factors, physical and moral, of the success of the young girl in the business world. He explained the requirements, mentioning character, reliability and personality.

The social committee, which had charge of the ushers, the decorations, and the music, was composed of the following: Mrs. G. B. Parley, chairman; Mrs. John T. Rax, Mrs. Arthur Cashin, Mrs. Albert French, Mrs. Chas. E. Meader, Mrs. John A. Stevens, Mrs. Sam Shimley and Miss Margaret Archibald.

The educational committee, which discussed the plans for the educational work of the winter with informal groups, was composed of the following: Mrs. Alvah Sturges, chairman; Miss Helen Buttler, Miss Winifred Nelson, Miss Charlotte Meader, and Miss Catherine Paulkner.

The gymnasium committee, which had charge of the refreshments, which were served during the evening, was composed of the following: Mrs. Clarence H. Nelson, chairman; Mrs. D. E. Varnell, Mrs. Edwin N. Sleeper, Mrs.

Harry Walker, Miss Juna Sleeper, Miss Maud Smith, Miss Sadie Swett and Miss Winifred Nelson.

The ushers were Miss Olive Douglas, Miss Charlotte Meader, Miss Ethel Putnam, Miss Alice Cochrane, Miss Helen Thomas, Miss Alice Mills, Miss Vita Gogswell, Miss Marion Farley, Miss Olga Lutz, Miss Louise Bancroft and Miss Florence Knowlton.

WOMAN BURIED AT SEA

She Passed Away on the Cymric

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—A death at sea and an attempted suicide occurred on board the White Star liner Cymric, which reached port yesterday afternoon from Liverpool and Queenstown. On Sept. 27, the second day out from Ireland, Mary Moran, aged 26, out from Belfast, Sandville, County Kerry, to visit Mrs. Patrick Hurley, an old friend living at Springfield, Mass., died suddenly of heart disease.

The following morning the body, wrapped in a white shroud, was lowered over the side, after a priest had read the prayers for the dead. The impressive ceremony was attended by most of the passengers and officers.

The most startling incident of the voyage was the attempted suicide of William Kerrigan, one of the steerage passengers, who boarded the liner at Queenstown. Before he had been on board very long he directed himself to all his clothing and dashed through the steerage quarters to the deck. He attempted to fling himself over the rail when one of the quartermasters grabbed him by the leg. Kerrigan struggled to free himself, but the quartermaster retained his hold. They rolled about the deck and Kerrigan finally wrenched a section of a steam pipe from its fastenings and was about to use it on the quartermaster when several members of the crew pounced on the crazed man and put him in a strait-jacket. It is thought that Kerrigan's mental derangement is only temporary, but it will probably have the effect of barring him from entry into the country.

The Cymric brought 24 cabin passengers and 740 steerage. Among those in the cabin were Frederick P. Leary, the British consul general at this port, Mrs. Leary and two daughters, returning from a visit to their home in England; Charles S. French, cousin of United States Dist. Atty. French, with his wife and two sons; Mrs. Frances Hurlbut, Miss Rosalind Hurlbut and Mrs. Virginia Hurlbut of Boston and Charles F. Hoffman of Minneapolis.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL
The Lowell Owls met in regular business session last night and transacted a large amount of routine business. The quarterly statement of the treasurer was given as was also the report of the financial secretary. The class initiation, which is being worked up, will take place at the next regular meeting of the nest, which will be Thursday evening, Oct. 17. Deputy Supreme President King has been invited to be present and a large attendance is looked for.

A committee of five, of which Vice President Bowers is chairman, was appointed to make arrangements for putting on a banquet in the early winter. This committee is composed of justifying young men and much is expected of them.

Trades and Labor Council
A meeting of the Trades and Labor council was held last night at 32 Middle street and interesting reports were heard from President Rourke and Edward Welch, delegates to the recent convention of the state branch. Harvey B. Greene, fraternal delegate from the Federation of Churches, spoke interestingly on the convict ship, now on exhibition in Boston and also on the settlement of international differences by arbitration. The organizing committee reported the formation of the Telephone Operators' union and they were admitted in the council membership.

Odd Ladies

The regular meeting of Loyal Victoria lodge, Odd Ladies, was held last night and at the close of the routine business an enjoyable musical program was given by Sisters Crowthers and Toy.

Knights of Pythias

Lowell lodge, 24, Knights of Pythias, held its regular meeting last night at its hall, 124 Merrimack street, and transacted a large amount of routine business. The entertainment committee reported good progress on the proposed visit to the William B. Yates lodge on Monday, Oct. 7.

Elgin Lodge, N. E. O. P.

The regular meeting of Elgin lodge, 106, N. E. O. P., was held last night in Veritas hall and considerable business was transacted.

The entertainment committee reported that it had been decided to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Elgin lodge, by an open meeting and entertainment on Dec. 5.

After the business meeting, the degree staff went through its drill and showed considerable proficiency.

ECZEMA ON LIMB ITCHED DREADFULLY

Scratched in Sleep. Spread Rapidly. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Worked Wonders. Stopped Itching and in Less Than a Week Healed Entirely. Cost 75 Cents.

27 Whitney Ave., Cambridge, Mass.—

"My trouble was eczema. It began by my knee-supporter rubbing and poisoning the skin on my leg just above the knee. The eruption was small pimples which itched dreadfully. When I scratched them they would scab over and they itched so night and day I scratched the scabs off in my sleep. They spread rapidly. I used which had different cuticle salves but nothing did it any good until a neighbor told me how her hands were cracked open and bleeding and that Cuticura cured her. I had been to so much expense buying remedies that did not good that I sent for samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment before using. They worked wonders. They stopped the itching and in less than a week's time it had healed entirely. After using a full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap, costing but 75c." (Signed) Mrs. W. E. Lewis, Nov. 25, 1911.

For treating poor complexion, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorites for more than a generation. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

*A "Vindictive" and men should use Cuticura Soap Shavings Stick, 50c. Sample free.

Sessions to be Held Saturday Afternoon

A new feature at the Industrial school this year will be the Saturday afternoon class, from 1:30 to 5 o'clock for boys between the ages of 14 and 17. This is for training in academic branches, and also to give them a complete knowledge of textile manufacture.

Registration for the evening classes in the Industrial school will open Monday night of next week in all departments. Registration will be in the Old Bartlett, Old Moody and Mann schools.

WINS WAGER BY MAKING HAIR GROW ON A BALD HEAD

TELLS HOW IT WAS DONE

I have just finished the application of a wonderful ointment on my head which, a few weeks ago was almost completely bald. Today my friends look with astonishment at my luxuriant growth of hair. It is amazing how much younger I appear. This sudden and seemingly miraculous transformation is the result of a wager with a doctor friend of mine, who declared that he knew of no infallible way to stop my falling hair, cure my dandruff and cause a new growth of thick hair of its natural color. I confess that I was skeptical for experience with many remedies and tonics had already convinced me that this was impossible. Yet I consented to try the preparation which he recommended, but I wagered that it would not succeed. I used the lotion regularly twice a day, rubbing well into the scalp with a small brush, for I had been strongly recommended against applying it with the fingers or the hands, because of its extraordinary hair-growing power. In less than a week's time, the new, short hairs were growing so rapidly that I could not deny that it was doing good. I assure you that I never lost a wager more gracefully. But I had gained a growth of hair and I was too overjoyed with this result to care for anything else. Upon inquiring from my friend I found that this lotion consisted of 1 oz. of Lavone, 1 oz. of Eucalypti, 1 oz. of Menthol Crystals. How any druggist can prepare for such a small sum a lotion so made to cure for any ailment, I cannot understand. Yet the fact remains that my hair, which I had prepared to lose, is now growing again, and at the same time being absolutely certain in its color. I am a great benefactor of my wage. FRANK IS PROUD.

for the men, and in the Morrill school for the women and girls. The textile department will be conducted in the Old Moody school, where there will be classes in weaving and loom fixing, for English speaking pupils, and for Greek, Portuguese and French pupils; also a class in ring spinning.

In the Old Bartlett school will be taught plumbing, machine shop work and carpentry, and in the Mann school steam, engineering, electrical work and automobile repairing.

The girls in their department in the Morrill school, will be instructed in scientific home making, including, of course, cooking. There is this year an advanced and an elementary course in these branches. Also there will be a class for mothers in the making of children's clothing, plain sewing, shirtwaist and skirt work, garment making and millinery.

In the Old Bartlett school the pupils have been at work putting up machinery, and while they work at these and other work, they are also learning to cook, for a nominal fee, the food being provided by the girls in the Morrill school. The boys have finished up their own office equipment and benches for the lectures and are currently doing other work in the way of fitting up the school rooms.

The teaching staff in the Industrial school was left practically the same as last year, except that two teachers were added to the force, Mrs. Quinn and Miss Ward, in the women's department. Principal Dooley plans as the school attendance increases and the pupils are graduated, to take on a trained pupils as assistant teachers whenever practicable.

CHARLES J. GLIDDEN

Invites Autoists to Go on Trip

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—The Glidden automobile tour having been postponed for this year, Charles J. Glidden, donor of the tour trophy, issued last night an invitation for autoists in general to accompany him over the route planned from Detroit to New Orleans, to show that automobile touring is not dead. "The American Automobile association," says Mr. Glidden, "has postponed the national automobile tour that has been so successfully conducted in the interest of automobilizing and road roads during the past seven years. You are cordially invited to join me for a part or all of the way in a grand tour over the route selected by the association for the year 1912, leaving Detroit on Monday, Oct. 14, for New Orleans."

The pace set will be according to existing conditions and the tour from start to finish will be a pleasant jaunt through one of the most interesting sections of the United States. "This move is not antagonistic to the association, but to show to the world that automobile touring in the United States has not dead nor sleeping. All persons love to automobile and good roads fall in with their automobile, and let us go from the Lakes to the Gulf, three days at a necessary."

DEMOCRATS GET BUSY

Go to New York to Secure Speakers

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Chairman Thomas E. Riley of the democratic state committee, accompanied by Hon. Roger Sherman Hoar of the executive committee of Massachusetts and Judd Dewey of the Wilson college club, left Boston for New York last night to confer today with the democratic national committee.

They will ask the national committee to send to Massachusetts speakers of national reputation during the last two or three weeks of the campaign.

"The democratic campaign in this state," said Mr. Riley last evening, "starts with absolute harmony. The plans for the campaign will bring about cooperation between all the democratic candidates."

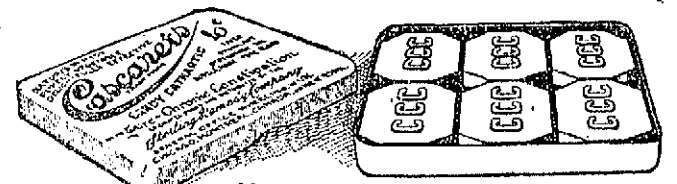

It is our purpose to organize all the candidates that they may be able to cooperate with one another at the meeting which will be held, following the

Yesterday Mr. Riley held a conference with ex-Senator Hoar, representing the Wilson league of Massachusetts and Judd Dewey, representing the Wilson college club. As a result of this conference a committee of three has been formed to conduct the publicity and speaker's end of this campaign.

Griffith Afraid To Quit The Game

Twenty-five years of baseball have made Clarke Griffith afraid to quit. He fears that after a quarter of a century of strain he could not stand inactivity. "Dago (Griff)" has always been one of the highest keyed, scrappiest men in the game. He works at a pitch equal to that of Ty Cobb.

"The lack of mental and physical excitement and strain would make a quick end of me," says the Nationals' manager. "I suffer from inactivity in winter. If it lasted into the spring I am certain I would be unable to stand the strain."

All athletes are affected the same way. Take Ty Cobb. He works so intensely and each season gets so deeply drawn that I doubt if he could stand much inactivity. Other players who do not work as hard and are never so perfectly trained as Ty do not suffer so much."

Sam Walter Foss Club

The Sam Walter Foss Literary society held its first fall meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. R. Harris, 119 Methuen street. There was a large attendance and much business was transacted. Mrs. H. E. Farrington, chairman of the calendar committee, presented a fine program for the winter's work.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Frank Marshall presented the afternoon program, consisting of piano solos by Miss Ole Sargent, and songs by Mrs. Eugene Russell. A social hour then followed, and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lita Brown and Miss Alice Kindness. The next meeting of the club will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 16, at the home of Mrs. W. A. McDonald, 731 Broadway.

Middlesex North Society
The annual meeting of the trustees of the Middlesex North Agricultural society was held yesterday in Centralville Odd Fellows hall on Bridge street. President George W. Trull presiding. There were 18 of the trustees present and a brief report of the Chelmsford fair was given and committees appointed to make changes in awards and premiums for the next fair. The fair was a great success, netting between $200 and $400. A committee was appointed to bring in nominations for the annual election of the society which will be held Oct. 8 at the same place and adjournment taken to the banquet hall where dinner was served.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE

Was Addressed by Francis McLean

Francis McLean, a representative of the national association, addressed the Lowell Social Service league last night in Matthews hall.

A resolution was presented and adopted to the effect that the meeting endorse the proposition for the establishment of a league for social service, according to the purposes stated by the chairman, and in the constitution already adopted. Also that the provisional committee of the league be instructed to proceed to organize, and to elect officers for the first year and prepare and submit plans of operations to the board of directors.

P. A. Fisher, Rev. W. A. Wood, Rev. Appleton Grant, Miss Helen Buttrick, Rev. James Bancroft, Dr. George Demopoulos, Mrs. W. G. Eaton, D. L. Page, Dr. Emma Slaughter, Miss Emily Silliton, Rev. Charles T. Billings, Harry Pollard, Rev. S. W. Cummings, Miss Mabel Hill, Mrs. E. K. Stearns, Rev. George K. Snagott.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman of the provisional committee, J. J. Gallagher, who explained the object of the Social Service league, and stated that it is a center of intercommunication between the churches and charitable organizations of the city, and to be a clearing house for the charitable distribution of money. It is hoped to simplify, by co-operation, the charitable work of the city, and to make it more effective, preventing duplication of work by the various societies, while other needy cases are overlooked.

Mr. McLean gave an informal talk on the best methods to employ in solving family problems. Social service work, he said, is just a game of fairness, and a system of constructive work. It is not a question of undemocratic work, but it means giving just such helpful advice as we could ourselves desire in the same circumstances. He emphasized the importance of thorough and careful investigation, not for the purpose of determining whether or not the family is worthy, a consideration that does not enter into the problem at all—but in order to find the best methods of solving each individual family problem.

Another important point, he said, is to have a trained social worker in charge. Economy in the choice of a secretary is a poor policy. Many societies have failed miserably just because they did not realize the need of professional ability of the highest sort.

The speaker also warned against financial dependence upon municipal appropriations. He said the society should be financed by means of private subscriptions, in order to be independent of local politics.

PROGRESSIVES MEETING

Daniel Cosgrove the Star Orator at Boston Rally

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—To open their state campaign 3500 progressives crowded into Tremont Temple last night and "overflowed" into Faneuil hall.

In numbers the rally exceeded the turnout at the Foss rally at the close of the recent primary campaign. As for cheering and other forms of applause, the gathering set a new mark for the year.

The audiences were ready to cheer on the slightest provocation. The mention of Roosevelt's name started hand-clappings, wavings of bandannas, moose calls and cheering. Even the statement of a progressive plank was considered worthy of applause.

Hisses greeted Chairman Matthew Hale's reference to Senators Barnes, Penrose and Crane. There was some applause, but whether it was for the attack or the object of the attack was not clear. Every derogatory reference to the republican party was cheered, and while the democrats came in for censure, as well, the tribute Charles S. Bird, the candidate for governor, paid to Grover Cleveland, of whom he was a supporter, was applauded.

Collection Taken Up
There were several distinctly Bull Moose features of the rally. One was the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and other songs of the Armageddonists, another the taking up of a collection such as one is accustomed to see at the Sunday services at the Temple, and a third the genuine moose call given by a Maine guide equipped with a birch bark horn. The collection brought in within a few cents of $200.

In his first speech in the campaign before a Boston audience Mr. Bird took his stand firmly upon the national platform of the progressive party. The state issues for which he stands were outlined in his letter of acceptance. His reference to the purpose of the party to improve the condition of the workingmen were applauded no less enthusiastically than his attacks upon his republican and democratic opponents.

Cheers interrupted his recital of the names of the men prominent in the progressive movement, and when he had concluded a vote in the audience shouted: "Vote Adams, too." His attack upon the "untruthful republican press" brought out cries of "Shook'em." He advocated the publication of a newspaper by the state, which shall give truthful reports of political and other matters.

Daniel Cosgrove, the former Lowell alderman who is running for lieutenant governor, entertained the audience by his statement of reasons for being in the party. He came before the meeting unknown as a speaker outside of his home city, but he carried away the honors of the evening at least as far as they were measured by the applause.

Overflow Meeting
Addresses were also made by H. Harris Newton, of Everett, candidate for attorney general; Russell A. Wood of Cambridge, candidate for secretary of state, and Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard, who is running for the state senate.

A procession of 500 progressives from Walpole, Dedham, Cambridge and other places greeted Mr. Bird at the South station and escorted him to Tremont Temple. There was another parade from the North station, but the hall was filled when the paraders arrived at Tremont Temple and they were sent to the overflow meeting at Faneuil hall.

Angel Guardian Sodality
At the last meeting of the Angel Guardian sodality of St. Joseph's parish 60 new members were received into the sodality and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
Arthur Desloges, president; Joseph Dussault, first vice president; Arthur Archambault, second vice president; Arthur Glonet, secretary; Louis Lachapelle, beadle; Leo Ittard; Maxime Labreque, Edmund Gagnon, Leonce Glonet, counselors; Joseph Rousseau and J. Berger, flag bearers.

RED SOX SLAUGHTER PITCHERS RECORD RACE BY PACERS

Evelyn W. Wins in Five Heats that Average Better than 2:03

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—The fast fading World's Champions of old Philadelphia were given a fine trouncing here yesterday afternoon by the Boston Speed Boys, before a good-sized crowd of mourners led by Ben Shibe and Cornelius McGillicuddy. The official records will credit Boston with 17 runs and the Athletics with 5.

The game was witnessed by Christopher Columbus Mathewson and Richard Le Marquis, more commonly known as "Tahoe" Marquard, who were commissioned by Napoleon Johnnie McGraw of New York to take notes of the Red Sox's weak points.

The Broadway experts occupied front seats close to the Boston dugout, and for four innings exchanged smiles. Up to this time the Athletics led the procession by a score of 2 to 0.

The villain Baker made a big noise with a home-run drive in the fifth inning, with two on. Baker's left went through the score board in left field and was a beautiful wallop.

The Athletics were after second place, and figured they would run the money, even with Sir Joseph Wood on the rubber. For four innings it looked as if they would, and then commenced the working of parades, a home run drive by "Buffy" Lewis with the bases full, and eight runs were scored by the Red Sox before the third man went down in the fifth.

The spectators could not understand how their proud favorites could become more punting bags in the hands of the lads from Boston and after the game all were willing to admit that the red-headed boys were entitled to the position they had gained this evening. The Athletics put up a superb fielding game, especially Collins, Barry and McInnis. Brown and Pennock, a right-handed and left-handed, could not coax the Boston men to nibble at the wide ones, and when the ball crossed the rubber the eastern men leaped against it with the fierceness of a mule kicking at a yellow dog.

Seventeen fine drives, including five hits for extra bases, were turned in by seven Boston players, Hooper and Speaker having a day's vacation with the big three, Lewis, Collins and Wagner hit in strong and timely fashion, while Enloe, Stahl, Cady and Wood also did their share.

The Boston defense was faulty. A muff by Lewis, a fumble by Speaker, Cady's wild throw to first and Stahl's failure to stop a runner that went through the bases allowed the home team three of the five runs. The other two were the result of a scratch hit by Collins and Baker's home run.

Joe Wood was very wild and was hit rather freely in the first three innings. After that he settled down to improved work, but it was only too plain that his one game in the last two weeks was not enough to keep him on an edge for his best work.

Seven hits were scored off Wood and one of Charley Hall, who worked in the ninth inning. Wash made a triple and two singles off Wood. A fine double play started by Enloe killed the Athletics' chances in the first.

Boston sent 11 men to bat in the fifth, and in the ninth 10 men went to bat, the Red Sox cracking out seven singles off a left-hander.

Boston drew 10 passes. In Washington they drew 10 in one game and nine in another, or 29 passes in three games, showing that they have pretty good eyes for the ball these days and refuse to go after the ball if it is not over the pan.

Wood had great speed yesterday, but rather poor control of his fast ones, his drop ball doing the business.

DIAMOND NOTES

New York is some what concerned as to whether Wood will be hard or soft in the world's series.

The three National League losers Wednesday were not near winners. In each game only one run separated them from the winners.

Fred Clarke, however, denies that there were any such wars between him and Harry Sawyer when he failed to maintain his best form.

He Chase, Red Sox, and other highlanders were at the grounds yesterday morning looking on the grounds for the world's series of 1914.

Ames didn't do badly in qualifying as a w. s. white horse, but a heavier twist, the Giants need a game hitting behind him to equal the Red Sox.

Hope's another record! The speaker drew five passes in Tuesday's game. He also holds the record of only one only Boston centre fielder since 1904.

The polo grounds is to be camp to date some board next year. Harry Sawyer will put up an entire new building all the players and giving the famous out of town batteries.

GIRL WAS LOST 14 YEARS WEALTHY NEW YORK MAN MARRIED PLATONICALLY

Was Rescued From a Life Drudgery Attempted to Kill Young St. Louis Couple in a Mental Wedding

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Alice Kelly, the 15-year-old daughter of Gregory Kelly of No. 235 East One Hundred and Twenty-fourth streets, who 14 years ago was separated from her father, was rescued by him yesterday from a life of drudgery in the family of a foster parent in the Bronx.

During the past four years the father has searched for his daughter. He had kissed her goodbye in 1898 when he and his wife separated. He went West and his wife moved away from their home, No. 929 Greenwich avenue. Ten years passed and then the husband learned his wife was dead and his daughter lost to him in this city.

The father at once started a search and at last found his daughter in a tenement on 165th street, the Bronx. The foster parents were loath to give the child up, for from her an income was derived. They had put her to work in a paper box factory, taking the $1 she earned each week. But factory work was only part of her duties. She was forced to rise at 6 each morning, cook breakfast for her foster father, who is an expressman, and the foster mother to get a morning's meal for her children and then go to the factory. At night she was home by 6, but not through with her work until 11.

"The child should be thankful for the home," said the foster mother yesterday. "I gave her a few pennies for candy each week and clothed and fed her. I even allowed her 10 cents a week to pay for life insurance. Who was the beneficiary? I, of course."

Alice was seen last night and said she is the happiest child in the world. Her father and his present wife—married to him for four years—were beaming with joy.

"A man who knew my wife knew also where my daughter was," the father said. "I hunted for him beside searching for my daughter, directly, for through him I felt I could learn of her whereabouts. Two years ago I found him, but he pleaded he must have a day in which to obtain her address. I returned the next day, but he had given up his work. I know he meant to wait until Alice was earning a good wage and then claim her as his daughter."

A few days ago I found him again. I was careful this time and hauled him to a police station. He told me the truth and I located my daughter."

"Up in the Bronx they tried to keep Alice from me. I had a photograph of her when she was 13 months old and she, luckily, had a duplicate. She had a few other things, that I knew in those old days, and since those people had no legal guardianship I took her from them. She is to return to school at once. My income as a waiter isn't much, but on it we three can easily live."

Bubonic Plague in Azores
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—A despatch from Henry T. Gage, United States minister at Lisbon, to the state department yesterday stated that bubonic plague had broken out in Terceira island. A quarantine has been declared. Terceira island is one of the islands in the Azores.

DETROIT, Oct. 4.—William J. Reisenweber, 45 years old, said to be a wealthy clubman, living at the Ansonia hotel, New York city, is alleged to have made a murderous assault on Mrs. Gould Allen, 24 years old, wife of a prominent Detroit man, yesterday afternoon. The police are searching the city for Reisenweber, but he is still at large.

Reisenweber is very much infatuated with Mrs. Allen and has paid her considerable attention, which, she says, has been against her wishes. Today's attack was the second one he made on the young woman with a knife.

Reisenweber is alleged to have gone to the rear door of the Allen home, on the East Grand boulevard, and cut the screen out of the door and gained an entrance to the house. Mrs. Allen heard him, and when she went to see who it was not him in the hall. He pulled a knife and slashed her across the throat, cutting a gash an eighth of an inch from the jugular vein, and slashed her across the breasts. He then ran out of the house and has not been seen since.

THE GREAT WHITE WAY

Plans for it Have Been Prepared

It seems almost a foregone conclusion that Lowell is to have a "white way" extending from the city hall to the railroad station in Middlesex street. The proposed system of ornamental street lighting seems to meet with universal favor.

Alderman Brown had the blue prints in front of him when a reporter of The Sun called at his office this forenoon. Alderman Brown said he felt very much pleased over the arrangement that he had arrived at with the Lowell Electric Light corporation and he thinks the municipal council will take kindly to the proposition.

The Lowell Electric Light Corporation has agreed to install the proposed ornamental street lighting system at its own expense. This has not been done by any lighting company in any other city that I have heard of and I do not see why we should reject it," said Mr. Brown. "With the white way included we will not have to pay any more for our street lighting than is being paid at the present time."

Women's Golf Championship
MANCHESTER, Oct. 4.—Miss Margaret Curtis of Boston, playing with a badly crippled hand, and Mrs. Ronald Barlow of Philadelphia won their matches today in the semi-finals of the national women's golf championship at the Essex Country club. They will meet tomorrow in the finals if Miss Curtis is in condition to play.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 4.—Following the example of their brother and sister, Ernest Roehlk, a fresco painter, and Miss Elizabeth Oik, also an artist, were joined in "mental wedlock" in New York a fortnight ago. Rumors of the marriage were confirmed yesterday by Hugo Oik, brother of the bride and member of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra.

"My sister and Ernest Roehlk were married by a clergyman following their return from Europe, where they have been studying," said Mr. Oik. "Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Roehlk have the same ideas of the dominance of mind over matter that Louis Roehlk and my sister Maria had. Although their marriage was conventional their union will be platonic. They hope to become parents through mental means."

Louis Roehlk and Maria Oik announced on April 27, 1911, that "on the 12th of August, 1910, we were united before God and man," and that they hoped to produce a perfect child by "will power."

Such a storm of indignation swept over the west after this announcement that the young couple, both of whom are also artists, were forced to go through a legally ordained marriage ceremony.

"No child has come to my sister Maria and her husband," said Hugo Oik yesterday. "But, huh! It makes no difference. They are busy with their art and their music. In a year, maybe two, the child will come. My brother-in-law had an idea, maybe, of becoming a father by process of mind and will. But it doesn't bother him any more."

"Then the idea has been abandoned for the present?"

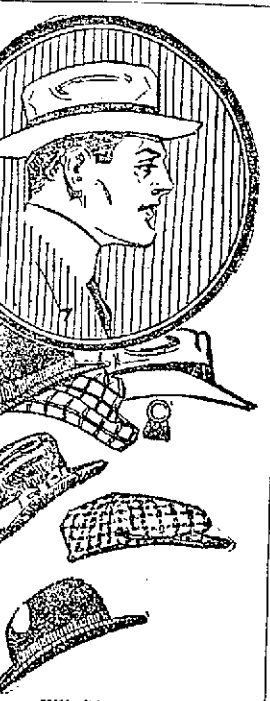

The musician thought deeply, an operation that required much shaking of his curly locks.

Mail Clerk Injured
WORCESTER, Oct. 4.—Rev. W. H. Goggin, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic church, received a telegram last night stating that his brother, Edward Goggin, a railway mail clerk on the wrecked flyer, was in the hospital but not seriously injured. The name Daniel B. Goggin does not appear in the Worcester directory and the police were unable to locate his residence.

Grand Circuit Races
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 4.—Grand Circuit results: 217 class pace, 3 in 5, purse $1200, five heats Thursday: Babe (Jamison), first; Ty Cobb (Colby), second; Walter Cochran (Snyder), third; Edward B. (Nuckols), fourth. Best time 2:04 1/4.

Consolation pace not filled, and Minor Hein, 1:55 1/2, and George Gano, 2:02, will go to best own records.

The man who buys his clothing and pays weekly is entitled to as good value as the man who is lucky enough to pay the full amount at once.

So when we show a man a suit or a coat, we do not lay much stress upon the fact that we give credit, but show that every dollar of the price asked is there. Making, trimmings, materials, all can be had at different prices and reasonable prices must be paid for dependable, right wearing goods.

Every suit or coat or pants—in short anything that we sell must prove up to our guarantee, if not you can at any time have it made good by simply mentioning the fault.

TODAY THE SEASON REALLY STARTS

WITH A

SUIT SALE at $15.00

You'll nowhere else find the style and value that these suits show. We doubt if many places can show the assortment.

At $16.75 are many styles for the man who is conservative there are the dark patterns; for the young man who wants to wear sporty clothes, there are patterns as sporty as you please.

NEW HATS

For the man who waits to buy one with his suit. The soft velours that are so popular; felt in exceedingly attractive shapes; and the stiff black hat, that many insist upon wearing.

And of equal interest to "the folks" the wear is there. Pants strengthened to receive the hard knocks, and coats with extra strong linings and stays.

SUITS FOR THE BOYS

In proportion as large a selection as for their elders. Priced so moderate that no young man may feel backward about having his folks buy a suit.

ment that the Roosevelt administration's treatment of the Standard Oil Co. rivaled "darkest Abyssinia."

"It is true that when I was president, I administered the darkest Abyssinian treatment to the Standard Oil Co. but it was because it was needed. If I am president again I will again administer it to any corporation of the Standard Oil type that may need it."

"All these men who testify against me testify that I refused to do, or did not do anything improper in their interests and they are all now supporting the candidates against me—those who are alive."

He said he had a fight with the Standard Oil Co. in 1905 when he was getting through the bureau of corporations bill.

"Senator Clapp, you were in the fight and so were you, Senator Paynter, I believe."

He finally got the bill through, he said, by publishing telegrams sent by the "younger Mr. Rockefeller."

"I had my first brush with the Standard Oil Co. then," he said, "and they knew just what they could expect from me."

Col. Roosevelt emphasized his statements with blows of his hand on the witness chair.

"I wish to call your attention to this fact in connection with Mr. J. P. Morgan's testimony yesterday regarding the Northern Securities case. The Northern Securities case was settled with a verdict against Mr. Morgan and J. J. Hill. It was also during my first administration that I settled the anthracite coal strike. I have understood that Mr. Morgan expressed vigorously his dissatisfaction with my attitude in that case and I was surprised to find that he had contributed to my campaign fund."

Col. Roosevelt said he first heard of Mr. Morgan's contribution in the testimony yesterday. He insisted that during the 1904 campaign Mr. Bliss had assured him that no promises, expressed or implied, had been made in return for contributions and Mr. Bliss had never asked him after his election for any favors for contributors.

Regarding his campaign this year, Col. Roosevelt said:

"I saw the different men who were interested in my campaign at Chicago and before, and explained explicitly that I would tolerate no effort of any kind by the use of money, or the offer of patronage to get delegates for me. The only time I ever saw it charged was in reference to Grimsby, Michigan. I wrote a letter to him and got an answer which I have here."

Col. Roosevelt's letter asked Mr. Morgan for "his personal assurance" that he had never used money or other influence to secure his delegates.

Mr. Morgan's reply read in part:

"I unhesitatingly say that no man can say that I ever endeavored by the use of money or the promise of patronage to aid your campaign. I wish to unequivocally deny that charge. I will state that you would immediately repudiate me if I did make any such effort."

Col. Roosevelt took up the allegation that $2,000,000 was used in the progressive primary campaign.

"Mr. Hill and Congressman Bartholdt have made this statement," he said. "I suggest very strongly that both these men be called here immediately and asked to produce their proof."

"The man who bears false witness is guilty of an infamous conduct as the man who steals. If Mr. Bartholdt or Mr. Hill can prove their statements they ought to be compelled to do so. If they cannot they ought to be driven out of public life."

Col. Roosevelt demanded that Chas. B. Taft, William McKinley and also Chairman McCombs and Vice Chairman McAdoo of the democratic committee be summoned.

"You can see it is hard on me," said Col. Roosevelt, "to have to wait a month to answer Mr. Archbold's charges and then to have things so arranged that the attention of the country is riveted on the campaign expenses of the progressive party while no attention is directed to the campaign funds of the other candidates."

"I assure you that if the committee lives the other men will be brought here before election," said Chairman Clapp.

"At this point the committee recessed until 1:30 o'clock."

ALL FREIGHT JUMPERS

To be Arrested by the Police Officials

There were five or six boys before the juvenile court this forenoon for "freight jumping," which means that the youngsters had been stealing rides on freight trains. Now this is a very dangerous practice and the police, railroad officials and others have decided that extra means must be employed to prevent it. To this end the police and special officers connected with the railroads have orders to arrest all freight jumpers and bring them to court.

There was one very sad home coming in this city last night. It was that of a boy who left a good home and kind relatives here just to see the world. He left a note behind saying that he had no complaint to file as to his home treatment but that he was anxious to see the world. Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society happened to be at the lad's home when he returned last night and the poor fellow was minus his left arm and right leg. He had been stealing rides on freight trains and in a fight with a dog he was tossed under a train and deprived of a leg and an arm. He spent about three months in a hospital and then turned his face toward home. Agent Richardson said it was the saddest homecoming he ever witnessed.

WHY VOTE AGAINST THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE

In the bewildering appeals to the electorate, it is difficult for the voters in many cases to determine just which party is right and which is wrong. To the man of intelligence who has given any attention to the recent trend of affairs it must be very clear that the republican party is responsible for the high cost of living, for the oppressive tariff, the dangerous power of the trusts, the cold storage and other evils by which the necessities of life are cornered and held up until scarcity drives the prices to starvation figures.

The republican party while claiming to favor a tariff that will represent the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad, has a tariff equal to many times that difference and in some cases so high that the trusts doing business under it can ship their products to Europe or Asia and there sell them at half the price demanded from the American consumer.

The secret of that is, that while the trust is protected from foreign competition, "to foster the infant industry," it throttles domestic competition and then has the power to plunder the people just as much as it pleases. This power is tyrannically used by the beef trust, the steel trust, and many others that control not only the necessities of life but clothing and building materials.

The constitution provides that the government alone shall have power to levy taxes; but the power enjoyed by a trust controlling any of the necessities of life and fully protected against foreign and domestic competition enjoys a power to tax the people so far as they are able to pay.

The trust hoards its product until a short supply puts up the price. If any attempt be made to relieve the situation by foreign competition, then the supply locked up in big storehouses, or may be in cold storage, will be thrown upon the market so as to make the importation of the commodity highly unprofitable.

That is how the American consumer is swindled, humbugged and robbed. Yet that is the system built up by the high republican tariff and the republican alliance with the trusts. The trusts rather than the party control the government today and this is why the people should rise in their might and drive the party from power, or in other words wrest the government from control of the trusts and place it in charge of a party that is free and independent of trust power and influence.

But the republican party promised to lower the tariff. It promised to do so in 1901 and again in 1905, yet it violated its pledges to the people because it is in the hands of the trusts and combines known as the "standpat element." When the people thoroughly aroused elected democrats to the house of representatives sufficient to make a majority these democrats framed a number of tariff bills to bring urgent relief from the most oppressive tariff schedules; but President Taft vetoed these measures. Is that the party or Taft the candidate to re-elect to power?

According to Congressman Underwood, the democratic leader, these tariff bills if passed into law would have lifted from the shoulders of the people the sum of $650,000,000 annually without incurring any legitimate industry in the country. Thus it appears that President Taft could not induce the republicans to revise the tariff downward and when the democrats submitted bills to relieve the situation, he did not have the courage to place them on the statute book by affixing his signature. By so doing President Taft betrayed the people when he had a chance to protect them and he did so through fear of his party and knowing full well that he was acting against the best interests of all the people.

Is not this sufficient reason why President Taft and the party that elected him should be relegated to oblivion?

The republican party is subservient to the money power of the country which has financed its campaigns with mammoth contributions as appears from the investigation now being conducted by the United States senate, the revelations of Penrose, Archbold and various other authorities. For every election since 1892 the republican party collected several million dollars from corporations to be spent in carrying the close states. How was this money spent if not to debauch the electorate? Yet this is the party that asks to be retained in control of the government for four years more. It is true, as appears from the investigation, that the trusts and combines represented by such men as the late Mr. Harriman, J. P. Morgan, who is still in the game, John D. Rockefeller and others have financed the republican campaigns.

These are the influences that have been plundering the people and that will continue to do so unless they are turned down in the coming election. It is the duty of every citizen, therefore, to vote against the republican party as represented by Mr. Taft and if there is even a overwhelming reason for voting against Taft there are ever so many more and ever so much greater reasons why they should vote against the Bull Moose candidate, Colonel Roosevelt. Both being, therefore, leagued against the people the only candidate for whom the honest citizen can conscientiously vote is Governor Wilson of New Jersey, the nominee of the democratic party, the party of Jefferson, Jackson and Cleveland, the party of the people, that stands against special privileges and for equal rights and opportunities for all.

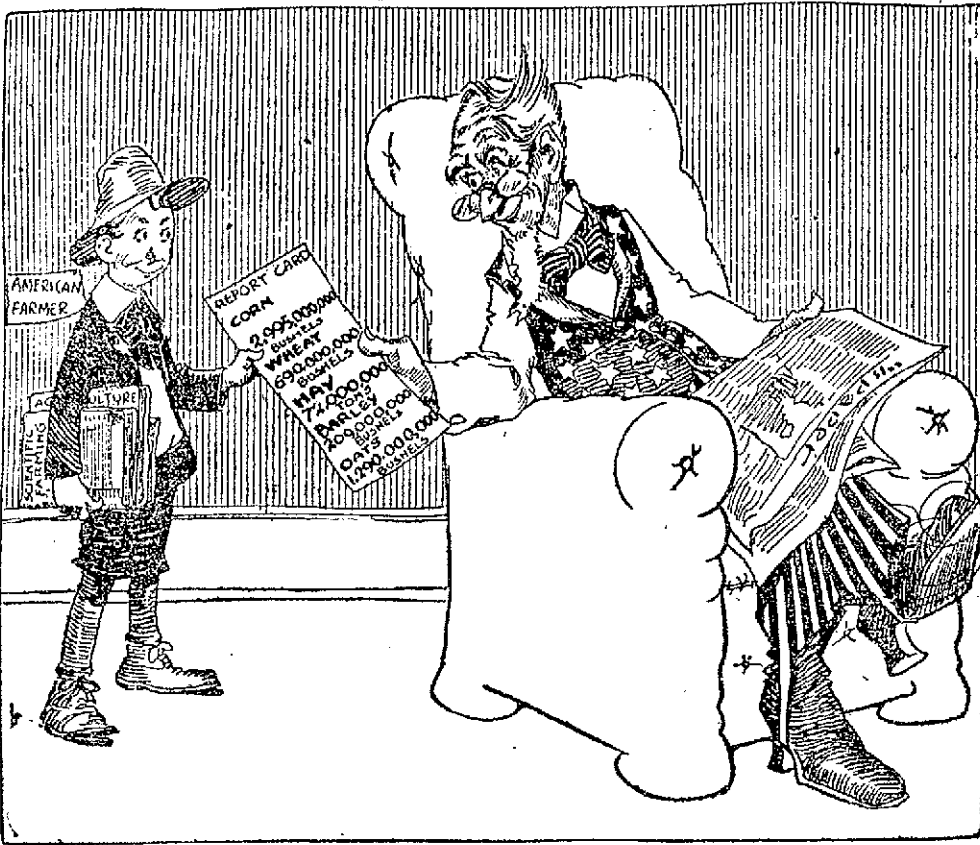

THE PATRIOTISM OF THE GREEKS

The local Greek men between the ages of 21 and 35 years are called to defend their country in the war with Turkey. It is truly astonishing with what enthusiasm they respond to the call. Greece is called on to be proud of such sons and America would be proud to have their allegiance. These men are volunteering to risk their lives for their native land in war against the Turk, a war that is righteous if ever any war was. We admire the patriotism of these Greek volunteers who not only go to fight for Greece but pay their own way to the scene of battle. We wish them God speed; and we believe we can say truly that Lowell is very sorry to lose such men. The Greeks as well operatives have refused to live up with the dangerous class that flouts the red and the black flag and on all authority at defiance. They have shown due respect for our constitution and our laws, for lawful authority and their devotion to native land shows that they are patriotic to the core and that as citizens they would be as loyal to their adopted country as they are loyal to the mother land. The illustrious history and traditions of the Greek people are still potent as an inspiration to the race and may yet result in driving the German armies to join hands with Italy in driving the Mussulman from the continent of Europe.

ROOSEVELT'S EXCUSE

Col. Roosevelt tries to justify his course in seeking a third term by saying that all talk in opposition to a third term refers strictly to consecutive terms. In his opinion a candidate can have as many non-consecutive terms as he can get and when he promises not to seek "another term" he means another consecutive term. That is on a par with the shillabide of the cup of coffee. "If at breakfast," said the Colonel, "I say I will have no more coffee, I mean no more at that time, but that does not mean that I will not drink more coffee on the following of succeeding days." This is the sophistry by which Roosevelt tries to justify the violation of his promise not to seek another nomination for the presidency. When the custom is established against seeking a third term and a president says he will not seek a third nomination, that precludes a term of any kind, consecutive or non-consecutive.

The presidential candidates or at least two of them, are injecting speeches into talking machines to be reproduced to audiences over the country. Colonel Roosevelt has not resorted to this style of campaign because it does not offer him any opportunity to assail anybody for disturbing the meeting.

"PROUD OF YOU, MY SON"

MARSHALL SCORES ROOSEVELT

NORWICH, Conn., Oct. 4.—The attitude of Col. Roosevelt, "is that of a man without whom civilization cannot longer survive," declared Gov. Marshall of Indiana here last night in a speech devoted almost wholly to an attack upon the progressive presidential candidate. "If he should break a leg or lose his voice, would that 'damned crook,' Judge Anderson, be compelled to appoint a receiver for our liberties?" continued the democratic nominee for vice president.

"It is time for sober consideration when the ambition of one man would lead us, if he is essential now, can we ever get along without him? I should be in despair if I thought the sober judgment of the people would choose him for permanent president of the United States. I do not so believe. This American character will find that the star has arisen on November 4th next without his crowing. Yet it is well for us to be on our guard. Snapping is more dangerous than assault. There is no dissenting voice in all history to the never-ending warning against the ambitions of popular men. 'Caesar thrust away' the crown, each time more gently than the last. He thrust it away because it was consecutively tendered him. 'A word to the wise American should be sufficient. If you can't get along without Roosevelt now, when can you?' He says it will take forty years to accomplish his work. If he does not live that long, who is to complete it for him? Some one he has trained to succeed him? He trained Taft to succeed him, and Taft has failed. If Roosevelt is essential to the republic, it is best unless reformation is true; and if reformation is true, he is the spirit of Caesar or Napoleon. Mr. Roosevelt went into the Chicago convention admitting that certain delegates were honestly elected. He went in as a republican to eliminate the delegates declared by him to have been dishonestly elected; a majority of the delegates, in fact practically all the delegates, adopted the platform. It must have been satisfactory to Roosevelt and his supporters as they did not oppose it. If Roosevelt were contending for principles, why did he not fight the platform and then, if defeated, bolt? Instead, he bolted a man. 'It will be a sorry day for America when anyone becomes essential to its onward progress. Heaven has been kind to me in limiting my influence. It would be a distinct ill if anyone should deem me essential to good government, or if I should deem myself essential. Times, customs, governments, civilizations may change but the menace of life is the man who thinks he is essential to society.'

MILITARY DRILL

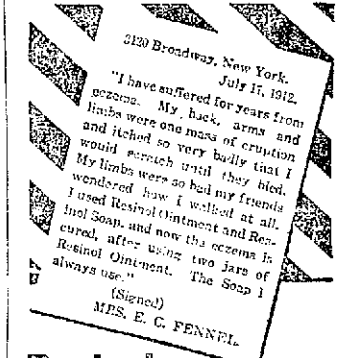

To Be Held on Grounds of French Orphanage in Pawtucket Street on October 12th

A large number of guards from the French American Volunteer brigade of New England have replied in a favorable manner to the invitation which was sent them to participate in the military contest which will be held on the grounds of the French American orphanage in Pawtucket street on Oct. 12, and it is expected at least 15 guards from various places of the New England states will be in attendance.

According to the terms of the contest each guard will drill 10 minutes, and suitable prizes which will consist of a silver trophy and three gold medals will be awarded the winners. The prizes, however, will be distributed only in the evening at a box party which will be held at St. Joseph's college hall. Among the local guards which are to take part in the contest the delegates declared by him to have been dishonestly elected; a majority of the delegates, in fact practically all the delegates, adopted the platform. It must have been satisfactory to Roosevelt and his supporters as they did not oppose it. If Roosevelt were contending for principles, why did he not fight the platform and then, if defeated, bolt? Instead, he bolted a man. 'It will be a sorry day for America when anyone becomes essential to its onward progress. Heaven has been kind to me in limiting my influence. It would be a distinct ill if anyone should deem me essential to good government, or if I should deem myself essential. Times, customs, governments, civilizations may change but the menace of life is the man who thinks he is essential to society.'

Jacques-Cartier and A. G. Cadets. The judges will be three officers from the M. V. M.

Jesse Burkett, To Quit
Report has it that this will be the last year of the veteran Jesse Burkett in the game. He has been part owner and manager of the Worcester team of the New England league for several years. He planned to go into business in Worcester at the close of this season. Kitty Bransfield, now with Montreal, whose home is in Worcester, is talked of as the man to succeed Burkett at the head of the team.
